Dominion May Be Forced To Import Butter Stocks As Actual Shortage Looms

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—With butter prices at high levels, prospects are seen that Canada will be forced to import butter during the coming winter.

No decision has been made, and none will be made without the full consent of the department of agriculture, since a vital issue affecting dairy policy is involved. Hon. J. G. Gardiner is visiting Western Canada at present, but will be back before Christmas.

The war time prices and trade board has power to fix butter prices and it has not used it. But price-fixing is not the answer to the actual shortage that is now imminent, officials think. If the statistics are dependable, it is possible to argue that within four months, say next April, Canada will be without butter entirely for a few weeks until the normal spring production comes in.

FOUR ALTERNATIVES

At least four alternatives are available in meeting a butter shortage, and officials are studying them. The government may:

1—Restrict the use of butter for candy, ice cream, and similar purposes deemed non-essential, and possibly restrict also the sale of cream to divert more into butter production.

2—Open the door to imports.

3—License the import and domestic production of oleomargarine, as in the last war.

4—Establish rationing.

Fairly substantial supplies exist in Australia, notably in New Zealand, if the British government is willing to release the butter and shipping space to bring it to Canada. At present Canada imports for re-export about 200,000 pounds of New Zealand butter, which goes to the British West Indies and Newfoundland. But no imports of butter for domestic use have been admitted for some time.

OLEOMARGARINE LIKELY

At some later stage in the war, Canada may have to turn to oleomargarine, as in the last war, but that stage has not been reached yet. Margarine is banned in Canada, chiefly as a result of the energetic dairy lobby maintained in national affairs. The product is palatable and economic, according to its advocates, and can be produced at 20 cents a pound compared with present butter prices of 37 cents.

In the last war margarine came into the Canadian menu in October, 1917, when imports were licensed and production allowed under supervision of the department of agriculture. As a precaution, the regulations then in effect have recently been studied afresh in the light of the present situation.

The only winter price comparable to the present level to be found in the record of the past decade was in February, 1938, when the Montreal average price went to 35.75 cents. The main argument for price fixing at present comes from the consumer and producer. Butter now being sold at 34 or 35 cents was mostly purchased by dealers last summer at around 23 cents. Allowing half-cent storage per month, the dealers are cashing in on a bullish market with profits up to 50 per cent, with higher prices in sight.

Reasons behind the butter shortage are lowered production, higher consumption, and efforts of dairy industry to meet Britain's cheese requirements at the expense of butter production. For the three months, September, October and November, butter production was down five million pounds compared with 1939, and of this 3,500,000 pounds of the decline occurred in September. Higher consumption is ascribed to increased purchasing power due to the war.

If Cream were cut down on the Canadian table, the threatening butter shortage might ease, some circles believe. Cut down candy and ice cream and the threat would disappear, they say.

Rationing is regarded as the most complicated solution to war time food problems by most officials. It is not likely to be adopted.

LORD LOTHIAN DIES IN UNITED STATES

British Envoy Passes In Washington After Illness Of Three Days

Ambassador Was Reported "Slightly Ill" on Wednesday—Uremic Infection Is Announced As Cause Of Death

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—The Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, who had helped negotiate American "short-of-war" aid for his homeland, died here today after a brief illness. He was 58 years old.

Death came at 2 a.m. and was attributed to a uremic infection.

He had been indisposed for almost a week and was taken seriously ill Sunday night. News of his illness was suppressed, although yesterday, at the time of his scheduled address before the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Baltimore, he was reported "slightly ill."

The address, in which he predicted a British victory over Germany in 1942, was read by Neville Butler, embassy counsellor and his ranking aide.

INDEFATIGABLE WORKER

He was an indefatigable worker for the British cause and took a leading role in British purchases of American planes and munitions, often paving the way for the official British missions which attended to the details of the buying.

Lord Lothian speech, delivered for him to the American Farm Bureau Federation last night, will be found on Page 8.

He continued to work long hours in the room at the embassy where he had confined himself, and directed as far as possible the work of his colleagues.

U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull indicated at a press conference that the Washington state department is considering the possibility of offering an American cruiser to carry Lothian's body to England. Hull said this question is being given attention along with other matters in connection with the ambassador's death.

Ever since he had taken over the ambassadorial task—on the eve of the outbreak of war—he had set new precedents for his post. Unlike his predecessor, Sir Ronald Lindsay, whom he succeeded on Aug. 30, 1939, Lothian met frequently with the press and made many public addresses.

Shortly after hearing news of Lord Lothian's death, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol at the state department, and Ray Atherton, chief of the division of European affairs, and Political Adviser James Clement Dunn made arrangements to call at the embassy to pay their respects.

RELAYED TO PRESIDENT

The news also was relayed to President Roosevelt, now cruising in Carribean waters, via naval radio. It was expected that he

Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Expert
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

ITALIAN reports of fighting in the Bugbug area indicate the British are now fighting half-way between Sidi Barrani and the Libyan frontier with the Italians in retreat. Difficulties of terrain, however, should soon begin to aid Italian defensive plans if the British press forward much farther.

Unless the Italians have been thrown into serious confusion and reinforcements are delayed, the British thrust may be expected to slow down beyond Bugbug. However, the fact that Cairo reports the capture of more than 20,000 Italians in the brief operations around Sidi Barrani suggests lack of co-ordination in the Italian ranks.

To reform his retiring troops and strengthen them by heavy additions from Libya are now Marshal Graziani's major problems. He should be using his superior air force to try to hold up the British offensive, but it seems apparent that the Italian fliers are not making the most of the situation, perhaps due to more modern British planes and wider experience of the British pilots.

As the fighting gets nearer to the Libyan frontier, the British are facing cliff formations, reaching in some cases a height of 1,000 feet or more. These hills may be presumed to have been strongly fortified with artillery by the Italians.

NATURAL DEFENCE

They constitute Egypt's western border defences, but when the Italians advanced toward Sidi Barrani last September, the British made no serious effort to defend the cliff positions, due to inferiority of men. Now, in turn the escarpments are a natural defense for Libya against an army advancing

PREMIER ASKS ACCLAMATION FOR CAMROSE

Urges Social Crediter For Seat Without By-Election

An acclamation for the Social Credit candidate, when one is chosen, in the Camrose seat vacated through the death of Hon. D. B. Mullen, was urged Thursday by Premier William Aberhart in a statement issued to the press.

The premier stated that it had become an accepted procedure in by-elections in Canada since the war started for parties to agree to allow a vacated seat to be refilled by the party whose representative held it prior to a vacancy being created.

PRESENT STRUGGLE

The purpose of this, he said, was to allow the people to devote their entire energies to the present great struggle, without the disturbance of internal controversy.

Premier Aberhart's statement follows:

Replying to numerous requests from newsmen regarding the forthcoming Camrose by-election, I may say that it was as recently as March 22, 1940, that the representation from the various parts of the province was settled for another legislature. Everyone knows that there was keen interest shown in that election and that, under the transferrable ballot, the majority spoke in each case.

A common desire on the part of all loyal citizens to pursue the war effort unhampered by the handicap of internal controversy has created a precedent for the conduct of by-elections in war time.

DEVOTE ENERGIES

The basic purpose of the custom of filling seats by acclamation in by-elections is to permit our people to devote their energies, with as little disturbance as possible, to their whole-hearted co-operation and support to the greatest struggle of the ages; the struggle between democracy and totalitarianism, between individual enterprise and regimentation.

There can be no doubt that elections, in the persent day, are very intense and would distract the attention of the people from the greatest challenge of the hour. For this reason in many provinces and in nearly all by-elections, the various political parties have had a tacit understanding that the party which won the seat in the previous election should be allowed to fill the seat again by acclamation. This would not only prevent a disturbance among the people but would free them of a considerable expense which, under the present circumstances, they can not well afford. The question therefore arises "Why should Alberta not follow the custom?"

There can be no argument to support any claim that a representative of another party should be sent to

Dies Thursday

HON. MR. JUSTICE A. A. McGILLIVRAY, judge of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Alberta since 1931, who died in Edmonton Thursday, after a brief illness, at the age of 56.

M'GILLIVRAY PASSES HERE ON THURSDAY

Judge Of Alberta Supreme Court Dies Following Brief Illness

Judge of the Supreme Court of Alberta since 1931, Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray died Thursday morning following a heart attack. He was 56 years of age.

Born February 12, 1884, at London, Ont., son of Rev. Daniel McGillivray and Isabella McGillivray, he was educated at St. Francis college, Richmond, Que., and Dalhousie university, Halifax.

He married Miss Margaret Hall at Quebec in 1911, and has one son, William, attending the University of Alberta.

K.C. IN 1909

He started his business career in Western Canada in 1907 and in 1909 was created a King's Counsel. He practised at Stettler from 1908 to 1910 and from that date was partner in the firm of Tweedie and McGillivray until 1921.

PARTY LEADER

In the Dominion election of 1911 he contested the Red Deer constituency for Conservative interests, but was defeated. He was appointed leader of the Conservative party in Alberta in 1925 and was first elected to the Alberta legislature in 1926 as member for Calgary. He resigned as provincial leader in 1929.

Members of the legal profession were astounded and plunged into gloom at the death of Mr. Justice McGillivray. He was held in the highest esteem by members of the judiciary and the bar and his sudden death came as a tremendous shock.

Mr. Justice McGillivray was taken ill during the December sittings of the appeal court here, but his illness was not considered serious at that time. He leaves his wife and son in Edmonton.

TWO-MINUTE SILENCE

In supreme court chambers Mr. Justice W. R. Howson paid tribute to the late Mr. Justice McGillivray and called for a two-minute silence in his memory. I. B. Howatt, senior member of the bar present, paid tribute for the members of the bar.

Mr. Justice McGillivray was in good health Wednesday and had been working at the court house on an appeal court judgment. He had suffered an attack of influenza recently, but had apparently fully recovered.

He was preparing to go to Calgary when the fatal heart attack occurred, and was found by his son.

Reporter Watches Greeks Rout Crack Italo Troops In Hand-To-Hand Combat

By HENRY T. GORRELL

WITH THE GREEK ARMY IN THE LAKE OCHRIDA VALLEY, 10:30 p.m., Dec. 9.—(BUP)—(Delayed)—I stood in a trench today and watched Greek troops charge across a flat no-man's-land and up the side of a hill to rout what were said to be two of Italy's crack Bersaglieri regiments from one of the most formidable heights in this sector in hand-to-hand combat.

The battle will have a place in the history of this war. A hellish artillery barrage was still raging when I left and I had to run through two miles of mud, drop-

Churchill Says Best Part Of 3 Divisions Are Possibly Taken

Whole Coastal Region In Hands Of British Imperial Troops, Premier Announces —Pursuit Westward Continues

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Reuters news agency reported from Cairo today that the latest Royal Air Force reconnaissance indicates a general Italian retreat is developing in the western desert. British aircraft were relentlessly bombing and machine-gunning Italian troops as they fell back from Sidi Barrani.

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today that most of three Italian divisions, including numerous Blackshirt units, may have been destroyed or captured by the British offensive in western Egypt, where pursuit of Italians in the direction of Libya continues "with the greatest vigor".

"The whole coastal region, with the exception of one or two points still holding out, is in the hands of British Imperial troops," Churchill said in discussing the recapture of Sidi Barrani, on the Mediterranean coast of Egypt.

"It would not be surprising if at least the best part of three Italian divisions including numerous Blackshirt formations, were either destroyed or captured."

More Than 20,000 Prisoners

"The pursuit westward continues with the greatest vigor," Churchill said, adding that 7,000 prisoners already had arrived at Marsa Matruh. Cairo dispatches officially estimated the total number of prisoners at more than 20,000.

The Prime Minister said that results of the desert fighting, which ended for the time being at least any threat to Egypt or the Suez canal from Libya, constituted a victory "of the first order" in the African theatre of war.

Military sources commenting on the Egyptian developments said that from 28,000 to 34,000 men were believed to have been encircled and captured by the British in the Sidi Barrani area and that British naval units in the Mediterranean were shelling the Italians as they fell back toward Libya, where they must pass through a narrow bottleneck on the frontier near Sollum if reinforcements are not able to halt the retreat.

Churchill, speaking just before the House of Commons went into secret session to discuss the axis attacks on British shipping, said that there were various additional captures of Italian troops and material in addition to original encirclement of the Sidi Barrani triangle.

"While it is too soon to measure the scale of these operations, it is clear they constitute a victory which, in this African theatre of war, is of the first order," he said.

The British air force and navy is shelling the road over which the Italians are retreating, he added, while mechanized forces keep up the pursuit on land.

ANXIETIES REMOVED

Churchill recalled that anxiety regarding the defense of Egypt was acute three or four months ago but said "these anxieties have now been removed and the British guarantee that Egypt would be defended against all comers has been in every way made good."

The Admiralty earlier said the British Mediterranean fleet was shelling Italians fleeing from Egypt into Libya. It said in its communique:

"The Royal Navy continues to play its part in disorganizing the Italian retreat in North Africa. Both heavy and light units of the Mediterranean fleet continually are harassing Italian communications. Our ships have heavily bombarded

Border Clash With Un-Named Forces Reported In Russia

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Red army border guards reported today that one man had been killed, two wounded and 23 captured in a "frontier clash" with armed forces of "intruders." The location and date of the fight were not disclosed.

A despatch to the newspaper Comsomol Pravda, describing the encounter briefly, said two Soviet detachments halted the band at the border, received reinforcements, and then rounded up the band after a brief exchange of fire.

The Russian force was said to have suffered only one casualty.

YUGOSLAVIA TO SIGN TREATY WITH HUNGARY

Conclusion Of Agreement Is Expected Today In Belgrade

By J. REILL' O'SULLIVAN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Informed sources said Wednesday night negotiations between the Hungarian and Yugoslav foreign ministers have reached the state where the signing of a pact of friendship and consultation may be expected, probably today.

Previously, it had been thought conclusion of the agreement would await a visit to Budapest by the Yugoslav foreign minister, Alksander Cincar-Markovic, but it was said subsequently this visit might be postponed until January, when there is a possibility of negotiations for a non-aggression pact.

Diplomatic circles predicted Belgrade would be the host, possibly next week, to another foreign minister—Ivan Popoff, of Bulgaria—but of this there was no official confirmation.

Some political quarters saw a Hungarian-Yugoslav rapprochement as forming the cornerstone of the Axis plan for a "new Europe." To this, Hungary is committed. Yugoslavia has offered to co-operate provided her independence and territorial integrity are not endangered.

Among the day's unconfirmed reports was one that Sukru Saracoglu, the Turkish foreign minister, would confer shortly with Popoff.

All this was interpreted by some neutral diplomats here as evidence of an axis desire to bring Yugoslavia and eventually Bulgaria and Turkey closer to the tri-power alliance without asking Bulgaria and Turkey to join up outright.

Newsmen To Quit

BITOLJ, Yugoslavia, Dec. 12—(AP)—Police last night ordered all non-resident newsmen covering the Italo-Greek war from the Yugoslavian border to leave the district today. The step was explained as a measure to guard Yugoslavian neutrality. Local reporters, however, may continue to send out dispatches.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

the Legislature from the constituency of Camrose. It would not change very materially the government's majority. In fact, there is no justifiable advantage to be gained by contesting the seat in this case. Thus far the only suggested nomination has been the leader of the C.C.F. party, who run in the last election and was defeated decisively. The people of Canada have been told over and over again that the C.C.F. party is progressive in its ideas; that it stands for monetary reform, the alleviation of oppression and poverty and so forth. The Social Credit Party will continue to fight for all of these things so that electors who support the C.C.F. philosophy would be efficiently represented if an acclamation were accorded the Social Credit candidate to save the expense of an election.

It would, therefore, seem to many who do not wish to be bothered with an election at the present time that the C.C.F. action in proposing to run a candidate against the Social Credit representative is hardly playing the game and is belying the progressive claims of the C.C.F. Party.

ACCLAMATION

I am quite satisfied that, if the C.C.F. will refrain from nominating a candidate, the Independents will also agree to an acclamation for the Social Credit candidate.

In my estimation, we have reached the time when all progressive parties should lose sight of their petty differences and unite in one grand attack upon the entrenched forces of appression, poverty and reaction.

In this connection, it would seem to me that the voting public will have a definite basis of deciding who are the forces of progress by their reaction in circumstances such as these.

SITTINGS ADJOURNED

Sittings of the supreme court of Alberta were adjourned Thursday morning by Mr. Justice Ives in respect to the late jurist.

Addressing the court Mr. Justice Ives said: "Gentlemen, I propose to adjourn until 2 o'clock. You have no doubt heard this morning of the death of one of the members of the bench and of the law society of this province, Mr. Justice McGillivray. I think we will pay the respect due him by this adjournment. I cannot express my feelings of regret nor the sympathy I feel for his family. We all know him. The knowledge that he brought to the discharge of his duties and his unremitting labors in the performance of his duty will be very greatly missed in this province, not only by the bench and bar but by the public.

J. F. Lymburn, K.C.: Will your Lordship allow me to express on behalf of the Bar Association our great regret at the passing of Mr. Justice McGillivray. It was my privilege to be associated with him not only in the work at bar before him as a judge, but also in the legislature of the province, I can only concur in what your Lordship has said as to the great loss the province has suffered, as well as his personal friends and I would like to associate myself with the condolences you have extended to his family.

S. Bruce Smith, K.C.: My Lord, I can only say that it is difficult for me to express myself. I have been associated with Mr. Justice McGillivray for some years, and it is a terrible shock under the circumstances.

CAPABLE JURIST

Premier Aberhart, attorney-general: In the death of Mr. Justice McGillivray, which has come as a terrible shock, Alberta has lost not only a very capable jurist, but one of her most brilliant minds. My acquaintance with him extends back many years to the time when he was in private law practice in Calgary. Even then he was recognized as a man of outstanding abilities which marked him as a valuable power for leadership of thought and which, in a brief space of time, elevated him to a position of prominence in the Alberta Legislature.

As a member of the House he gained the respect and admiration of his associates for his vigorous method of address and his keen insight into problems which faced the people and the country. As a jurist he has always upheld the high traditions of the bench to which he brought his full capacity of balanced judgment, knowledge of the law and a deep understanding of human nature. I take this opportunity to extend my heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved.

Chief Justice Hon. Horace Harvey: It was a very great shock to me when Thursday morning I heard that Mr. Justice McGillivray had died from a sudden heart attack. The loss to the court, to the province and to the public will be very great indeed. To me, it is, in addition, a very great personal loss. He was one of my dearest friends.

The late Mr. Justice McGillivray had a very distinguished career at the bar, being engaged in some of the most important cases, not merely in this province but elsewhere in Canada. He made regular appearances before the supreme court of Canada and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

In addition to his legal and judicial experience he served his country in the legislature for several years during which he was leader of the Conservative opposition, to which service he devoted an enormous amount of time and energy at much personal sacrifice.

LEFT HIS MARK

Mr. Justice Frank Ford: The shock of the sudden death of my friend and colleague is greater than I can express. By his great ability he has left his mark on the jurisprudence of this province and indeed of Canada, not only in constitutional but in other cases, and his work as counsel in many important cases will long be remembered by his brethren of the bench and bar.

PROFOUND REGRET

George B. Henwood, K.C., deputy attorney-general: The department of the attorney-general profoundly regrets to hear of the sudden passing of Hon. Mr. Justice McGillivray.

His brilliant career at the bar is well-known and upon his appointment to the Supreme Court of Alberta as a member of the appellate division he brought to the discharge of his duties a mind well-trained in all branches of law and a wide experience as a counsel both in civil and criminal matters.

The law officers of the Crown have always appreciated the painstaking care and industry which he applied to all cases coming before the court, and feel that not only the bench and bar, but the province at large have suffered a great loss in his untimely death.

E. W. S. Kane, secretary of the Alberta Law Society: It is with very sincere regret that I learn of the death of Mr. Justice McGillivray. During his most distinguished career at the bar in Alberta he was engaged as counsel in many very important cases and was known and highly respected by bench and bar alike.

His interests were not, however, confined to the law, as his public service as a member of the legislature bears witness. To the bench he brought those attributes of ability, honesty and fairness which has characterized his work as counsel.

Neil D. Maclean, K.C.: I was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Justice McGillivray. He was indefatiguable in the discharge of his duties. His unfailing courtesy and his sympathy made him beloved by both bench and bar alike.

UNTIMELY DEATH

G. H. Steer, K.C.: The untimely death of Mr. Justice McGillivray is an irreplaceable loss to the province of Alberta. His career on the bench, regrettably all too short, was characterized by a profound knowledge of the law and an untiring industry directed always to the search for sound legal principles. He has consistently maintained those legal safeguards for the liberty of the individual which have always been the pride of the English common law. With his passing, we lose a distinguished lawyer and a great judge.

H. H. Parlee, K.C.: It was a great shock to me this morning to learn that Mr. Justice McGillivray had passed away. Prior to his appointment to the bench he had been an outstanding lawyer and for many years was one of the leaders of the bar in this province. While a member of the judiciary he was recognized as a great jurist. Mr. Justice McGillivray had a high sense of duty and his judgments reflected a mind which dealt with the issues clearly and without bias or prejudice. In his death the court has lost a prominent member and the province a great servant.

George B. O'Connor, K.C.: Before his elevation to the bench in 1931 Mr. Justice McGillivray was the recognized leader of the Calgary bar. His great ability made him an exceedingly able judge. He had a host of friends and the whole bar of the province will mourn his loss.

SIAM WILLING TO WITHHOLD FURTHER RAIDS

SINGAPORE, Dec. 12—(CP)—Thai (Siamese) communique issued in Bangkok today said the Thai high command was willing to withhold further attacks in the two-month-old border warfare with French Indo-China if the colonial authorities would agree to do likewise.

The communique also reiterated Thailand's readiness to define the frontier in accordance with international practice if Indo-China would send negotiators to Bangkok.

(A report from Hanoi today said communications had been re-established with Bangkok but it did not state whether negotiations were in the offing.)

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 12—(AP)—French Indo-China planes were reported today to have carried border warfare a considerable distance into Thailand (Siam) with two raids on Thai airports.

Night raiders dropped three tons of bombs on Undorn airfield and on Sakonlakon airport, about 35 miles west of the Thailand border town of Lakhon, leaving fires burning, it was said.

Many Killed

MANILA, Dec. 12—(AP)—Known deaths from last week's typhoon reached 81 yesterday with the report of Governor Manuel Calleja, Albay province, that 60 persons had been killed on Catanduanes Island. Hundreds were injured, the report said, and several were missing. The storm struck the island late Friday.

These are men who, in the Great War of 1914-18, rushed to the colors and went to the defence of democracy, even as the young men of today are doing.

Let the young men now going forward, see that, should they suffer on foreign fields, that a grateful public will not forget them. Prove this to them by showing that the men who have done their bit are remembered. This can be done by forwarding a donation to The Not Forgotten Fund. There are only 11 more shopping days until Christmas. This means that time is fast slipping by. To insure that your donation is made send it in today.

In donating to The Not Forgotten Fund, you make certain that a veteran who has given of his best years to King and Country will have a good time at the most festive season of the year. Surely that is a satisfying thought.

Calgary Man Is Heavily Fined For Running Lottery

CALGARY, Dec. 12—(CP)—For conducting a lottery in which thousands of Albertans and residents of Saskatchewan participated month by month for years, E. M. Campbell, Calgary, was fined $1,000 by Judge J. W. McDonald in district court here yesterday.

A few moments after the fine was imposed, Campbell paid the sum to the clerk of the court.

Mr. Blanchard said Campbell was the sole conductor of the lottery of the Mutual Benefit Association of Alberta and Saskatchewan Transportation Association.

DUKE WINDSOR'S HEALTH PROVES TO BE AT PEAK

The physicians reported the former king, at 46, in excellent general health and physical condition. Their report confirmed the impression of his youthful, almost boyish appearance.

It showed the result of his energetic life of sports, which he has continued to pursue as governor of the Bahamas, where he plays golf, swims in the surf and bicycles about the Island of New Providence.

For the checkup, the Duke used the facilities of St. Francis hospital, where he took up quarters with his staff to be close to the Duchess during her operation and recovery.

He scrapped plans for returning to Nassau by ship tomorrow, because the Duchess' operation developed more seriously than expected. Capt. Vyvyan Drury, an aide, said it was certain the royal couple could not leave Miami before Monday at the earliest.

New York States 3 British Ships Sunk By Germans

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—The sinking of three British ships, one of them the 6,665-ton former United States tanker La Brea, was reported Wednesday by the New York maritime register.

La Brea, sold to London interests last May, was torpedoed Aug. 24 off Scotland. The master and firemen were killed. The crew landed in the Hebrides.

The 4,608-ton freighter Dalcairn was torpedoed and sunk while in convoy about 300 miles off Ireland. Planes bombed and fired the Foylebank, 5,582-ton freighter, last July.

70th Annual Meeting of Shareholders
THE DOMINION BANK

In Strong Liquid Position to Meet War Needs, Says General Manager Robert Rae.

At the 70th Annual Meeting of The Dominion Bank, held in Toronto on Wednesday, December 11th instant, shareholders were addressed by the President, Mr. C. H. Carlisle, and the General Manager, Mr. Robert Rae.

ROBERT RAE, GENERAL MANAGER, REVIEWS BANK'S YEAR

Analyzing the Balance Sheet and the Profit and Loss Account, Mr. Rae pointed out that the Profit and Loss Account now stood at $861,188, an increase of $23,788, over the amount carried forward at the end of 1939. Commercial Loans showed a substantial increase of $15,761,974, and now stand at $74,157,387, said Mr. Rae. This was largely due to the greater amount of money required towards the end of the year to finance the grain crop and the many Government war contracts undertaken by the Bank's customers at numerous points throughout the Dominion.

Deposits by the Public

Deposits by the Public, he noted, totalled $121,698,160, showing a relatively small decrease of $1,616,453 from a year ago when it was considered that during the past twelve months approximately $22,000,000 had been withdrawn by customers for subscriptions to the First and Second Dominion War Loans. Non-interest-bearing deposits totaled $41,075,839, an increase of $3,097,156, and interest-bearing deposits totaled $80,622,320, a decrease of $4,713,610.

Mr. Rae pointed out the strong liquid position of the Bank. Cash assets of $28,955,390 were equivalent to 20.82% of public liabilities, while readily realizable assets, including Government, Municipal and other bonds as well as Call and Short Loans, totaled $71,524,716, or 51.43% of public liabilities.

The Bank's Investments

Regarding the Bank's investments, Mr. Rae said: "The Bank's total investments amount to $38,489,761, compared with $60,649,317 on the 31st October, 1939, and are entered on our Statement at less than market price. Our holdings decreased $22,159,556 during the year through our disposing of securities to meet the increased demand for loans. The portfolio consists largely of Dominion and Provincial Government issues, of which $21,217,931 mature within the next two years."

Call and Short Loans in Canada totaled $2,269,722, a decrease of $1,090,707, those elsewhere than in Canada $1,547,893, as compared with $2,398,947 a year ago. Both are adequately covered by readily marketable securities. Commercial Loans showed a substantial increase of $15,761,974, standing at $74,157,387. Loans to Cities, Municipalities, etc., stood at $1,247,842, showing an unimportant decrease.

Equipped for War

Mr. Rae stated that $150,000 had been written off Bank Premises. No new buildings were erected nor was any land purchased during the year, but alterations had been made to several offices, and premises had been leased for a new main office in Hamilton. One new office was opened, and one old one closed. Tribute to the loyal co-operation of the Bank's staff was paid by Mr. Rae.

"While the Empire is engaged in a devastating war," remarked Mr. Rae, "it is a satisfaction to be able to again assure you that your Bank continues in a sound position and is well equipped to provide the industrial, commercial and farming interests of this Country with banking facilities of every nature required for the successful prosecution of the War, which must be the primary objective of each and every one of us."

PRESIDENT C. H. CARLISLE DISCUSSES CANADA'S ECONOMIC POSITION

In opening his presidential address, in which he touched at length on Canada's war and post-war problems, Mr. C. H. Carlisle referred to the excellent service given by the Canadian Banks during more than fifty years, and to the improvement of The Dominion Bank's position due to reduction of its investment portfolio and increase of its loans. "There has been a revision in the Bank's system of operations which has materially simplified the work, made it more current and more efficient, and has also given a greater freedom of action and placed a greater responsibility on our branch and department managers. This is as it should be."

In spite of the great toll exacted of Canada by the War, this country had an abundance of those things, material and human, which are essential to a sound and prosperous nation, and was therefore a field for safe investments, said Mr. Carlisle.

Canada a Sound Investment

"Investors may hesitate, and some have hesitated, in making investments in Canada due to our being at war. They are cognizant of the great toll exacted of us in resources, money and men. But there is another picture of Canada. Her crops are abundant; her granaries are full to overflowing; her mines are producing large quantities of various metals; her factories are at maximum production and many more factories are in process of construction; her forest products are at a high peak of production; her banks are sound and are providing for the requirements of expanding business; her per capita natural wealth is likely greater than that of any other country; her laws are equitable; her courts are of high standing; her laws are enforced; her people are of a creditable level of intelligence, law abiding, resourceful, and meet with courage from day to day the problems that confront them. All of these things are essential to a sound and prosperous nation, where safe investments may be made.

War Brings Debt

"Thinking people throughout the world are appalled at the destruction of this war. What we have accumulated for ourselves and our families and others who are dependent upon us is now being liquidated. Several generations following us will labor under the burden of debt now being accumulated. Art, buildings centuries old and many other things we hold dear have been and are being destroyed in pitiless succession."

But while Canada had achieved remarkable progress in most things attempted, she could not boast of a high degree of efficiency in her political and governmental administration, Mr. Carlisle believed.

Must Cut Government Cost

"With all of her opportunities she found herself, prior to the outbreak of the present war, with a municipal, provincial and national debt of slightly less than eight billions of dollars. Some of the causes contributing to our utterly unnecessary debt are: the establishment of ten separate governments to govern eleven millions of quite intelligent and law abiding people; the construction of luxurious and expensive public buildings and the maintenance of same to house an unwarranted number of officials and a retinue of staff; the payment of large sums of money for projects that were not essential to the people's interest although, no doubt, of political value. We trust that these practices are in the past. From coast to coast our people must have taken on a new courage when Prime Minister Mackenzie King issued an invitation to all the Provincial Premiers to meet him in Ottawa to assist in creating a new order, a better condition. It must be kept in mind, though, that the remedy does not consist merely in the shifting of debt from one geographical area to another, but in the elimination of duplication and waste. In such saving no province should fear discrimination or loss, as every province has in our governmental institutions a representation proportionate to its population. As citizens and regardless of political affiliation we should lend every aid to both the Dominion and the Provincial Governments to revise the B.N.A. Act, to bring it in keeping with our current requirements, to simplify to the nth degree the operations of government, to reduce costs not only within our ability to sustain but within our ability to liquidate."

Unsound Economics and War

"Canada is setting about to measure up to her responsibilities. The cost is tremendous. She will carry on as long as her manpower and her resources permit," said Mr. Carlisle, paying a tribute to the "heroic endurance" shown by the British people in the Battle of Britain, and the "high intelligence, penetrating analysis of the things to be done, courage undaunted, decisiveness of action, and just and kindly consideration for all" of Prime Minister Churchill in his leadership of a people seeking to free itself from Hitler and Mussolini and their "inordinate and brutal demands."

"The world has not forgotten, nor could it forget, the devastation of the last war. It brought no permanent peace—it solved no problems national or international. Should not these wars and the history of other wars be sufficient for us to ascertain the causes that produced them, and then deal with those causes? The astonishing progress made in medicine and surgery lies largely in the discovery of the cause of the disease and in destroying it, rather than treating its effects. Unsound economics, inadequate distribution, inequality of trade—wherever they exist—cause unrest and discontent among the people, and thereby create fertile ground wherein the shrewd, heartless and ambitious agitator gains destructive power and domination. If there be a major cause of war, this seems to be the cause.

Democracies Have Changed

"The world not so long ago was very large. We then knew but little and cared but little about such countries as China, Japan, Australia, or even the South American States. Communications and rapid transportation now make all these our next door neighbors. They know what we have and how we live.

"Our manner of living make it difficult for us to evaluate these changed conditions. We have been raised under the aegis of democracy. We enjoyed it. We idealized it—but truly a different aegis exists today. Democracies have changed from a government of the people, by the people and for the people, to a government by a political party for the benefit of a political party. They are entangled in a procedure that makes them inefficient and uneconomic."

Eliminate Waste

"We cannot enter this period unprepared and achieve success," he declared. "It is equally the responsibility of the individual and of governments to join in a common effort to see, insofar as we can at this time and chiefly by the resolute elimination of waste, that all our essential activities meet post-war conditions well equipped and adequately financed. The individual must not be crushed by the burden of taxes, the absence of profit, unemployment and the embarrassment of the dole until all hope is gone. This can be averted if taken in time. The remedy, as I have said, lies largely in a drastic economy—both individual and national—a greater production, a greater foreign trade.

Must Develop Trades

"We can no longer enshroud ourselves in the cloak of nationalism. Our hope lies in internationalism. We can no longer wait for trade to come to us. We must develop it. Much of the wealth of the world is contained on this continent—a great part of it undeveloped. This is especially true of Latin America. What has Canada done to share in the trade or the development of new trade in these countries? Practically nothing. South America produces much that we can use and should purchase. She is capable of developing a much greater variety of goods than she now produces. If this doctrine is to be unified under the Monroe Doctrine, and avail itself of its own climatic and geographical advantages, we must do a better job than we have done in the past. We must get acquainted."

An Opportunity in Latin-America

"At this time Brazil has on hand certain commodities in larger quantities than the market will absorb—for instance, coffee and corn. That country is burning corn for fuel and out of this year's crop has already burnt ten million bags of coffee and in addition has a surplus of about ten million bags. We likely could take more of this coffee and more of this corn, and Brazil could direct her labor into other productive channels and grow less corn and coffee. Her valuable timber areas could be developed. Her rare hardwoods should find a market in United States and Canada.

"Brazil is the home of the Heva or rubber tree. Rubber growing could have been a real industry there, even if it required the importation for a time of some skilled Dutch East Indian labor. Had this been done, Canada and the United States would be now buying from her annually one and one-half billion pounds of rubber at a present value of three hundred and thirty millions of dollars, and these amounts would be ever increasing. Our supply would then be dependable—our trade relations would be better. All the great rubber plantations of the Far East owe their origin to Brazil. Multi-millions of Western money have been and are invested in Far East plantations. This investment is now in jeopardy and our supply of rubber requirements is in doubt. Without going further into this matter, Latin-America affords a great opportunity to the United States and Canada for trade and mutual industrial helpfulness. We have neglected this opportunity. Some European countries have not."

Make Democracy Work

"Perhaps Great Britain, and certainly Canada, France and the United States of America failed to understand the new and adverse forces that were rising throughout the world, and failed to co-operate to prevent them from attacking the democratic system of economic, social and political freedom," continued Mr. Carlisle. "Democracies became less efficient, less economic, more harmfully dominated by political parties. They adopted methods and misconstrued principles, to the undermining of the entire system. Totalitarian states are, at least visibly, efficient and efficiency appeals to most people. We do not want totalitarianism. Can democracies continue to exist on their recent past or their present performances? We think not. Can they be so operated to give a greater freedom, a greater efficiency, a greater effectiveness in world affairs? We think they can. How can we bring about this better state of affairs?—by liberating our statesmen from the shackles of party bondage, so they may unrestrictedly serve the people best; by reducing the number of governments and lightening the awful load of government machinery; by re-organizing the franchise so the unfit and unworthy do not have equal rights with those who work and produce and pay. In this respect Australia has made at least a commencement."

Liberty Not License

"We believe in the liberty of press, of speech, of thought, but there is a line between liberty and license," concluded Mr. Carlisle. "If liberty is to continue, license in speech and license to agitate cannot be permitted to destroy liberty itself. It is hoped these distressing and perilous times will make all conscious of the necessity of change, so that the fundamental institutions of democracy may still be our inheritance."

Thousands Of Road Blocks, Designed To Impede Invader, Guard North Ireland Roads

By SAM ROBERTSON

BELFAST, Dec. 12.—(CP)—A thousand and one road blocks of cement and steel, designed to impede any invader, guard the myriad highways of northern Ireland.

They are the strongest and finest devised to date by the military mind and are a vast improvement over the type that once dotted the highways elsewhere in these embattled isles.

There is good reason to believe Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton may claim credit for improvement of these vital blocks—at least for pointing out the need for improvement if not for the actual development.

PROVES HIS POINT

The Canadian soldier-scientist, whose agile mind is, in reality, a mobile research laboratory, was struck with the inadequacy of the blocks he saw in England and elsewhere. He arranged a demonstration to prove his point. The result was startling.

A monstrous 25-ton tank crushed two types of road barriers in the demonstration, staged before enough generals, brigadiers, and other officers to staff an army.

The tank growled into the first barrier and crumbled it, the other block, whose cement and steel made it seem the last word in impregnability withstood the first battering. But a second charge shattered its vital parts.

The lessons learned at this Canadian-staged show appear to have been embodied in the new blocks which guard Ulster's roads.

NOT BEFORE SPRING

Behind these and other defences, Irish, English and Welsh troops are settling down in Ulster for a winter of training and intensive schooling in strategy. While the B. T. I. (British troops in Ireland) is keyed for the possibility invasion may come with tomorrow's dawn, the general belief is a thrust will not be tried before the spring.

A senior staff officer at northern Ireland command headquarters told me the educational part of the training program is designed "to broaden the brain pan of the men."

By fostering individual initiative in battle it should make the army more mobile and the attack more fluid.

RELY ON INDIVIDUAL

He was referred to the plan the Germans carried out with such brilliant success during the breakthrough at Sedan and elsewhere in the low countries and France.

"On the theory that the flanks would somehow be looked after," he went on, "the Nazis plunged straight ahead. Supply and communication lines were left to work themselves ou' while all power was thrown into the attack.

"In such warfare reliance must be placed on individual initiative—on the ability of a junior officer to think quickly for himself and the men under him. That is what we are stressing."

Guard Britain

RONALD CROSS, above, British minister of shipping, declared in a speech to the United States last night that Great Britain could not permit food shipments to Nazi-occupied countries because the first consideration of the government was the protection of British women and children.

BRITAIN MUST CONSIDER OWN PEOPLE FIRST

Minister States Position on Food Proposal For Conquered Nations

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—Ronald H. Cross, minister of shipping, said in a broadcast to the United States Wednesday night that food could be sent to people now under German rule "Only at the cost of the lives of British men, women and children."

The choice, he said, is between "their stomachs or our lives," and added: "We put the lives of our own people first."

"Germany has got to feed these people," he continued, "because it suits the German book that they should be fed, but it would suit Germany far better that somebody else should undertake the task and leave Germany with a greater margin of foodstuffs for her own use.

OBJECT OF BLOCKADE

"And the greater the margin of foodstuffs at Germany's disposal, the longer she can carry on the war."

The British government's object, said Mr. Cross, is to starve German industry, not the German people. The more vegetable fats the Reich has, he declared, the more she would be able to spare for high explosives.

"So the choice lies between hungry Germans—Women and children included—and the lives and limbs of our own people—women and children included.

"We put the release of our own people first."

"If there is want in the territories occupied by Germany, we should like to relieve it, providing we can be sure that the food we send is eaten by the victims of the German eagle," Mr. Cross said.

"But you cannot feed some of the people under German rule without adding to the total German food supply."

WAR OF SACRIFICE

In the present war, every strain put upon the enemy by denying him raw materials or reducing his diet brought him nearer to the cracking point.

"The more we can deny the enemy, the shorter the war and the less our sacrifice of blood and treasure," Mr. Cross said.

"We seek no conquest, we seek no gain. Ours is a war of sacrifice. We shall end it poorer in wealth and mourning our dead. Our goal is to establish for ourselves and others the natural human right to live as free men."

Mr. Cross said the lack of food in German - occupied regions might lead to uprisings against the Nazis. "Highly civilized people don't just wait until they're so starved that they haven't the strength to make trouble," he said, "and Germany can't stand over them all."

Italian Losses

LONDON, Dec. 12. — (CP) — The Air Ministry said last night that 460 Italian airplanes had been destroyed since Italy's entry into the war last June, while total British losses against the Italians were put at 58. (Fascist sources in Rome had claimed 667 "enemy" planes had been destroyed against a loss of 110 Italian planes.)

Greek Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The American Red Cross announced Wednesday plans to ship $500,000 worth of war relief supplies to Greece Dec. 28. The shipment, of clothing, blankets, food and medical supplies, would be taken on at New York by a Greek vessel.

FRENCH ALLIES ARE OPERATING WITH BRITISH

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Units of the Free French forces are operating with the British in the Sidi Barrani district of the western desert of Egypt, it was announced Wednesday in a statement issued by Gen. Charles De Gaulle's headquarters here.

It said:

"In the district of Sidi Barrani advanced units of French troops are taking part in the successful offensive of our British allies. We have taken a number of prisoners and war material.

"The First Battalion of Marines which is fighting in Egypt has been specially mentioned in an army order by Gen. De Gaulle.

"At the frontier of Chad and Libya, Free French forces have completely occupied a zone of French territory which should have been evacuated under Armistice terms, north of the line, Fayafada."

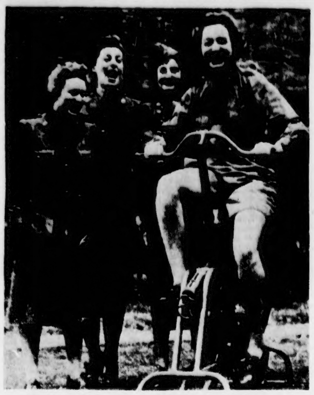
U.S. CHRISTMAS BUYING TO SET NEW RECORDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(BUP) — Commerce department officials predicted Wednesday that Christmas buying would exceed all previous years, including the record year of 1929.

Factory payrolls, they pointed out, are at their highest point since 1929 and income payments are rising to a point where they are expected to reach $74,000,000,000 for the year. This picture, it was said, fits in with general confidence that the present business boom will continue.

The total dollar value of purchases, according to reports, will not be as high as the figure set in 1929. However, because of adjustments in price levels, the actual volume of merchandise will be considerably greater.

Candles and pine knots dipped in pitch followed early types of lamps. Whale oil came centuries later, then the kerosene lamp and coal gas lighting and, finally, electric lighting.



Relaxation From Battle Of Britain

Girls members of an American ambulance corps in England are shown getting their exercise by riding an electric bicycle during their off-duty period. There are 260 surgical units in the ambulance fleet to which these girls belong. They work hard, day and night, when their services are needed and must take their relaxation when and where they can between raids.

Text Of Churchill's Statement On Warfare

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The text of Prime Minister Churchill's statement in the House of Commons today:

The house last Tuesday evidently appreciated the full significance of the fact which I announced, without commenting upon it, that a British column had reached the coast between Buqbuq and Sidi Barrani. That, of course, cut through the principal road by which the main body of the Italian army, which had invaded Egypt, could effect a retreat.

CONSIDERABLE OBSTACLE

The question then was whether the encircling positions which General Wilson's forces had captured after their brilliantly executed desert march could be effectively maintained and whether the net so drawn could be forced at all points to the seashore.

The strong position of Sidi Barrani and various fortified ports in this neighborhood appeared to be a considerable obstacle.

However, Sidi Barrani has been captured and the whole coastal region, with the exception of one or two points still holding out, is in the hands of British and Imperial troops.

Seven thousand prisoners have already reached Mersa Matruh so far. We do not know yet how many Italians were caught in the encirclement but it would not be surprising if at least the best part of three Italian divisions including numerous blackshirt formations, had been either destroyed or captured.

PURSUIT CONTINUES

As Sidi Barrani was the advanced base of all Italian forces which had invaded Egypt and were preparing for further inroads, it seems probable that considerable masses of material may be found there.

I may be able next week to make a fuller statement. In the meanwhile pursuit to the westward continues with the greatest vigor. The Air Force are bombing and the Navy are shelling the principal road open to the retreating enemy and considerable additional captures have already been reported besides those which fell in the original encirclement.

While it is too soon to measure the scale of these operations it is clear that they constitute a victory which in this African theatre of war is one of the first order and which reflects the highest credit upon Sir Archibald Wavell, Sir Maitland Wilson, staff officers who planned this exceedingly complicated operation, and upon the troops who performed the remarkable feat of endurance and daring which accompanied it.

The whole episode must be judged upon the background of the fact it is only three or four months ago that our anxieties for the defence of Egypt were acute.

These anxieties are now removed and the British guarantee and pledge that Egypt would be effectively defended against all comers has been in every way made good.

DUTCH WARSHIP CAPTURES NAZI SHIP OFF CUBA

LONDON, Dec. 12. — (BUP) — The Admiralty announced today that seamen of The Netherlands gunnery training ship Van Kinsbergen fought their way aboard the German merchantman Rhein and captured it despite attempts by its crew to scuttle it and set it afire.

The Van Kinsbergen is a compact warship of 1,760 tons built on destroyer lines, with four 4.7-inch guns in its main battery and a crew of 190 officers and men.

The Admiralty said it intercepted the Rhein in West Indies waters yesterday.

Members of the Rhein crew, who had taken their ship out of Tampico, Mexico, in an attempt to run the British blockade, fired their ship at once and tried to scuttle it. A boarding party of the Van Kinsbergen got aboard the Rhein and prevented the scuttling attempt.

Thus the four German freighters which have been trying for three weeks to run the British blockade from Tampico, Mexico, are all accounted for today. Two have been scuttled; one is in the possession of the Netherlands destroyer Van Kinsbergen; and the other is still tied up at Tampico with engine trouble.

To Expand Navy

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The admiralty has appealed for officers to expand the naval forces, asking for applications by mercantile officers, qualified engineers, yachting men, civilian air pilots, executives, former naval officers and medical and dental practitioners. The age limit is fixed at 55 years. Most of the posts will be filled by men now serving as ratings but the extensive recruiting campaign is aimed at obtaining as many volunteers as possible from civil life.

More Admiralty Control Over R.A.F. Coast Command Will Help Battle Nazi Subs

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Britain is seeking to meet the menace of submarines and long-range German flying boats to shipping in the vital western approaches by increasing the Admiralty control over the Royal Air Force coastal command and by providing it with additional planes.

Prime Minister Churchill in announcing the new policy in the House of Commons Tuesday resisted, however, agitation for a divorce of this service from the Royal Air Force and then placing it directly under the admiralty.

For some time there have been suggestions that the admiralty alone should direct the work of these shore-based planes which escort convoys and hunt submarines.

INCREASE NECESSARY

The R.A.F. has operated the command in consultation with the admiralty. Mr. Churchill said the "operational policy of the command must be determined by the admiralty, of course, in consultation with the air officer commanding in chief.

Mr. Churchill told the House he had reached the conclusion that while there is no need at present to change the coastal command as part of the R.A.F., it is necessary that the command should play a more important part than hitherto in trade protection, and for this purpose a substantial increase will be necessary.

The question was raised by A Hopkinson, Nationalist, who asked the prime minister to take steps to end "Newspaper intrigues in this connection and particularly those newspapers controlled by Lord Beaverbrook," the minister of aircraft production.

PAPER ANSWERS

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard has been urging more planes for the navy and naval control over shore-based aircraft.

Replying to Mr. Hopkinson in an editorial the Standard yesterday said it believed the experiment of the fleet air arm had proven so successful it might usefully be extended.

The paper argued the admiralty has the biggest task to fulfil in this war and since it is responsible for bringing ships here it should have direction over all means to do it.

Faces Charge

CALGARY, Dec. 12.—(CP)—charged with manslaughter arising from the death of Aircraftman James Beise, 20, R.C.A.F., after a car accident on the Banff trail November 12, Ivan Smith, 22 was remanded for trial in criminal court, by Magistrate I. F. Fitch in police court Wednesday. Bail was set at $1,500 and a dangerous driving count was withdrawn.

PROMPT ACTION ON HIGHWAY TO ALASKA SOUGHT

SEATTLE, Dec. 12—(AP)—The Alaska northwest emergency defence committee announced after a meeting here Wednesday night that it had wired an appeal to Washington for immediate launching of the proposed highway to Alaska to provide "adequate transportation for defense and development."

The resolution called for prompt action because "the president has ample authority already to purchase or lease necessary right-of-way" and "Great Britain is willing to trade for necessary funds and expanded credits in this country, thus leaving only the mechanics of the transactions to provide immediate beginnings of work."

The cost of the project, utilizing available roads northward in Western Canada, is estimated at $25,000,000.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—The international joint commission on the British Columbia-Alaska highway project is investigating the "feasibility" of Canada granting to the United States a "corridor" for the highway in return for transfer of additional American warships to Britain.

Indian Burial Ground Unearthed On Columbia River

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Dyking operations along the Columbia river uncovered a vast Indian burial ground yesterday.

Hundreds of bones, most of them crumbling at a touch, were turned up by bulldozers just east of Portland. Numerous arrow heads were also found.

John Eliot Allen, state geologist, estimated the bones had been in the ground at least 100 years. Because there was no evidence of orderly burial, it was speculated the bones were those of a tribe completely wiped out in the reported epidemic of 1829-1832.

LINER SIGHTS SHIP THOUGHT TO BE RAIDER

BOSTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—Officers of the American export liner Exemplar reported upon arrival Wednesday that on Dec. 1 they sighted a camouflaged vessel, painted gray on one side and black on the other, off the South American coast, and they believed it to be the German raider which engaged the British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle last Thursday.

The craft, they said, upon approaching, presented her black side, on which was painted the name "Scottish Trader." Her entire forward deck was concealed by a huge tarpaulin, they added, but two guns were plainly visible aft. After slowing down, about a mile from the Exemplar, the stranger swung away to the southwest at a speed much greater than expected of a vessel of her appearance, the officers said.

U.S. Version Of Hitler's Speech Peeves Germans

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Nazi sources complained Wednesday that United States accounts of Hitler's speech yesterday interpreted it as though Germany was out to lick the entire world.

These sources asserted Hitler merely pitted against capacity for work against gold, giving this translation of his remarks on this point:

"The German capacity for work is our gold. It is our capital, and with this gold I can defeat any other power in the world."

(The Associated Press translation from the German of the passage in question read: "Our capacity for work is our gold, our capital; and with it we will defeat the entire world.")

ECONOMIC WAR CHANGES LIFE OF CANADIANS

F. G. Winspear In University Address Explains Conditions Facing Nation

"War is devastating and cruel as much in an economic sense as in a military sense," said F. G. Winspear, assistant professor of accounting, prominent city business man and custodian of alien property for Alberta, at a meeting of the Philosophical Society of the University of Alberta Wednesday night in the University Medical building.

Speaking on the topic "Canada and the Economic War," Mr. Winspear pointed out that the economic phases of a war are not only to divert as much as possible of the productivity of a nation into the production of armaments and supplies, but also to maintain as far as possible a stabilized internal condition.

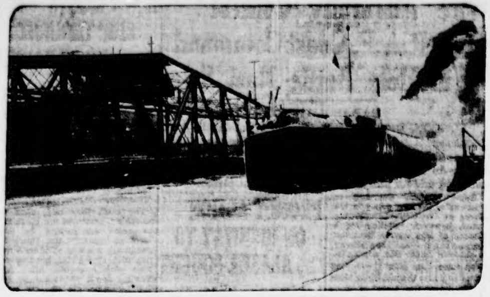
"This particular war is an idealogical conflict and economic idealogies are more than significant," continued Mr. Winspear, "and the adjustment of internal economies and a propogation of nationalist economy have all tended to enhance the bitterness of this economic war."

WAR AND ECONOMIES

Discussing further the relationship between the economic and the military side of the present war, Mr. Winspear said that "an economic blockade of the Axis powers and their occupied countries, cannot be carried on without the military co-operation of the British fleet, and, conversely, the effectiveness of military operations is largely dependent on the capacity of industry to repair and replace losses of equipment and supplies."

"Germany commenced her economic war at least four years before she invaded Poland, and the methods which she adopted were complicated and ingenious, in many instances stooping to political blackmail and military pressure," said Mr. Winspear.

"Unfortunately," continued the speaker, "it is possible to camouflage economic warfare in the same way it is possible to camouflage military operations, and Germany employed her shortage of foreign exchange, the depressed condition of her industries and the number of her unemployed as a camouflage for her industrial preparations for war. Germany, bankrupted by the depression, wore precisely the same aspect as Germany strenuously preparing for war, and the similarity in this connection was not ignored for propaganda purposes.



King Winter Wins First Round With Freighter

The Redwood, Great Lakes freighter, is caught by the freeze-up in the Lachine canal, in Montreal, near Cote St. Paul bridge and is unable to budge against the rapidly thickening ice-jam. Tramways have been unable to cross the bridge, which had opened to t the ship go through, and have been depositing their passengers at each side of the canal.

U.S. POSITION

Discussing the United States' position with respect to the totalitarian powers, Mr. Winspear said that it was not one of "unneutral non-belligerency, but actually her position with respect to Germany and Italy is approximately the same officially as was Italy's toward Great Britain and France before her entrance into the actual military operations—unequivocal assistance in an economic sense without actual military operations."

"The speed with which legislation was passed at the commencement of war, indicates that much careful thought and attention had been brought to the matter before war was commenced," said Mr. Winspear in referring to Canada's part in the economic war.

Legislation adopted under the War Measures Act that particularly concerned this part of Canada's war effort Mr. Winspear pointed out was that regarding the Foreign Exchange Control Board, increased taxation and limitations on profits and regulations respecting trading with the enemy.

PROMPT ACTION

To strengthen Canada's economic was effort, Mr. Winspear said, "the treasury took prompt action to augment the financing of the war, by internal borrowing and to that end instituted publicity to encourage savings and divert them into government channels, while at the same time numerous advisory committees and supply boards were created, with personnel composed of technical experts from all parts of the country."

One interesting example of the effectiveness of the Foreign Exchange Control Board that Mr. Winspear pointed out was that, which to a greater extent than any other has affected the average man, that respecting restrictions on the availability of funds for tourist purposes. As a result of this measure a considerable amount of money was spent in Canada for holiday purposes which otherwise would have been exported to United States, with a resulting strengthening of the Canadian exchange.

EVER ON GUARD

Duties of the custodian of alien property were enlarged upon by Mr. Winspear in his discussion of regulations respecting trading with the enemy. Regulations provide for the appointment of inspectors by the custodian with rights to examine the books of any concern suspected in any way of trading with the enemy. Transactions that involve the buying of merchandise for shipment to neutrals untimately intended for enemy countries, are watched closely by the custodian, who exercises supervision over the operations of Canadian manufacturers and producers in this regard.

Regulations also provide for the separation of property from enemies in this country, and such property becomes vested in the custodian of enemy property, Mr. Winspear, who holds that position for Alberta, pointed out. Internal and other liabilities are paid off, and the balance is held until the conclusion of hostilities with final disposition dependent upon peace arrangements.

Another duty of the custodian is to take control of illegal organizations and so far 27 such organizations have ben taken over since the outbreak of war.

HUSBAND RESOURCES

The vital necessity of carefully husbanding our resources and diverting as much as possible of our national production to war purposes was also pointed out by Mr. Winspear.

"In 1940 the Dominion government will spend 1,600 million dollars in the ordinary cost of government, in war purposes and in the repatriation of Canadian securities calculated to assist the United Kingdom," said Mr. Winspear. "This figure will probably increase to over two billion dollars in 1941, which with the ordinary cost of municipal and provincial government, will mean that one half of the national income will be turned over to the respective governments."

PROFITS RESTRICTED

Concluding his address Mr. Winspear said that regarding Canada's economic effort both from "The aspect of excessive profits during the war, and from the aspect of any material or financial help which can be given an enemy from Canada, the necessary mechanism has been set up, and is being administered with a view to restricting war profits and eliminating all help to the enemy."

Next meeting of the Philosophical society will be held on January 8, when Dr. Robert Newton will speak on "The National Research Council: A Public Institution."

HEALTH BOARD WOULD PREVENT DOGS IN SHOPS

Edmonton's public health board spent a busy 30 minutes Wednesday as members discussed ways and means of keeping dogs out of stores, especially those stores selling food stuffs.

It was finally agreed to make an appeal to merchants and the public to co-operate in the more strict observance of the health ordinance prohibiting the entry of dogs to stores.

Dr. G. M. Little, city medical officer, admitted anxiety on the part of many merchants in this matter, adding that the public ought to do its share too by keeping their dogs outside while shopping.

"It is embarrassing sometime for a merchant to have to ask a customer to take his dog out of the store," Dr. Little stated. "And," he added laughingly, "sometimes the dogs themselves take a pretty grave view about being put out by the merchant."

American housewives spent more than $12,000,000 on spices of all kinds during the past year.

LEGAL POINTS IN OENE CASE UNDER REVIEW

Magistrate Adjourns Hearing To Study Questions Raised By Counsel

Stating that the outcome of the crown's case probably rested entirely on the admissability of certain statements made by accused to detectives after her arrest, Magistrate Millar Wednesday said he would have to consider the points of law raised by counsel, in adjourning the case of Mrs. Jean Van Oene, on charges of Defence of Canada Regulations infractions, until Monday next at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Van Oene is charged with advocating and defending the principles of an illegal organization and with distributing literature of an illegal organization. The organization in question, is alleged by the crown to be the outlawed Jehovah's Witnesses. Garrett Van Oene, husband of the woman now on trial, J. W. Ketler and Wardman Langstraff, face similar charges, but hearing of their cases await verdict in the one now before the court.

Arrests were made following the distribution of pamphlets entitled: "End of Nazism," in the residential district of the south side and the west end of the north side.

The statements in question are alleged to have been made to Det. Murdo Munro of the city police and Det. W. C. Russell, R.C.M.P., in the office of Police Matron Mrs. Emma Pennyfather.

Testifying Wednesday, Mrs. Pennyfather said she had heard the detectives ask Mrs. Van Oene several questions, which accused had answered freely.

Defence Counsel J. N. McDonald objected to the statements being put in as evidence by the crown, on the grounds that even if the statements were made freely, if the person being questioned had the impression that she must answer, the rules of evidence were not being complied with.

C. G. Purvis, K.C., counsel for the crown, admitted that the case for the crown was hardly likely to succeed unless the statements of Mrs. Van Oene were admitted.

Draws 12-Month Term For Robbing Farmer's Cabin

Pleading guilty to breaking into a farmer's cabin and stealing a quantity of clothing after helping himself to a hearty meal, Harry Amies, of no fixed abode, was sentenced to serve one year in Fort Saskatchewan jail by Magistrate Millar in police court Wednesday afternoon.

Accused had a lengthy record of robberies, including prison terms served in the United States.

LIEUT. FIELD TRANSFERS TO FLYING FORCE

Lieut. Charles Field, recently adjutant of No. 19 company, Canadian Forestry Corps, C.A.S.F., has transferred to the Royal Canadian Air Force. He has the rank of flying officer and will leave Friday for Brandon training centre.

He has been a city employee for 20 years, for the past four years of which he has been chief accountant in the comptroller's department.

Prominent in sport circles, he was business manager of the Maple Leaf Athletic Club. In the Great War he served with the Imperials. Flying Officer John Stewart MacDonald also will leave Friday. He was formerly an accountant with Burns and Co., Ltd., and has received his discharge from the army, in which he enlisted as a private.

French To Meet

A meeting of the France Quand Meme (France for Ever) Aid to General Charles de Gaulle will be held in the Memorial Hall on Friday evening, December 13, at 8:30 o'clock.

While it hovers in the air, the tiny humming bird beats its wings at the rate of 40 strokes a second. A rate of 70 strokes a second is required for its flight takeoff.

PRODUCTION OF WAR SUPPLIES IS MOUNTING

Production of supplies in Canada's war effort is growing and is approaching the proportions which Canadians expect, it was reported by Rt. Rev. A. S. Tuttle, principal of St. Stephen's college and moderator of the United Church of Canada, who returned this week from a four-week trip in eastern Canada.

"The seriousness of people in regard to the war situation was evident everywhere," Dr. Tuttle said. "It was clear that the Canadian public is keyed up now to a recognition of what is involved. One found evidence of it wherever one went—travelling, at hotels, in government circles and, of course, in the industrial areas."

On his trip, which he made in connection with his duties as moderator, Dr. Tuttle gave 44 addresses and sermons and attended official conferences and presbytery meetings and 15 complimentary banquets.

Must Edmonton Be Bombed
(Like Coventry, Birmingham, Bristol)
Before We Face Realities

Our cities could be bombed and might be bombed, unless we use all our strength, and marshal all our resources in men, material and money for defence.

What a magnificent example of sacrifice and service the people of Britain's cruelly racked cities set for us!

We Canadians must measure up to their standards of heroism.

You ask: "What then can I do as a civilian to share in our defence?"

The answer is: "All of us at least can save to the limit of our ability, and lend our savings to Canada to help carry on the fight against the Nazi menace".

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER, start saving and give leadership. Urge your employees to save. If you have not already done so, organize for them a War Savings Payroll Deduction Plan—the most convenient method for saving and lending to Canada. Get 100% of your organization to participate; EVERYONE must share in it to assure the $10,000,000 a month needed.

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYEE, start saving. Give whole-hearted co-operation to your employer in organizing a Payroll Deduction Plan. Use all your influence to persuade fellow employees to save and invest in War Savings Certificates. And keep on saving and investing until Victory is won.

Just as the war is being fought day by day, so must the cost be met day by day. That is why the flow of saving and investing in War Savings Certificates must be continuous.

No one need go without actual necessities to save, but we urge you not to buy things which compete for labour and material with war production.

would issue a statement through the White House here.

Lothian's most important task in recent days was to pave the way for possible American financial aid. He first broached the subject from the White House steps after he had called on Mr. Roosevelt following his return from a trip to London.

He had given unofficial recognition to Britain's financial problems prior to his White House visit when, on landing in New York from a Transatlantic Clipper plane, he said:

"It is well known that our financial problem is urgent. If we are to get through 1941—which we believe will be a tough year—something will have to be done about finances."

Later, Lothian turned his energies to more pressing business—the large scale acquisition of American planes, guns, tanks and ships—as the tempo of the war increased.

He first came to Washington as the successor to Sir Ronald Lindsay, Britain's veteran emissary and a leader of diplomatic society in the capital.

Lothian, reputed to be a member of the so-called Cliveden set in Britain which believed in appeasement of Germany in the early days of German-British difficulties, brought a business-like administration to the embassy and won a host of official friends.

Less than a month ago, Lothian returned to the United States after first-hand inspection of the damage inflicted on his homeland by German bombers.

TOLD OF FINANCE NEEDS

He consulted almost immediately with President Roosevelt and, on leaving the White House, announced that Britain neededmore American planes and munitions, together with U.S. financial aid, to make her war effort successful.

His allusion to possible American financial aid marked the first time that a responsible British or American official had alluded to the matter publicly.

It was understood that despite his illness during the last week he had continued to work hard and long hours in his room, consulting frequently with his aides and directing their activities.

His duties were made more arduous by the presence of a British financial mission, headed by Sir Frederick Phillips, British undersecretary of the treasury, which had arrived here to negotiate for possible assistance with U. S. treasury officials, following Lothian's own allusion to his nation's dollar needs.

Reported Killed

Air General Aldo Pellegrini, above, was one of those reported killed when an Italian military plane, carrying members of the Italian Armistice Commission, crashed. All on board the plane, which was en route from Rome to Turin, died in the crackup.

Lothian Death Is Shock To London

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—The death of Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, came today as a great shock to London, where he was regarded as a remarkably successful envoy.

The appointment of Lothian by the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was first received with skepticism in British dplomatic quarters, but his critics later admitted that he had been remarkably successful in gaining American support for Britain since the outbreak of the war.

Sir Gerald Campbell Pays High Tribute

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Sir Gerald Campbell, high commissioner for the United Kingdom, today paid tribute to Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States who died in Washington.

"I feel a personal loss in the passing of one who has given me his friendship over many years," said Sir Gerald. "But the death of Lord Lothian is far more than that—it is a national loss suffered at a time when men of his directness, sincerity and energy are badly needed.

"His name can assuredly be inscribed on the casualty list of this war for he has not spared himself ever since the war broke out, and only recently he flew to Great Britain and back expressly to see for himself what the position is and thus be a better interpreter to our friends in the United States.

J. P. Moffat, U.S. minister to Canada, said:

"I was shocked to learn of Lord Lothian's death in Washington. I had known him as a friend for many years. In the course of his service as British ambassador to the United States he had won the admiration and confidence of all who dealt with him."

REPORTER SEES GREEKS ROUT ITALO TROOPS

ping to my knees and crawling when shells screamed unpleasantly close, to reach my car parked on the Koritza highway back of the lines.

I reached the front Sunday night, slept in an Albanian peasant hut in the centre of the battle zone, and watched the Greek attack start early this morning.

After more than 1,000 heavy, medium and light shells had been exchanged, the Greek infantry charged.

BUGLERS SOUND "ADVANCE"

Greek buglers sounded "advance," and the Greeks spread out over the plain on the double. 'Italian shells threw up geysers of mud and shrapnel about them.

One shell fell between two mules and when the smoke cleared the mules were still there, uninjured. A grinning soldier in the trench beside me picked up a piece of shrapnel that had glanced off his steel helmet and threw it disdainfully at the Italian line.

After the Greek infantry moved up, the Greek cavalry came in, sweeping both flanks.

GUNS CRACK VICIOUSLY

Heavy Greek shells, fired from hidden batteries miles behind us, sounded like squadrons of airplanes as they roared over us into the Italian lines. Closer behind, Greek 75-millimeter guns cracked viciously.

When the Greek artillery fire lulled, the Greek bugles sounded new charges.

The French fighting phase of the battle lasted only about 45 minutes. The Italians reinforcing the sector had been flown to Albania from Brindisi six days earlier, it was told.

I talked to an Italian prisoner captured in the first half hour of fighting. He said, "The Greek guns are deadly. Scarcely an Italian machine gun nest has not been hit. It is hell. We have barely eaten lately. Supply trains were unable to climb the muddy mountain trails."

The Italian gunners seemed to be firing wildly. I noticed that only about one in five of their shells exploded. The shelling continued from both sides, however, long after the Greeks had won the field.

Badoglio Opposed Greece Campaign

ROME, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Roberto Farinacci, editor of Il Regime Fascista, indicated today that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who resigned last week as Italian chief of staff, had told friends that he was opposed to the Italian campaign in Greece, and that more divisions were needed to start it than he had at his disposal.

the focal points of the Italian retreat at Sollum, near the Egypt-Libyan frontier, and at Bardia on the Libyan coast."

GIFT OF MATERIAL

"If our hope proves well founded a big stock of Italian war material which has been accumulated at Sidi Barrani since Sept. 18 becomes a gift, an ample gift even if not freely offered to our forces," military quarters said here.

Three Italian genarals captured by the British in taking Sidi Barrani were identified as Sebastiano, and Amando Pescartore, mander, and Amando Pescartore, and Gen. Mezzari, divisional commanders.

Military quarters recalled that exactly three months ago today the Italians crossed the Egyptian frontier to march 80 miles to Sidi Barrani which they reached Sept. 18.

"The position now is greatly changed," military quarters said. "The combination of the frontal attack on the Italian left wing and at Maktila (15 miles east of Sidi Barrani) and the thrust through the Italian right flank enabled our forces to reach the coast in the rear of Sidi Barrani."

British Overwhelm Perimeter Forts

By PHILIP TAYLOR

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—British mechanized forces fighting eastward across the desert toward Libya were officially reported striking continuously at retreating Italian troops today after capturing more than 20,000 prisoners.

"On the western desert our advanced troops are in contact with the Italian forces which are continuing their withdrawal westward," a general headquarters communique said, indicating that the Fascist retirement was of a general nature.

In addition to three generals captured earlier, the communique said that hundreds of Italian officers and war materials including tanks and guns were seized after the recapture of Sidi Barrani.

DISTANCE NOT KNOWN

The extent of westward advance by British forces past Sidi Barrani was not clear, but the offensive originally had sliced through the Italian lines well behind the Fascist advance base, which is about 75 miles from Libya.

(The Italian communique, reporting fierce fighting near Bugbug, indicated that the British had covered almost half the distance from Sidi Barrani to the Libyan frontier.)

British naval units and airplanes continued to co-operate with the motorized forces, blasting at the retreating Italians and bombarding rear bases to disrupt movement of reinforcements and supplies.

Italian resistance was reported stiffening, but advices from the front said that the British continued to hold the upper hand.

In addition to the prisoners taken, believed now to be well over 20,000, it was understood that an enormous amount of Italian war equipment fell into British hands. Each of the perimeter camps or forts surrounding Sidi Barrani had been completely armed and supplied for an independent stand.

WARSHIPS ACTIVE

A British naval communique issued here disclosed that warships continued active against the retreating Italian forces.

"During the night our naval forces have been harassing the enemy retreating along the coast and bombarding enemy columns on the rouds around Sollum," the communique said.

Thus it was indicated that all the way from Sidi Barrani back to Sollum on the Libyan frontier the Italians were under the fire of British warships as well as bomb machine gun attacks by British planes.

The British were now reported to be operating well west of Sidi Barrani, primarily seeking to reduce all the Italian perimeter camps and to cut off completely the entire 30,000 men defending the area.

It was conceded that many of these men might have succeeded in filtering through the British encircling lines and escaped toward Libya. But it was asserted that thanks to the co-operation of the British navy and air force they would have no chance of regrouping and forming new defense lines.

GRAZIANI RESTRAINED

There was speculation here why Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, the Italian commander-in-chief, had permitted the British forces to undergo intensive training for months, in preparation for this drive, when he knew that he had superiority in numbers and equipment, and had already started an offensive which Italians expected to take him to the Suez canal.

It was suggested that Benito Mussolini might have restrained him, believing that Great Britain would collapse and permit an Italian walkover.

It was believed that the British would soon control at least 300 of the 1,200 square miles which the Italians had occupied in Egypt. But there was no indication how far the British drive would be pushed, and specifically there was no assurance that they would feel it worth while to press on to the Libyan frontier after shattering the Italian advance lines, because their own defence lines, carefully prepared on selected terrain, are a considerable distance to the east of Sidi Barrani.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—War Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John Dill, chief of the Imperial general staff, sent the following message of congratulation today to Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief, Middle East:

"On behalf of all ranks of the army serving at home and in other theatres, we send to you and all under your command congratulations on your victory (at Sidi Barrani.)

"Your brilliant stroke has delighted us all and filled us with pride."

from Egypt as the British are doing.

Halfaya pass is the key to the plateau which may be said to defend the Libyan frontier against the British. The plateau runs to the Mediterranean coast, touching the sea at Sollum. A frontal attack against the plateau would be costly, if the Italians are in good position and have not been caught unawares.

Whether it is of sufficient advantage for the British to try to force the Italians all the way back into Libya must depend on the local strength of the Italian plateau and escarpment defensive positions. If the British can break through, the accomplishment would be somewhat similar to the Great German plunge through the French line west of Sedan last May.

EFFECT ON MORALE

The gain to the British by such an operation, however, would be far less in military importance than the advantage the Germans obtained in France. Nevertheless, the gain through weakening Italian morale might make the effort worthwhile.

The more the British go forward, however, the farther away is their main base of supplies at Mersa Matruh, about 100 miles east of the present scene of operations. Communications are not difficult between Mersa Matruh and Sidi Barrani for motorized traffic but the main difficulty is the supply of water.

WATER PROBLEM

If the Italians retired from Sidi Barrani too precipitately for them to destroy the water wells in that district, then the British will be in a more favorable position to keep up some of the momentum of their advance. Otherwise, the water problem will become important.

As it is, however, even if there be no further British progress, the Italians have suffered the grave loss of their advanced base at Sidi Barrani, the fruit of three months' work destroyed in three days. This should mean that eastern Egypt is freed of an Italian invasion threat in force for an indefinite period.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BRITAIN'S offensive in Egypt, besides driving the Italians out of their important supply base, Sidi Barrani, is having powerful repercussions on the Mediterranean war map from Gibraltar to the Suez canal.

In the eyes of invasion-dreading Balkan neutrals, including Turkey, the British successes virtually have nullified for months to come the possibility of a Nazi-Fascist march eastward to crack the British sea blockade. That is sharply reflected in abandonment by Turkey of nightly "black out" precautions against possible German or Italian air attack.

The neutral Balkan trio—Turkey, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia—already stoutly resisting German political and diplomatic overtures with strong indications of Russian backing, give signs of even greater anti-axis leanings. If the British attack in Egypt produces another Italian army disaster it will clinch that obstacle to Berlin's grand strategy in the east.

FRANCO MAY WAIT

The effect on Spanish policy of Italian reverses at the hands of the British and the Greeks must be reckoned with. Gen. Franco is probably much farther from actively joining the axis partnership than he was a few days ago. He also may wait and see what happens in Egypt. British apprehension over the Gibraltar Bastion cannot be great.

The Italian setbacks have put a crimp of such size in Fascist military prestige and potential striking ability that it is questionable whether Italy has not been shifted from the asset to the liability column in Hitler's war books.

The jeering from Berlin at events in Albania and Egypt, characterizing them as mere passing episodes of the war and not of serious effect on axis grand strategy, ignores one vitally important factor. That is that the British stroke in Egypt already has cut down imponderably Marshal Graziani's chances of renewing his own attack even if he escapes destruction or rout of his forces. He is using up precious stores of fuel and munitions that cannot be replaced through Britain's sea blockade; using them in a fight for life, not for attack.

BENITO ON DEFENCE

The same thing is happening to Fascist forces still hop-skipping backward in Albania. Mussolini is reported to be pouring additional troops into that Italian Balkan bridgehead. They have yet to find a defensible line backed by debarkation ports, roads and railways.

The Greek advance is pushing the retreating Italians into the narrow circle of the lower-lying coastal plateau of central Albania, surrounded by commanding foothills. Again Mussolini's slender war stocks are being used up in defence, not offence.

ITALO FORCES DRIVEN BACK AT 2 POINTS

Attempted Counter-Attacks Prove Failure—Losses Are Heavy

ATHENS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Italian forces were reported today to have attempted counter-attacks at two points in the northern sector of the Albanian front, only to be driven back by the Greeks with heavy losses and lose the positions from which they attacked.

The Greeks were said to have captured a large number of prisoners and much war material.

Italian prisoners were quoted as saying that Royal Air Force and Greek attacks on the airdromes at Durazzo and Tirana, main port of entry into Albania and the capital, respectively, had been so effective the Italians had abandoned the fields.

Fascist engineers were said to be building temporary fields. Bad weather has curtailed air activity of both sides in the past two days.

A pilot of a reconnaissance plane reported that damage at Valona, a secondary port of entry into Albania, had rendered use of the harbor impracticable for large vessels. Piers and jetties were said to have been turned into masses of splintered wood and rubble.

Greek forces advancing up the Albanian coast from Porto Edda toward the heights of Chimara, 20 miles north, are meeting scant resistance, a Greek spokesman said.

Consolidating The Gain

It is said by those who should know that the new bacon agreement will net the farmer within 50 cents per hundredweight for live hogs of the price he obtained under the old agreement. Feed being as cheap as last year, cheaper in some items, the price is considered to give the producer a fair return; large enough to encourage him to make up the increased order Britain has placed with the Dominion.

The new agreement calls for 70 per cent more bacon and hams than Canada sent to Britain last year. The market is assured and the price is assured. This cannot be said of many of the kinds of food the Canadian farmer produces in large surplus quantity. That the order has been so heavily increased is the best possible evidence that last year's shipments were satisfactory as to quality and the "flow" well maintained throughout the year. Canada is thus consolidating the position it gained when Denmark went out of the bacon trade to Britain, which should count for something when war days have passed and competition again becomes keen.

If Canadian buyers show appreciation of this heavy demand for a prime Canadian farm product by buying British goods in like proportion, they will thereby help to stabilize trade relations between the Dominion and the old lands on a mutually satisfactory basis.

Benito To The Rescue?

The capture of Sidi Barrani looks like the beginning of a bad ending of Marshal Graziani's invasion of Egypt. He has spent three months fortifying this position, as the jumping-off place for his intended dash for Alexandria and the Suez Canal, only to lose it in three days. Since he couldn't hold this spearhead, after all the preparation, the chances are he cannot offer prolonged resistance anywhere along his 70-mile communication line or at the Tobruk base. Assuming that he can see any worth while reason for trying to do so, which in the circumstances is doubtful.

The Mediterranean front now runs from the middle of Albania across the Middle Sea to whatever point Graziani's forces still hold on the coast of the Libyan desert. Both ends of the line are being crumpled up. If there is no fighting in the middle that is because the Mussolini fleet is physically or otherwise indisposed for combat.

Port Edda and Argirocastro in their hands, Valona is the next objective of the Greeks, and Durazzo after that. The latter is the sea inlet to Tirana, the Albanian capital. If these two ports are captured, the Italian forces still in Albania cannot get out, nor reinforcements and supplies get in. The few and indifferent remaining harbors are far to the north, with only goat paths for communication lines to and from them.

Unless the heart has gone entirely out of the Fascist forces, the Greeks must expect harder fighting. It is "now or never" for the Italians. If they do not make a stand before their two remaining ports they will have to surrender, for the running is bad farther north—and leads nowhere.

At the other end of the line, British and allied forces made a sudden attack Monday on Graziani's marooned army—marooned because the supply line from Italy is closed. The fall of Sidi Barrani leaves them with the initiative. They have wrecked the Marshal's plans for a spring toward the Canal. General Wavell may now choose to develop his operations into a sweeping attack along the whole Italian position; or to stand pat and let time, hunger and thirst destroy Graziani's army, estimated at a quarter of a million men. So long as the sea route from Italy is blocked, the desert will complete the destruction, even without further help from the allied forces.

A military situation can change quickly and drastically. But the present situation on the Mediterranean front is about as satisfactory as it could be, from the Greek-Turk-Egyptian-British point of view. Even Il Duce recognizes that, for he is talking about going over to Albania to see if his august presence would not inspire his troops there to stop running and fight.

The Paths Of Glory Lead—!

The pep-talk which Herr Hitler gave on Tuesday to munitions workers in one of the still undestroyed factories in Berlin can hardly have evoked the responsive surge induced by some of his earlier deliveries. The circumstances were less favorable for rousing enthusiasm, and the speech was lacking in the chief inspirational appeal of his old-time addresses.

In the main the speech consisted in a recital of stale pretensions of innocence, and a demand for still harder toil. Interspersed were admissions that Germany now faces a hostile world outside the ranks of the gangster alliance, assurances that so long as the Fuehrer lives the war must go on, apologies for having failed to make good the promises, and the usual assortment of falsehoods—running all the way from saying that Britain wanted the war to saying the standard of living in the democratic countries is lower than in Germany.

The objective obviously was to allay discontent, to dispel doubts about the outcome of the struggle, to make it seem that the war is going favorably, but at the same time to get across to the munitions workers and the nation that everybody will have to hustle on the production job if disaster is to be averted. The substance of the long harangue was that Germans are going to have to work harder this year even than they did last. And that must have sounded worse because it is undoubtedly true—and suspected by the hearers to be true despite the megaphonistic romancing of Dr. Goebbels.

The short-war plans have collapsed. So has the complacent assumption that Britain and its allies could not possibly overcome the handicap of super-armament that had been built up for their destruction. The dream of quick and easy attainment of world dominance, with luxury-living for Nazi bosses on the produce of the labor of other people, has been shattered.

Now the outlook is only a drab prospect of hard and ever harder work, as the reserve supplies melt away, and as the multiplying productive capacity of the "obsolete" democracies puts steadily mounting numbers of hostile planes in the air, hostile ships on the sea, hostile tanks and guns in the parking places.

The disillusionment cannot have been pleasing to the shopmen in the Presence, nor to the rank and file who got the jolt from their radio receivers. This wasn't at all the kind of speech they used to hear from the great man. It wasn't the kind of speech anybody likes to hear any time.

After all the promises of fat living on the spoils of a conquered Europe, it must have been positively disheartening to be told by the Final Authority that the paths of glory lead but to—hard work and more of it.

The Ft. William Times-Journal suggests that every Canadian make Canada a Christmas present; by buying a war savings stamp, sticking it on a card and sending it to the Minister of Finance, with instructions to cancel it. Three million dollars would thus be put into the war chest as a free gift; and three million dollars will pay for 120 Spitfires.

This would seem to be a good time for King Zog to go back to Albania and rally his countrymen to help oust the Italians, who invaded their land a year and a half ago with no better excuse than that Il Duce wanted it. They are about a million and a half strong, have a reputation as fighters, and should be able to do some effective guerilla work in a difficult region which they know thoroughly. They cannot be lacking incentive, and hitherto have always been able to find arms when they wanted them. Leadership seems to be the missing quantity.

London: Premier Lloyd George explained in the House of Commons that martial law had been proclaimed over parts of Ireland in order to suppress lawlessness, but that every means would be taken to secure peace on the only terms possible—the unbroken unity of the United Kingdom.

Philip Kerr, Marquess of Lothian, is dead in Washington.

It may be too early to evaluate all his remarkable qualities. But it is not too early to estimate the role he has played in the new accord between the British Empire and the United States.

The close union and understanding that now prevail between the great English-speaking nations are a monument to his memory and a living tribute to his genius for friendship.

He has served our world well.

This information comes from a correspondent who vouches for its truth:

There is an internment camp for Germans located in a summer resort district slightly north of Toronto where five hundred or more alien enemies luxuriate with swimming pools and other comforts of democratic degeneracy.

Every day, a cruise steamer passes this camp.

The captain is a noted patriot and the leader of the ship's orchestra also has zeal. Thus, it became the cheerful custom, every time the boat passed the camp, to play a few notes of "Rule Britannia!" plus the refrain of "There'll Always Be An England."

That practice is stopped now.

An order was sent out from Ottawa that the prisoners must not be thus disturbed.

* * *

Strictly and legally speaking, Ottawa was perfectly right. International conventions, formulated to guide the conduct of war along civilized lines, forbid the imposition of cruel and unusual punishments upon prisoners of war and interned aliens.

And the reiteration, day by day, of the all too obvious facts that England still stood and that Britons never, never would be slaves must have caused anguish to the poor deluded fools within the compound who had thought that Hitler, by this time, would have England in his pocket and Britons in chains.

There is the consideration, too, that any fancied ill-treatment of Germans in Canada would be avidly seized by the Nazis as an excuse to abuse British subjects imprisoned in Germany and the German occupied countries.

It is understandable that Ottawa should lean backwards in this matter to a degree that is sometimes inexplicable to impatient Canadians. The more heartless the Germans become, the more delicately must the authorities handle the prisoner and internee situation.

* * *

But just how are Canadians and British prisoners being treated in Germany?

Apprehensions in that regard are rendered more uneasy in the knowledge, just unearthed, that the Germans are practising euthanasia among their own people.

It has been positively established that the great and glorious Reich is scientifically killing off the weak in Germany so that there will be fewer mouths to feed during the war.

This information comes from the Vatican which never issues such statements without the fullest investigation and the most cautious research.

The thing has gone to such disgraceful lengths that the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office has been moved to publicly condemn the practice of euthanasia.

If the Nazis are killing off their own people for purposes of economy and expediency, what kind of a deal are Canadian prisoners getting?

If they so loathsomely flout the laws of God, what regard can they have for the laws of man?

* * *

Germany, even more than other countries, contributed heavily to the flint-hearted nonsense talked about euthanasia before the war.

Her scientists lustily upheld the theory that the purity and vigor of a race should not be impaired by the brake put upon its momentum by the weak and the unfit.

It was their beastly notion that the insane, the weak-lunged and the diseased should be incontinently put to death.

To the deep shame of our own race it must be recorded that some of our own "progressive" thinkers subscribed to the same scrofulous idea.

Had euthanasia become a law in any civilized country as late as five years ago, her lawmakers would have had on their hasty hands the blood of thousands of ailing folk who have since been cured of insanity with the vitamin-concentrate thiamin or saved from other deadly diseases by the various forms of curative drugs derived from a scarlet dye.

* * *

There is another aspect of this euthanasia business which one would not expect the Germans to understand.

Every spiritual element of British character, for instance, has been formed over the centuries by self-abnegation. Every time the British improved the lot of women, protected the rights of little children and set up machinery to care for the weak and the sick and the helpless, no matter at what cost in money, they not only righted social wrongs but added to their own spiritual strength.

England has not been protected, during these dire days, by might or power. She has been protected by the steel of British character forged into something unbreakable by the fires of kindliness, consideration and unselfishness.

As a cynic once said of God, if there had been no unfit in Britain to exercise the faculty of compassion, it would have been necessary to invent them.

We have another pattern.

"What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost, until he find it?

"And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

"And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep which was lost."

The seaside town of Igumenitsa today possesses only a few dozen habitable dwellings. All other houses are gutted, smoke-blackened ruins. Their walls are not shattered and broken the way bombs always work. There are no gaping, splintered roofs. These two-storey homes were all fired with gasoline and torches by Fascist soldiers just before they retreated 10 days ago. Most of Igumenitsa's inhabitants now have nothing except the clothes on their backs as a result.

In nearby Philiates no house was burned, but I entered shop after shop whose shelves and showcases were stripped of their last usable object, even their last piece of cloth, while virtually everything edible in the townsmen's houses had been either consumed, stolen, or destroyed.

Seventy miles inland, behind the present central front, lies the hilltop village of Doliana. All of the 1,500 inhabitants we met there declared their homes had been systematically robbed and pillaged and all the houses we had time to inspect presented pitiful scenes of destruction.

In several dwellings all the tables and chairs had been burned and of the occupants' personal belongings only a few old clothes had been left untouched. Even trunks were ripped open and wooden chests emptied. All stores were ransacked and all winter supplies of onions, potatoes, wheat and barley taken. Today the people have scarcely anything to eat.

In one three-room dwelling a middle-aged woman broke into tears when we entered. She led us into the cellar, then, pointing at the floor, she said between sobs, "All my wheat is spoiled. They poured kerosene on it. We have nothing to eat. We have no bread; nothing is left."

Despair darkened the haggard faces of every woman we saw in Doliana. One man showed us a little niche built into the wall. "We had a statue of Christ there," he said. "They threw it in the toilet."

These are samples of what the Italian occupation has done to unknown thousands of Greek civilians in border towns and villages throughout this region. I do not know what robbery and destruction occurred in dozens of other mountain villages, but I do know what I have seen.

Not Wanted

Editor, Bulletin: Regarding the question asked by your enquiring reporter on Dec. 2 about giving leave to skilled laborers in the army for work in war industry, it is my opinion that such a course is quite unnecessary for some time. Personally I have filled out every published form dealing with skilled labor, finding that my services are not yet in demand apparently.

The following is part of my record: 1914—passed all trade tests of Personnel Ordnance College, Woolwich, England; immediately given rank of smith sergeant; in Royal Garrison Artillery.

1915—in charge of smithshops at Siege Instructional School, Wiltshire, England.

Served after the war until 1923 as staff smith sergeant with the army of occupation in Germany in charge of smithshops.

Now it seems to me that if the services of a private citizen with the above record are not yet in demand by Canada's war industries then it can hardly be necessary for the government to interrupt the training of enlisted men because of a shortage of skilled labor. Such a shortage would hardly come about until all available non-enlisted skilled labor is used up.

The Church of Canada

Editor, Bulletin: At the recent synod held in Toronto the bishop of Calgary advocated the formation of a pan-Protestant body, dominated by the Anglican episcopal wing and to be styled "The Church of Canada."

The origin of this quaint scheme is as follows: a financial crisis has occurred in the Anglican communion. Contributing causes are manifold. (1) For many years there has been a very lax, inefficient body of clergy holding office. As a result we find that in the words of the greatest of Canadian prelates, Dr. Rocksborough Remington Smith, late bishopof Algoma, the church of England in Canada is 30 years behind the times.

(2) It is based on compromise, disloyalty and Shylock diplomacy. At a recent census in Canada the membership of the Anglican partner only totalled 1,635,516 while the United Church alone rated at 2,017,375. The dominating partner indeed!

(3) Two contradictory systems of faith and morals, discipline and sacraments are mutually exclusive.

(4) Holy orders form an impassible barrier.

(5) Naturally the non-Anglican bodies are unwilling to form a union, unless on a sound basis of equality. The ecclesiastical status quo of the Protestant churches does not find expression in a monarchial form of government by bishops who on their own showing merely belong to the bene esse of the church.

(6) Loyal Anglicans, on their part, will resist to the utmost any scheme of union that infringes on the faith, or the title, or the constitution of their church; that places an impassable barrier between them and the ancient historic churches of Christendom. Accordingly there can be no union with the Anglican church as such on any basis save that of absorption, credal unity, sacramental oneness, and complete loyalty to the immutable principles that govern the whole Mystical Body of Christ.

Glorious is the tradition of the Ecclesia Anglicana. In an unbroken succession she traces her origin back to the Princes of the Apostles, SS Peter and Paul, the glorious martyrs of all time. Noble is her lineage, noble was her founder.

To sum tihs letter up, is it not certain that Daniels, men of sterling principle; not vicars of Bray, not spineless Laodiceans, are the crying need of the church and the age?

God Save the King

Editor, Bulletin: The municipal chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, sponsored a piano recital by Neil Chotem on Sunday evening at the Rialto theatre, and should be congratulated on bringing to this city such an outstanding pianist to assist the chapter in its war services.

It is, however, very regrettable that at the conclusion of such an excellent recital that the playing of the national anthem was omitted. Upon leaving the theatre the writer was informed that "It's not done" to play the national anthem at the conclusion of a recital. In times of peace no doubt it would be embarrassing to request a foreign visitor to sing or play our national anthem at the conclusion of a recital, however, the national anthem is played, if not by the visiting artist, then, by someone previously arranged for.

It is to be hoped that the many who attended the recital on Sunday evening and who expressed their opinions on leaving the theatre will not withdraw any support from such a worthy organization as the I.O.D.E. on account of a little misunderstanding amongst the members of the local chapter.

PATRIOTIC.

That Rejection Button

Editor, Bulletin: Quite sometime ago there was a lot said about buttons for the men who volunteered and were rejected, but nothing has come of it.

Would you please publish this letter in the hope that we can get something done to show that we were willing to go and fight?

A man can feel more at ease in the company of those who are in uniform.

My reason for this is that there are a few boasting about being turned down, who were never near a recruiting station. And the button would relieve the situation.

REALLY REJECTED.

European Relief and Foreign Policy

There is one thing that must be kept clearly in mind regarding any relief assistance to the continent of Europe. It is this: The question of whether or not this country should assist in feeding the wretched nations under Hitler's heel is not merely a humanitarian question. It is a political question, and involves major policy at every point.

We cannot afford to regard it as merely a humanitarian matter. There is too much at stake. This country has appropriated billions for defense; it has conscripted millions of men. The appropriations and the conscription concurred in by the overwhelming majority of Americans, are occasioned by the recognition of a menace to all independent countries, all free men, and all democratic institutions by a combination of powers in Europe and in the Far East, whose openly avowed aim is the redistribution and reorganization of the world, including this hemisphere.

The European wing of the Axis is now being held away from America, and held down in the Atlantic highways, by the British. It is our policy to aid the British by every means short of war. Again, this is a policy to which almost unanimous consent has been given, through both major parties.

It is, therefore, our policy to see to it that nothing whatsoever is done, while we continue arming, that can in any way strengthen the position of the Axis powers whom we clearly recognize on their own say-so and behavior as our possible enemies.

• • •

Policy and diplomacy are weapons of defense no less than tanks and ships and guns. In facing totalitarian powers, engaged in total war, we are greatly handicapped by the diffusion of our democratic forces. The totalitarian powers have a completely integrated policy, and every individual and every economic, political, and social group is forced to collaborate with that policy. There is no such thing as a German business man conducting his own foreign policy, or a German social organization conducting its. The Nazi government has an aim and a program for the achievement of that aim, and everybody plays ball or goes to concentration camp.

• • •

In the face of such concentration, we should decide, it seems to me, to do nothing in connection with the totalitarian governments or their captives, except for a clear political objective, and by, through, or with the consent of our own government. If we permit individual citizens, committees, and corporations to function heterogeneously and independently we shall be undermining the authority of the state department and defeating our own national ends. We shall never be able to act with the highest degree of efficiency in dealing with the completely integrated totalitarian powers. And it must be borne in mind that the coverage of their integration encompasses not only captive governments but unwitting stool pigeons of theirs, in our democracy.

• • •

At present we have a foreign policy for the United States and several other foreign policies conducted by various groups.

The official and unofficial policies are by no means synchronized, and indeed, it is possible for these private policies, pursued out of however much good will, greatly to embarrass the conduct of foreign relations, in the most critical moment of our history.

Mr. Hoover's activities, for instance, ought to be judged in the light of our whole policy and ought, it seems to me, to be conducted in harmony with it, or not conducted at all.

For any large-scale relief activity involves relations with foreign governments, or their agents. I understand, for instance, that there is talk of attempting the consolidating of all the foreign national relief agencies—Finnish, Belgian, Polish, Dutch and Norwegian—into the Hoover organization and then absorbing with them the main foreign tasks of the Red Cross. If such a movement becomes organized, aside from official policy, possibly in opposition to official policy, and rejecting the discipline of official policy, it can help to paralyze and confuse our diplomacy and indeed, render it difficult if not impossible to pursue a consistent and authoritative policy at all.

• • •

It seems to me that this matter of whether or to what extent we shall send supplies to Europe must be dealt with in the first line by the state department, the department of agriculture and the Red Cross, all collaborating and working out a policy on which all are agreed.

This policy might be preceded by informing the public of the actual situation in Europe, about which very many contradictory things, most of them coming from interested sources, are said.

Secondly, we can, it seems to me, undertake nothing except through negotiations, directly, with German army leaders about the release of grain to the most distressed areas. According to highly reliable information, the German government has vast stores of grain, which it has extorted from the immensely rich grain fields of Hungary and the Balkans, and if this gain is to continue to be stored in Germany to assure a prolongation of the war and a greater chance of victory for the Nazis, while the business of feeding their victims is shoved onto us, we ought to know about it. The record must be clear, and the responsibility placed where it belongs.

Third, it might seem wise to cooperate with the British for the releasing of relief to Finland, if it is clear that German troops are not in Finland, as it has been reported they are.

Fourth, it is reported that Mr. Hoover desires to move 950,000 tons of grain to Norway. Will the German authorities allow this grain to be purchased in the Balkans and moved from there?

It is of prime importance that the state department and the American people know whether any relief activities are not first aiding the Germans by serving to break the British blockade, and, quite as important, aiding the Germans to maintain in their own interests a blockade against the countries they occupy — a blockade of food resources from the rest of Europe.

The questions are complicated, involve our relations with Britain, involve our own eventual safety, and involve the highest matters of international politics.

There is no such thing left in the world today, alas, and unfortunately, as a purely humanitarian venture in international affairs. There is not and there will not be, until the nations of the world again live and operate under certain internationally accepted codes.

The International Red Cross was knocked to bits by the Nazis, who withdrew from it in order to make their own Red Cross an instrument for furthering the aims of the Nazi government.

• • •

Neither you, nor I, nor Mr. Hoover is going to be held responsible for the results of policies. The administration will be held responsible for those results: an administration elected by the American people and responsible to them. And nobody else in this country should be encouraged to make policies that may conflict with those of the administration.

This does not mean that the administration's policies are not open to criticism, or that no citizen has the right to seek to change them. He does have that right. But it is profoundly unwise and dangerous to try to conduct privately a separate and possibly conflicting policy.

For although we need unity among ourselves, we particularly need it vis-a-vis the outside world. Not to have it is suicidal, in this moment of history.

* *

Then understand they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I, the Son of man, am?

And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist; some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am?

And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.

And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter; and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

And Jesus said:

" . . . whoso shall offend one of these little ones . . . it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea."

Among the many crimes against humanity perpetrated by both the Nazi and the Fascist dictators, none is more vicious, more horrible than the crime committed against the children of their own countries.

For they have, in literal truth taken the spirit of childhood out of the hearts of the youngsters of Germany and of Italy.

Regimentation has been applied never more harshly against any groups in either country than it has against the boys and the girls.

Formed into troops and organizations of "Hitler youth," with subsidiary bodies that mold and compress and suppress all individuality, the children of Germany have been made into little robots, miniature soldiers of the Reich, almost from babyhood.

Drilled with tiny rifles, formed into companies and platoons and regiments, taught soldiering almost from the cradle, the Black Shirts of Mussolini have turned the normally joyous and carefree children of Italy into serious little monsters, learning, even before their lips have lost the lisp of infancy, the cruel science of killing, the vicious philosophy of slaughter.

That the spirit of childhood still lives in Britain, that it can never be quenched, is evidence enough that Hitler and Mussolini and all their hordes and all their mechanized might are doomed to ultimate defeat and dissolution.

For a nation cannot live without the spirit of childhood, that precious gift from God that Nazi and Fascist alike have done their witless best to destroy.

And a nation cannot die that still hears the laughter of little children through all its woes.

HULL ADVISES RELIEF QUERY BE SENT NAZI

Suggests Persons Interested In Food Supply Approach Germany

WASHINTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, suggested Wednesday persons interested in the relief of Europe might do well to approach Germany and see what it would do to help solve the problem.

Hull commented on the general relief situation at a press conference, after Great Britain had refused to allow food to go through the blockade to German-conquered territory.

STUDYING WAYS

The United States, Hull said, is studying ways in which it might apply its policy of relieving suffering in all parts of the world.

He suggested indirectly, however, that some one might approach the German government on its attitude, to see to what extent, if any, it had deprived populations in occupied territory, and if so whether it would be disposed to make a contribution to what he described as the immemorial custom of nations where one country conquers another.

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, disclosed the organization is "exploring the possibility" of sending into unoccupied France "such aid as milk and vitamin concentrates for the distribution to children."

RED CROSS EFFORTS

Davis brought this out in his report to the annual Red Cross board meeting in which he stated that $13,792,000 in war relief has been sent 11 nations.

Davis reported that the $20,000,000 war relief campaign, begun May 10, was oversubscribed. "To date $21,588,000 has been collected with some additional reported contributions still to be received," he said.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Finland is seeking a loan from the United States government for the purchase of food and other supplies. Some estimates placed the amount desired at from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

The Red Cross announced plans to ship $500,000 worth of war clothing, blankets, food and other relief supplies to Greece Dec. 28.

JURYMEN BLAME PRINCE GEORGE MAN FOR DEATH

CAUSAPSCAL, Que., Dec. 12—(CP)—William Allan Hunt, 76, of Prince George, B.C., was held criminally responsible by a coroner's jury today for the death of Joseph Madore, 68, of St. Clophase, Que., who died Tuesday aboard a train from what police said was "a knife wound in the heart."

The inquest, presided over by District Coroner Dr. J. M. Beaulieu, heard several witnesses, including Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, of Montreal. Dr. Fontairne testified that Madore died from a knife blow which perforated the sternum and sliced an artery leading to the heart.

The incident occurred aboard the Canadian National Railways' Maritime Express while it was travelling to Moncton, N.B., from Montreal.

Britain Can Win War With United States Aid In 1942 Lothian Tells Farm Bureau

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Marquess of Lothian, who died this morning, declared Wednesday night that Great Britain is confident that with help from the United States "we can win, and win decisively in 1942, if not before," the war against Nazi Germany.

Outlining the "tremendous changes" that have taken place since last June, when France was conquered and Britain was left alone, the British ambassador said the Greeks "Are showing how much the position has already improved since the legend of totalitarian invulnerability was broken last September," and added:

"If we can now stave off the attack on Britain, if we can last out next year still holding all the positions I have mentioned, Hitlerism in the end must go down. By ourselves we cannot be sure of this result—though we will try our best. . . . But with your help in airplanes, munitions, in ships and on the sea, and in the field of finance now being discussed between your treasury and ours, we are sure of victory . . ."

SUPPLY ROUTES

Without making a direct request for United States naval assistance in keeping the supply routes open to the British Isles, Lord Lothian declared the issue of the war "Now depends largely on what you decide to do."

"If you back us you will not be backing a quitter," he asserted, and "With your help in airplanes, munitions, in ships and on the sea, and in the field of finance now being discussed between your treasury and ours, we are sure of victory."

Lord Lothian made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the American Farm Bureau Federation here. Because of an illness, from which he died today, he was unable to deliver the address in person. Neville Butler, counselor of the British embassy, read it for him.

"It is for you to decide," the manuscript said, "whether it is to your interest to give us whatever assistance may be necessary in order to make certain that Britain shall not fall."

Predicting still greater German attacks on British shipping in the coming months, Lord Lothian declared the British navy already "Is strung out terribly thin."

"We think that this is a situation which concerns you almost as much as it concerns us," he said. "It has long been clear that your security no less than ours, depends upon our holding the Atlantic impregnably and you the Pacific."

TWO-OCEAN ATTACK

The Axis-Japanese pact, he continued, raises the prospect of "a two-ocean attack on us both in the Atlantic and the Pacific." This, he said, would be launched simultaneously if an Italian or German army or fleet could occupy Gibraltar or North West Africa "or Great Britain's control of the Atlantic has been sufficiently weakened to cause doubt where the American fleet should be stationed."

"We have both, therefore, a vital interest in decisively defeating the now rapidly-maturi[illegible] naval attack on the communications of the British Isles. It is the very best way of preventing the spread of the war. And it is an essential step to that victory which will eventually follow the failure of Hitler to destroy Great Britain, both by air and by sea, and the uninterrupted flow of American munitions to the British Isles."

Lord Lothian declared no one who had seen what "steady and constant bombardment of great cities from the air means, could wish any friendly country like the United States of America to undergo any similar experience."

Britons, he said, for geographical reasons, were "on the firing line" but "you and Canada and Australia and New Zealand and probably South Africa have the chance, if you take it, of saving yourselves from being the theatre of total war."

CENTRE OF RING

"You are the centre of that great ring of fortresses—Britain, Gibraltar, Cape Town, Suez, Singapore and Australia . . . to which I should add Hawaii and Panama," he continued.

"As long as these fortresses stand, the war, with its aerial bombardment, cannot in any real sense of the word roll up to your shores or devastate your towns and cities.

"Almost alone among the nations you still have the chance of making your country immune from the devastation of war, not by pacifism or attempted appeasement of the dictators, but by helping to maintain the frontiers I have described. . . .

"But if ramparts fall, the war will inevitably cross the oceans and roll up against your shores."

Saying that Hitlerism "is the tragedy of Germany," Lord Lothian declared the core of the Allied creed, "for all our mistakes of omission and commission, is liberty, justice and truth." Britons believe this "will infallibly prevail, if we have the resolution and the courage to resist to the end."

He continued:

"But on the side of armaments also, we have great and growing assets. The curve of our munition and airplane production is steadily rising—despite the bombing. The number of our divisions, of our airplanes, of our pilots is also steadily growing up.

EMPIRE NATIONS

"What is more important the young nations of the commonwealth, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, are fast getting into their stride. The number of their divisions is increasing. You will soon hear of their prowess on more than one front, as you have heard of the New Zealand 'Achilles' in the Graf Spee battle and the Australian 'Sydney' in the Mediterranean.

"The Canadian training scheme is rapidly coming into output. You will be staggered at what will come out of Canada shortly in the shape of trained pilots and men. And Canada produced perhaps the best airmen in our forces in the Great War.

Australia and New Zealand are producing pilots also in great numbers. South Africa is actively engaged both in the air and on land in Abyssinia, Kenya and in the Sudan. Indian troops and Indian munitions are now coming into the battle fronts, and ever increasing resources are coming from the colonies and territories, loyal to a man and proud of their membership of the Commonwealth.

'The whole of this growing aggregation of power is now being mobilized. . ."

BRITISH CHARACTER

Lord Lothian asserted "some people are spreading the legend that democracy is disappearing from Britain and that she will come out at the end of the war a Fascist or a Communist state." "Nothing could be further from the truth," he said, adding that "I have never known Britain more truly democratic." Britons, he said, "are not going to change their essential character."

Hope for the future "depends upon some form of co-operation between the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations," added the ambassador. "Even if we win a total victory there will be no chance of immediately creating an effective new league of nations. There will be nothing in Europe out of which to make it . . .

"The only nucleus around which a stable and peaceful and democratic world can be built after this war is, if the United States and Great Britain possess between them more airplanes and ships of war and the key positions of world power, such as I have described, than any possible totalitarian rival."

NOT YET WON

Lord Lothian [illegible] that "the war is not yet won," declaring: "Do not think that Hitler and Nazidom are going to be easily overthrown. Hitler is certainly going to make another attempt next year—and earlier rather than later—to beat down our resistance by new methods and still greater violence, and so open the way to world domination for the Nazis."

Hitler "certainly is going to renew the attack on Britain with all his might this winter and spring." For everything else for him is a "sideshow."

'But this time he is going to concentrate on the sea," Lord Lothian added. "He has failed to overwhelm us in the air and we are sure that he will continue to fail, while with your help our power to hit back with our bombers will steadily increase. But he is building submarines and long-distance planes with all his might and main with which to bomb the convoys and to announce their location to the submarines.

NEW BATTLESHIPS

"He will have two new 35,000-ton battleships, the Tirpitz and the Bismark and other vessels in the North Sea early next year. With these he will try to deliver a knockout blow at our communications so as to prevent us getting the food, the raw materials and airplanes necessary to enable us to continue the war at full strength.

"We think that this is a situation which concerns you almost as much as it concerns us."

Regina Battles Fire In Twenty Below Weather

REGINA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Ice-coated firemen battled Regina's most spectacular blaze in several years in 20-below zero temperatures Wednesday when fire gutted the top floor of an old warehouse and damaged two other floors.

The loss to building and contents is expected to be heavy, according to preliminary estimates, ranging from $90,000 to $170,000.

Work For Nazis

Airliner Hits Creek Bank In Making Landing

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—An American Airlines plane, arriving from Chicago in foggy, rainy weather, missed the runway at Lambert-St. Louis municipal airport Wednesday afternoon and smashed into a creek bank, trapping the pilots in the front compartment.

Rescue crews, working with axes and hacksaws, broke into the cockpit after 30 minutes. The chief pilot, Capt. Herbert W. Susott of Eberfeld, Ind., was injured. The co-pilot, E. Phillips, based at Chicago, escaped injury.

British Policy Defers Solution Of Food Problem

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The National Committee on Food for the Five Small Democracies, of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, said in a statement Wednesday that Britain's refusal to raise the blockade on food shipments to Europe has "deferred" the solution of the problem.

The statement added the committee would continue to try to find an answer acceptable to the British government.

Wants To Enlist

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Col. Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, self-styled "Black Eagle of Harlem," was in Ottawa yesterday and said he had applied for enlistment to the Royal Air Force. He was the picture of sartorial elegance as he passed his medical examination at the Royal Canadian Air Force office. He wore a morning coat and gray tie and carried a leather brief case.

CANADA, U.S. AGREE ON AIR SERVICE PACT

Two Governments Ratify Arrangements For International Transport

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Navy Minister Macdonald, acting for Munitions Minister Howe, Wednesday announced ratification by the Canadian and United States goverments of arrangements covering international air services between the two countries, including services in operation, and lines to be established in the near future.

Existing international air lines now operate between Montreal and New York, Montreal and Boston, Winnipeg and Fargo, N.D., and between Vancouver and Seattle.

Chief of the new international air routes authorized will be a non-stop service between Toronto and New York, to be operated by Trans-Canada Air Lines, while a service between Buffalo and Toronto will be operated by a United States line still to be named.

ALBERTA CONNECTION

A new service will be operated between Bangor, Me., and Moncton, N.B., where it will connect with Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Airways. A service will be operated by a United States carrier between Great Falls, Mont., and Lethbridge, Alta., where it will connect with Trans-Canada Air Lines.

No announcement has yet been made as to which United States line will be authorized to stop at Windsor, Ont., to provide T.C.A. connection with Chicago and the mid-western states. Trans-Canada Air Lines are authorized to extend its Toronto-Windsor service to Detroit but at present no steps along this line are contemplated.

"FURTHER DECISIONS"

Recommendations for the establishment of these new air services were made at a meeting of Canadian and United States authorities in Ottawa Sept. 9. The arrangements became effective Dec. 2, and will remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1942.

The minister's statement said the Canadian government had undertaken "To co-operate in, or to permit or undertake the establishment on behalf of a United States air carrier, subject to Canadian law, of the necessary aids to air navigation, along the coast of British Columbia."

"Further decisions with respect to routes and services to Alaska are to be reserved for future consideration."

A California hunter killed an antlered female deer and was subject to arrest, but the game commissioner decided that it was an error on the part of Mother Nature.

Nazi Unrest

Unrest in conquered France is not limited to Frenchmen. It is spreading so rapidly to the German army of occupation that an average of two Nazi soldiers a day are committing suicide. So said Marion Dix Bromley, of South Pasadena, Calif., pictured above with her pet cat as she recently arrived in Brooklyn after four years of writing in Paris.

In 1937, Ralph Heilman of Hope, Ind., raised 900 bushels of corn on five acres of land.

HITLER POSES AS FRIEND OF 'RED' ELEMENT

N.Y. Papers View His Speech As Appeal To Communists

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Some New York newspapers took the view that Hitler's speech to German workers Tuesday primarily was addressed to Soviet Russia and Communist workers throughout the world. All agreed it was one of the Fuehrer's best defensive efforts.

"Hitler made a better Communist speech than Stalin ever made himself," the Sun observed editorially. "He was full of concern for the working man, full of venom for the fat, cigar-smoking capitalist."

The Post remarked Hitler "almost qualified for platform space at some of the poorer meetings in Union Square", and asked: "Does the Nazi chieftain feel the need for a new pose—that of leader of the 'working class'—as a kind of compensation and promise?"

Other comment:

World Telegram: "Hitler, the great humanitarian, the great pacificator, the apostle of 'common sense,' the creator of 'a beautiful Germany.' What a self-portrait the one-time artist painted in Tuesday's speech! You could almost see a halo.

"The leader has changed since the days of Mein Kampf. Then he considered the German people just a 'great, stupid herd of sheep,' to whom the Nazi party must not be servant, 'but their lord and master.' . . . What a man!'

Herald Tribune: ". . . It does not sound like the speech of a conqueror. It sounds like the speech of a man desperately refuting ideas because they are growing too rife, screaming out the old magic again because it is wearing thin."

Times: "The workers of Germany, underfed, underpaid, tired and dissatisfied, were clearly the real objects of Hitler's attention Tuesday. . . . They have sweated and slaved for years, but their reward has not yet come . . ."

Kathleen Busby Sings Before Large Audience In Recital: Wins Plaudits For Artistry

One of the most popular and at the same time most promising singers this city has thus far produced, Kathleen Busby, soprano, won the plaudits of a large audience when she appeared in recital at McDougall auditorium Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Junior Hospital League. Proceeds of the event are to be applied toward the work among crippled children, the worthy object of the organization.

Winning a large number of events at music festivals hereabouts, Miss Busby went to Toronto last spring to continue study. There she won a scholarship and established herself in the professional life of the city. Her visit here was undertaken for the express purpose of appearing in Wednesday's recital.

It is too early yet to assess the value of Miss Busby's study in the east, taken in relation to her career as a whole. She displayed consummate gifts and artistry Wednesday, as she did prior to going east.

SPLENDID VOICE

Of her ability there is no doubt. She possesses a splendid voice. She is not only a vocalist, but she is a pianist of attainments and is a genuine artist through and through.

With equal facility, she can sing soft and loud. She can sing slow or fast; high and low. She can sing with a meticulous attention to strict tempo or she can employ rubato with telling effect. She can build up a compelling crescendo or carry out an effective diminuendo with equal ease.

There were occasions, however, when her diction was not as clear as it has been. In some of the numbers, many of the words were difficult to distinguish. There were times when the pitch was not always flawless. Also, the interpretation of some numbers was open to question. As an instance, one might mention that the Andante Molto Sostenuto section of They Call Me Mimi, from La Boheme, was taken too rapidly.

However, whether one agreed with all her interpretations, one thing could not be questioned and that was her artistic integrity and sincerity.

HIGHLY TALENTED

She is a capable and highly talented artist. With her best years before her, she will carry with her the good wishes of a host of friends and admirers as she seeks further honors.

Three Bach numbers made up her first group, Of Flowers the Fairest, Sighing, Weeping and On My Shepherd I Rely, this last with a violin obligato by W. J. Hendra.

In the second group were Quilter's arrangement of Drink To Me Only; Peter Warlock's In An Arbour Green; Have You Seen But a White Lily Grow and Pretty Ring Time.

Miss Busby rose to considerable heights in the next group, Mozart's L'Amero, with a violin obligato by Mr. Hendra; Puccini's They Call Me Mimi and Debussy's Recitative et Air de Lia from L'Enfant Prodigue. Miss Busby acquitted herself with infinite credit in the Debussy opus, drawn from the work, for the composition of which he won the Grand Prix de Rome in 1884, with 22 of the 28 authorities, including Gounod voting for him.

In this aria Miss Busby did not permit Lia to become too sentimental, but gave the number a sincere, well-considered and effective performance, well worthy of the fine texture provided by Debussy throughout the whole opus.

The fourth group included Fourdrain's Le Papillon; MacNutt's Take Me To A Green Isle; Michael Head's The Musician, an unaccompanied number; and Hugh Bantock's Silent Strings. The last group included Marjorie Kennedy Fraser's effective Eriskay Love Lilt; Debus' Indian Love Song; Holst's The Heart Worships and Dunhill's Queen of Heaven.

Of the several encores demanded, the ever-welcome One Fine Day from Madam Butterfly with which Miss Busby has achieved renown, proved the most popular.

She was the recipient of two bouquets.

Preservation Of Wild Game Topic Of Rotary Talk

An illustrated lecture on the preservation of wild game in Alberta was given at the Rotary Club's weekly luncheon meeting in the Macdonald hotel Thursday noon. Dr. G. W. Watson, biologist for Ducks Unlimited, showed the progress in this work and explained some of the systems under which preservation is practised.

Also on the program was Miss Kathleen Busby, Edmonton soprano, who sang two selections, both of which were well received by the Rotarians.

SPEAKER ASKS NEW DEAL FOR AGRICULTURE

But Will Only Be Possible If Farmers Improve Standards

Asserting that agriculture must have a "new deal—be placed on a cost plus basis", Robert Hunter, dean of agriculture, University of Alberta, told more than 200 delegates to the Northern Alberta Livestock Breeders' Association that farmers cannot expect to achieve this new deal unless they base their methods on efficient agricultural practice.

This new deal, he said, must be based on efficient agriculture, and the product of that agriculture must be of prime quality, "otherwise we have not the right to ask for this new deal."

JOINT BANQUET

He was speaking at the joint banquet of the Northern Alberta Horse, Cattle, Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations held Wednesday evening under the chairmanship of J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture. The meeting was followed by the annual dance of the associations.

Tribute was paid by Hon. D. B. McMillan, recently-appointed provincial minister of agriculture, to the splendid work accomplished for the livestock industry by his predecessor, the late Hon. D. B. Mullen, and expressed the hope that when he terminates his tenure of office that he will win the sincere appreciation of the agricultural interests which Mr. Mullen received.

Mayor John W. Fry, welcoming the delegates on behalf of the city, referred to the growth in numbers attending each successive banquet. He said it was indicative of the growing importance of the agricultural industry in Northern Alberta.

SCIENTIFIC METHOD

He referred to rail grading and said that the intentions of those introducing it were good. It was the only scientific method of grading bacon for quality, and quality must be maintained if the British patronage for Canadian bacon is to be retained.

He referred to the fact that during the last Great War Canada enjoyed a practical monopoly for the supply of bacon to Britain. More attention was paid to making profit than to supplying bacon of quality that would retain the Canadian hold on the market, with the result that at the conclusion of the war the Britisher turned again to the use of the Danish product.

Now, continued Dean Newton, Canada had an absolute monopoly in the British market. "If we continue to supply bacon we will keep that market. We will lose it unless we supply bacon of the average quality of the Danish product. Rail grading is only one of the steps toward gaining and maintaining that average quality," he added.

Diseases Of Fowl Are Explained At Poultry Meeting

In the absence due to illness of C. W. Traves, poultry commissioner for Alberta, W. Roach gave an illustrated lecture on the control of poultry diseases and parasites at a meeting of the Edmonton Poultry and Pet Stock Association Wednesday night at the Corona hotel.

M. S. Thompson was appointed a delegate to attend a meeting of the poultry federation to be held at the Provincial Poultry Show next week in Calgary.

President G. F. Henbest presided at the meeting.

It was announced that the Edmonton Poultry Show will be held in the sales ring of the Arena in the second week of January with tentative dates set as January 9, 10, 11. Entry and prize lists have been completed.

The association has donated a trophy for competition at the Calgary provincial show. It is named the Dr. J. E. Wilkinson Memorial trophy, and will be presented to the winner of the best display of birds in the show.

CONTROL FOR BATTLE FUNDS IS APPROVED

Edmonton Council Supports New National Advisory Board

Unanimous approval of the formation of a national advisory board to control appeals for funds for voluntary war work, announced in Ottawa Wednesday, was given at a meeting of the Edmonton Council for the Co-ordination of Auxiliary War Services in the Macdonald Wednesday.

Chairman of the council, Reg. T. Rose, who presided at the meeting said, "such a policy is certainly in line with the thinking now being done in Edmonton and such a board will greatly assist in the co-ordination of war services." W. T. Henry of Edmonton has been named Alberta representative on the advisory board.

Provision of libraries for the various army camps and units in the province was discussed at the meeting, and City Librarian Hugh Gourlay was asked to convene a meeting immediately of representatives of the major organizations, and other organizations interested. Delegates from the I.O.D.E., Y.M.C.A., Canadian Legion, Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and Jewish Council of Women will be invited to send representatives to the meeting.

Plans will be made for the provision of a library for the Canadian Legion Hut at the Edmonton Garrison, which will be opened next week, and the committee headed by Mr. Gourlay will investigate the library need of the camps at Red Deer and other points in Northern Alberta.

Mrs. M. J. Hilton reported that plans were going forward for the big Christmas three party to be held on December 21 for the children of all men on active service. Mrs. W. J. Dick stated that a splendid response had been given the appeal for the party.

PLAN URGED

Resolution to Ottawa was passed at the meeting, suggesting that all organizations desirous of being empowered under the War Charities Act to collect funds for voluntary war work should first be given approval by a local co-ordinating council. In that way, it was felt, a measure of control would be exercised by a responsible group which would ascertain that the appeal was justified and that the funds were being used to the best ends.

Further discussion took place, relative to the inadequate housing conditions in Edmonton, and it was decided that the council would work in co-operation with the recently organized housing committee of the Council of Social Agencies.

Donald Cameron, chairman of the educational committee reported that 600 soldiers in the province are making use of the correspondence course being provided, and some 5,000 soldiers in Canada.

Mrs. T. B. T. Hewett, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported satisfaction in the manner in which entertainment plans were going forward.

RELIEFER OFF CITY AID ROLL SO HE SUES NOW

Court action is being taken against the city of Edmonton by a resident removed from the special relief rolls because he had refused to go to a residence in the country under the farm placement scheme, H. F. McKee, manager, special relief department, told members of the city council's relief committee Wednesday. The charge is for "failing to provide adequate material aid to a destitute person." Hearing will take place Thursday before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C.

He reported that 40 Edmonton families had been stricken from the relief rolls because of refusal to go to homes in the country under the placement plan. A variety of reasons were given for their refusal, he added. Nine families have been placed on acreage, he told the committee.

Mr. McKee said there had been previous attempts to convict the city under the provisions of the provincial statute, but none had succeeded.

Outlining the placement scheme, Mr. McKee said that all cases being placed on acreage were first approved by the provincial bureau of public welfare. City official move the family to their new home and gives them a grant equal to two weeks' relief at the Edmonton relief scale. They are instructed to apply to the secretary of the municipality for further relief. The cost of relief advanced by the municipality is borne by the city of Edmonton.

Mr. McKee was asked to prepare a special report on the 40 cases struck from the relief rolls to be submitted to the relief committee of council. After study this body will report to a special meeting of the city council to be held possibly next Monday evening.

Canadian Horses Set Record

TODAY the men behind Canadian racing, everyone from the gentlemen who bankroll the game down through breeders, trainers and exercise boys, are entitled to orchids—although the majority would probably be glad to swap such flora for a few bales of hay.

The reason that racing folk are top news today is that the annual review of racing performances being prepared by the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' and Racing Association shows that Canadian-bred horses set an all-time record in earnings during the 1940 season.

Earnings of Canadian horses totalled $624,700 agianst the previous record of $597,130 in 1939. Still more striking is the fact that our horses went south of the border and collected a total of $85,680 in U. S. currency during 1940. That may be pin money compared to the winnings of American horses, but it is something to shout about when you remember that in 1933 Canadian horses won only $6,975 on U. S. tracks.

On their native tracks Canadian foaled thoroughbreds won $539,020, which is more than 50 per cent of the total purse monies offered. Canadian-breds won more races than ever before and a larger proportion of races against American-breds. Right now Canadian horses are able to hold their own with all but the gold-plated aristocrats of the United States and sooner or later our breeding farms will be turning out animals capable of matching the best Americans.

These record winnings are a tribute to the Canadian breeders and trainers whose persistent efforts and ability made them possible. Few of these men ever receive a fraction of a horse's real worth, but they carry on year after year, always hoping to develop a sensational horse that will wipe out all the red ink entries in their books.

Joey In Fourth Place

WESTERNERS will get a lot of satisfaction out of knowing that the most popular horse ever to run on the prairie circuit, Joey from the Layzell Stables of Calgary, soared into fourth place among Canadian horses in 1940 with winnings of $6,225. This brings his total winnings up to $37,010 and makes him the leading Canadian horse of the last 10 years. Joey started 32 times in 1940 and won seven firsts, nine seconds, six thirds, was fourth six times nad unplaced four times.

Joey is 10 years old. Last season he fell to eleventh place among the Canadian winners, but this was due to the fact that he was burned out from too much racing. H. A. Bruns of Hot Springs, Montana, claimed him for $700 from Jacques of Calgary and rested him during the summer of 1939. He started him during the winter season down in California, won a few races and then came back to the Canadian west.

Hood, winner of the Prince of Wales Plate and the Breeders' Stakes, led all horses in Canada for 1940 with total earnings of $10,000. Willie the Kid, winner of the Ontario King's Plate, was second with winnings of $7,880. Cease Fire took third place with $6,605.

Burning Stick, eighth on the list, earned his total of $5,075 entirely on the American tracks in competition with high-class three-year-olds. This colt is regarded in some quarters as the best Canadian-bred three-year-old of the year.

Warrigan headed the two-year-old division with earnings of $8,765, although he won but two races during the year. His principal win was the Mrs. Orpen Cup and Saucer event at Long Branch, Toronto. Second on the two-year-old list comes Undisturbed, who was not out of the money once in eight races. He scored six wins during the season and returned his owner $5,145.

HARMON LIKELY TO GALLOP FOR GRIDIRON GOLD

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Dec., 12.—(BUP)—With the Heisman Trophy tucked under his arm, Tommy Harmon of Michigan, the year's outstanding college football player, returns today to his home town, Gary Ind., in good-natured disagreement with his father, Louis, about turning professional.

At the ceremonious presentation of the game's most coveted award last night, Tommy's dad told reporters he believed his son should play as a professional for at least two seasons.

Tommy does not share this belief, apparently. He still insists that he will not turn pro "regardless of the inducement." He says he's determined to go into radio, as sports announcer or commentator, and that he already has "two very good offers" under consideration

Most experts among the 1,000 spectators at the presentation believe the Wolverines' great halfback is merely playing "hard to get," "and that he will be galloping for gold with the Chicago Bears next season, following his purchase from Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

This opinion was bolstered by the mama-and-papa-knows-best refrain of Tommy's trophy-acceptance speech, in which the all-time campus touchdown king emphasized that his parents had been the major inspiration of his athletic career and would continue to inspire him as he strove to uphold the ideals of the Heisman Trophy.

At the conclusion of his speech, Tommy kicked a field goal in every heat by bending down from the platfrom and handing the trophy—a running, straight-arming figure in bronze—to his gray-haired mother Rose. He said, "Here's a girl who will always keep the trophy and myself—right."

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

Among the speakers, Ted Husing, veteran sports announcer, "kidded" 21-year-old Harmon about his radio ambitions. Husing offered himself as the "horrible example," pointing out to Tommy that work on the air waves had thinned out his hair and caused him to wear glasses.

The Michigan coach, Fritz Crisler, lauded Tommy for his great all-round play and took the blame for the Wolverines' defeat by Minnesota. Crisler said he had permitted Harmon to use short cleats, instead of long ones, on a soggy field. This caused Tommy to slip in the mud on his touchdown attempts.

Harmon won the downtown A.C.'s sixth annual award for the year's outstanding player in a national poll of sports writers and broadcasters. Previously the Heisman Trophy went to Nile Kinnick of Iowa, Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Clinton Frank of Yale, Larry Kelly of Yale and Jay Berwanger of Chicago.

More than a million dollars is required to operate a first-class battleship one year, including pay, clothing, victuals, and repairs; submarines of the smaller type cost $135,000 annually for operating expenses.

Oiler Jinx Strikes Again In Third Period Onslaught

TURNER VALLEY OILERS, the only club in the Alberta Senior Hockey League that the Edmonton Flyers haven't been able to chalk up a victory against—are still that. Last night the Turner Valley jinx proved just as effective as ever as the Oilers plastered an 8-5 defeat on the Flyers here before a crowd that 20 below zero weather cut to a mere 1,200.

The jinx didn't hit the Flyers until the final period. The first frame was scoreless and each club scored two in the second. Then in the third the Flyer defensive seemed to collapse before a vicious Oiler attack and the invaders counted six goals to Edmonton's three.

Eddie O'Keefe retained the scoring leadership of the league by scoring one goal and getting credit for two assists for a total of 25 points. Doug Cairns of the Oilers leaped into the runner-up position to O'Keefe when he netted one goal and counted four assists to bring his total points up to 20.

Scorers for Turner Valley besides Cairns were Pete Atkinson and Percy Davis, each with two and Putt Holditch, Ralph McIntyre and Syd Craddock. Edmonton goal-getters besides O'Keefe were Pete Yanew, Moon Mullin, Joe Brown, Ab Newsome.

Cairns gave the visitors the lead just past the two minute mark of the second period from a pass by Merv Evers but Pete Yanew drilled in an equalizer from Ducky Skinner's pass-out three minutes later. Atkinson again sent the Oilers into the lead from Cairns' pass before Moon Mullen tied the count with O'Keefe assisting.

Davis and Cairns combined for the first goal of the third stanza with the latter ramming the puck past goalie Davy Pow in the Edmonton net. Holditch followed after a three-way combination play with Atkinson and Cairns and then the latter two sifted through with Pete driving the rubber home.

Joe Brown tallied unassisted for Flyers at 12:34 before Davis again counted for Oilers. Brown then shipped out a fast pass to O'Keefe, who beat Roy Roche easily but Oilers went further ahead when Ralph McIntyre scored from Ursaki's pass.

Ab Newsome, Haxby and O'Keefe skated through the Oilers defence with Newsome scoring Flyers' final marker, but Craddock came back for Oilers with another goal in the last minute of the match from a pass by Cairns.

Mike Buckna Leads Trail To 3-2 Win Over Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Mike Buckna led Trail Smoke Eaters to a 3-2 victory over Lethbridge Maple Leafs scoring all three goals of the Alberta Senior-West Kootenay inter-league match here last night.

It was the British Columbia team's first win in four games and ended their road series into Alberta. Don Culley and Walter Rimstad were scorers for Lethbridge.

Smoke-Eaters had three good scoring chances of the initial period as the Lethbridge defence left wide gaps for Trail to drive through. Goalie Andy Young, however, came through with some remarkable stops to hold the visitors scoreless.

Leafs set the pace as the second period opened but Trail got the first goal when Buckna passed out from a corner on a play that seemed to be broken up, but he turned to catch the rubber at the side of the net and beat Young easily. Ab Cronie drifted through but shot wide.

Jimmy Haight drew the game's first penalty but the Leafs could not get their power play organized. Marshall was clean through but again Young rose to the occasion. Leafs equalized at the half way mark when they put five up for a face-off inside the Trail blue line. Joyce passed to Culley who worked into position and beat Scodellero on a screened shot. The goal seemed to pep up the Lethbridge attack and for remainder of the period they carried the play but were unable to dent Scodellero's defence.

A loose defence again paved way for a Trail goal, as the third period started two Leafs going for Cronie who passed to Buckna as he cut in from right wing to score from close range.

Leafs equalized on a three-man rush with Stewart passing to Gray and Rimstad deflecting Gray's pass into the net.

Leafs kept four and five men on the attack forcing Trail to ice the puck frequently. Buckna accomplished the hat trick when he stole the puck from Lane as he stood inside the Lethbridge blue line looking for somebody to pass to.

Gray's shot near the end was ruled "no goal" with Rimstad standing in the crease, but when Lunde apparently bulged the net on Culley's pass and the marker was again called no goal Leaf's protested unavailingly. The officials claimed the puck had not entered the cage and their decision stood.

Majors Reduce Night Ball On Deciding Vote By Landis

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Baseball's winter meetings came to a blustery end Wednesday with the majors restricting night baseball and re-electing Commission K. M. Landis.

It took more than four hours for the magnates to dispose of minor business at the joint meeting of the National and American Leagues. Then they headed homeward from one of the leanest trading conclaves in years.

During the major league meetings here this week the American League did not complete a single player deal.

The owners raised a lot of steaming indignation among themselves in a long debate over limiting night ball to seven home games for any one club. This has been the National League rule since Cincinnati Reds inaugurated the night game.

But last season St. Louis Browns were given permission to play 14 and Philadelphia Athletics eight and since these are cities which have clubs in both leagues, the National League sought to have its rule extended to include the American League.

Led by the Browns, the junior circuit fought the move heatedly and in the joint meeting the two leagues split evenly. Landis then cast the deciding vote in favor of the seven-game limitation.

The majors decided to have two clubs play an annual exhibition at the birthplace of baseball, Cooperstown, N.Y., with the world champion Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians tentatively agreeing to meet next June 13.

A rule was passed unanimously to provide that a ball player accepted into military service will be placed on a club's national defence service list and not counted against its player limit.

The re-election of Landis was a foregone conclusion. The 75-year-old "czar" of baseball still has 13 months to go on his present term and the new one will run until Jan. 12, 1946, with an annual salary of $65,000.

STORM EXPECTED OVER HONESTY FOR ROSE BOWL

DEL MONTE, Cal., Dec. 12.—(BUP)—Pacific Coast Conference officials admittedly awaited today a storm of protest but stood by their decision to recompensate Rose Bowl football players who lose holiday employment by participating in the New Years game.

The conference decided that players who already have jobs lined up for the Christmas holidays but who must drop them will be paid their losses up to $50. The decision affects only the west coast participant which, this year, is Stanford. Nebraska University is its opponent.

"We are hoping for the best and fearing for the worst," said Edwin N. Atherton, Pacific coast athletic commissioner who suggested the plan. He said the plan undoubtedly would invite a charge of "professionalism."

"This new rule is a legal way of doing something which heretofore has been done in an under cover manner," Atherton added.

"As to professionalism, we will pass that bridge when we come to it," said Prof. William B. Owens, faculty representative of Stanford University.

Atherton emphasized that not every player on the western team would be paid. He said athletes who could show that they already were working at jobs or had promises of jobs for the Christmas holidays, would be paid for their lost time. The financial condition of the athletes, too, would be taken into consideration, and those who accept holiday employment without actually being in need of funds, will not share in the bounty he added.

The "under-cover manner" to which Atherton referred, apparently was the practice of players "scalping" tickets to the game to friendly alumni for thumping sums.

The athletes will continue to receive six complimentary tickets each to the Rose Bowl game, and faculty representatives instructed graduate managers to "make arrangements" to prevent these complimentaries from being scalped.

E.A.C. TO PLAY LEAFS SATURDAY

Edmonton Athletic Club and Maple Leafs will meet at the Arena on Saturday night in another City Junior Hockey League fixture. The game will start at 9 o'clock.

These teams have played two league games so far this season with the E.A.C squad taking one 6-5 in overtime and the Leafs running up a 7-1 count in the second. Saturday's encounter will accordingly have more at stake than merely two points in the league standing.

At the present time the Maple Leafs are sitting in second place in the loop averages with four points, but they have played only three games as against four by the E.A.Cees who have six points, having won three.

Sunday afternoon's game is between the Canadians and the Maple Leafs.

Monte Pearson Goes To Dodgers

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—One stray trade rumor floated through the lobby of baseball's convention headquarters Wednesday night as the winter meeting broke up without a deal during the day.

It was that New York Yankees had obtained waivers on Pitcher Monte Pearson and intended to send him to Brooklyn Dodgers.

Pearson, who pitched a no-hitter in 1936 and helped win the World Series for the Yanks again in 1939 had to leave the club because of ill health before the 1940 season closed.

Mulqueen Better

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—(CP)—P. J. Mulqueen, president of the Canadian Olympic committee, has recovered sufficiently from a serious illness to leave St. Michael's hospital for his home, hospital officials said Wednesday. Mr. Mulqueen was in hospital for several weeks.

PRESS AWARD TO CINCY REDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—United States sports editors, following the precedent they themselves established in eight of the nine previous Associated Press polls, Wednesday singled out Cincinnati Reds' capture of the National League pennant and the World Series as the outstanding team performance of the sports year.

Each winter since 1932 the experts awarded this honor to the current baseball champions, basing their verdict on the reasonably sound theory that any club which can beat seven others over a 154-game season and then go on to whip the rival league's best has proved its worth as a team in every sense of that word.

Stanford's Clark Shaughnessy Finishes In Runner-up Position

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Six times this fall 40-year-old Jimmy Wilson strapped himself up with adhesive tape, buckled on his harness and ambled out on the field to do the catching for Cincinnati Reds in the World Series.

For six games, he handled the Reds' pitchers flawlessly, batted at a .353 clip, and climaxed that startling performance by getting the only stolen base of the series.

That was hailed today as the year's outstanding competitive comeback in an Associated Press poll of 78 United States sports [illegible]. Twenty-three put the new Chicago Cub manager at the head of the list. He got 102 points on a 3-2-1 scoring basis.

Only Nine Wins Separate Jockeys Dew And Taylor

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Two young jockeys, one a Texan and the other from Iowa, have waged such a close battle for the 1940 United States jockey championship that it probably will not be until the end of the year before the titleholder can be picked.

Earl Dew, 20-year-old rider from Sac City, Iowa, currently riding at Bay Meadows race track at San Mateo, Calif., is the leader but by only the thin margin of nine winners. Dew, celebrating his first full year in the big time, has brought home 273 winners out of 1,299 mounts for a riding percentage of .21.

Right behind is another rookie jockey, 18-year-old Walter [illegible] Taylor from Houston, Tex., who, including Wednesday's [illegible] at Charlestown, W. Va., has booted home 264 firsts out of 1,393 mounts.

No matter what happens during the next two weeks of racing, either Dew or Taylor will be the new United States champion for all of last year's veteran leaders are too far behind to catch up.

Don Meade, who was the [illegible] in 1939 with 255 winners, has been below his usual form most of the season, and his record stands at 185 firsts out of 1,066 mounts.

Johnny Longden of Taber, Alta., champion in 1938 and runner-up last year, is just one winner behind Meade with 185 [illegible] out of 1,11? mounts. The Canadian did [illegible] riding in the first six months of 1940 due to a stomach ailment but now has an excellent chance of finishing in third place ahead of Meade because last year's champion has finished riding for the season.

The standings including Wednesday races:

Dew	1,299	273	192	17?	.21

SPOKANE BEATS OLYMPICS 2-1

SEATTLE, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Spokane's high-flying Bombers produced a last-period goal Wednesday night to defeat the Seattle Olympics 2-1 and strengthen their recently-acquired hold on first place in the standings of the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

The win boosts Spokane to a three-point lead over the second-place Vancouver Lions, with Seattle in third place and Portland in the cellar.

The Olympics went into an early lead on a first-period goal by Walt McCartney on a pass from Jean Pusie, but the Bombers tied it up in the second on an unassisted goal by Ralph Blyth.

Sammy McAdam scored the winning goal early in the third period on a double relay from Bert Scharfe and Lude Palm.

WIGLE FROWNS ON ALLEN'S PROPOSAL

HAMILTON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Clint Wigle, president of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, said Wednesday he did not consider "feasible" a plan suggested by Ralph Allen in his Globe and Mail sports column that Winnipeg be invited to play league competition with eastern teams next season.

"At the present time it does not seem feasible, in view of the travelling cost of taking a team west for a game," Wigle said. "It is also unlikely that the players on the Big Four teams could get three or four days off in order to make the trip as it would mean a large cost to themselves. Furthermore the majority of them are engaged in war work and their employers would not be in position to allow them that many days away from work."

Allen suggested that Winnipeg play in a league with five eastern teams, Toronto Balmy Beach, Toronto Argonauts, Ottawa, Hamilton and Montreal.

Regina Juniors Leave For Home

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Three junior hockey players who were to have played with Montreal Junior Royals here this season, left for their homes in Regina Wednesday, after being unable to obtain transfers.

The trio—Cy Belgrer, Red Tilson and Ken Smith—had received assent to their transfers from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, but the Saskatchewan branch refused to issue their transfer papers, and the Quebec branch decided against permitting them to play here without authorization from the western branch.

With The Pin Busters

Henry (Chick) Stroud of Sterling Shoes in the Commercial Five Pin League broke out again Wednesday night and pushed up the season's single to 889. Henry also held the old three-game high, his mark being 838, but evidently he got tired waiting for some one else to better the figures and so proceeded to slaughter them himself.

Chick believes in plating right from the start and knocked over 368 in his first game, following with 270 and 251 to boost the old record by 51 pins. Incidentally Henry is the holder of the year's single high with 370 and Wednesday he ran his season's average from 246 to 252 which is also the highest at the Recreation alleys.

In the Lands and Mines League Bob McKee of Five Aces rolled 229 and 151 to take both single and double high.

CAMPBELL TAKES TRIPLE

Mrs. Fleming led the Lady Laura Bowlers for best single with 257 and Mrs. Williamson took three-game honors having 617 from 159, 252 and 206.

Harry Stapleton turned in 218 for best one game in the Motor 10 Pins and Art Osterman picked off 204, 205 and 156 for 569 for the triple.

Rollie Newsome was again best bowler in Revillon's Mixed, rolling 188, 233 and 247 for a total of 668 which gave him both single and three-game honors.

Federal Grader Tells Alberta Hog Producers Of Bacon Board's Job

Outlining briefly the history and work of the Canadian Bacon Board in an address to agriculturists from all parts of northern Alberta in the Masonic Temple Wednesday afternoon, Leslie Hancock, Winnipeg, federal department of agriculture superintendent of rail grading for Manitoba, said that faced with an exceedingly "tough job," the board was handling it capably and well.

Mr. Hancock told the delegates to the Livestock Breeders association convention held here this week that the board was faced with an entirely new proposition, one absolutely without precedent. There were many problems, among which he listed storage problems and the fluctuating price on pork produce. He said that an agreement with Great Britain providing for increased imports by Britain partially met the problem. He reported that in 1940 the board had five million hogs on hand; 1941 indications show six million.

The speaker explained that because bacon only came fourth in the classification of necessary food products, the board was hesitant about making too strong an agreement with Great Britain. Great Britain agreed to take 425,000,000 pounds of pork this year. This was, the speaker explained, 95,000,000 more than was exported in the previous year.

ALBERTA TRADE

He said that at the present time, Alberta was marketing 165,000 pounds per week, but it is necessary for the board to arrange for additional storage space since it is expected that during the summer months, the hog run will peter down considerably.

Mr. Hancock said that there is no reason why domestic values in hogs should not keep in line with export values. And, he continued, there is similarly, every reason in the world to expect that the farmers, once they have become used to the new system of compulsory rail grading, will find themselves appreciating the advantages of the system over the old liveweight grading.

The system was instituted, he explained, with the idea of bringing up the standard of bacon quality. It was felt that rail grading was a necessary step, insofar as the old system was not doing the improvement work that was necessary.

BRITISHERS LIKE IT

In conclusion, Mr. Hancock said that people in Britain are now eating Canadian bacon, and liking it. He referred to the new agreement calling for the government inspection of bacon at seaboard and not at the other side of the Atlantic.

S. W. Sheppard, federal supervisor, spoke on the rail grading system. He said that large imports by other countries have put the farmers of Canada in a position where they can supply large amounts of export bacon without undue advertising. He said Canadian bacon is being consumed in practically every home in England at the present time.

Speaking of the rail grading system, Mr. Sheppard said that live grading cannot possibly determine the true quality of a hog or the grade of its carcass. He explained the present system of classification into A, B or C grades, and said that through press and radio notices, the number of lower grades had been cut considerably.

TRUER ESTIMATE

He said that a rise in the number of selects, or better grades to a percentage of 27.57, indicated that rail grading was giving a closer and much truer estimate. Live grading [illegible] overgrading, not a true estimate.

Closing, the speaker said that there were some advantages in the live grading system, and among these he mentioned [illegible] established between the grader and the breeder. But, he said, rail grading is the only efficient way of determining the hog value.

Welcoming the agriculturists to the meeting, Hon. D. B. MacMillan, newly-appointed provincial minister of agriculture, made his first public appearance since assuming his new duties.

A lengthy discussion on the merits of rail grading followed when the meeting was thrown open.

TAX PROPOSAL IS PRESENTED TO GOVERNMENT

Among the resolutions passed at the recent annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts at Calgary, was a proposal calling for "The revision of the tax collecting system so that current taxes would be given preference over the demands of high pressure collectors." The resolutions were presented to Premier Aberhart and members of the cabinet Thursday.

The cabinet expressed interest in the tax proposal and stated that it would be taken into consideration.

Asking for a more effective system of collecting taxes than by the system of collecting by [illegible], the delegation representing the executive of the association said that a plan used in Saskatchewan seemed to meet with better results and was satisfactory. They said that the plan ensures that schools, social services and municipal administration is maintained, if the taxpayer has any revenue at all.

The delegation bringing the matter to the attention of the cabinet was headed by Paul L. [illegible], Halkirk, president of the association; N. S. Clarke, Duchess, vice-president; D. Roberts, Fort Saskatchewan, secretary-treasurer, and Directors J. M. Wheatley, Chancellor, and N. McLellan, Vermilion.

COURT HEARS SPECIAL PLEA TOBACCO CASE

Contended Defendants Have Already Been Acquitted Of Charges

Special plea that "The King ought not to prosecute the charge as they had been lawfully acquitted of the charge therein" was filed in Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon on behalf of 33 manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers indicted as being members of an alleged "tobacco combine."

This special plea sets up the defence that the defendants have already been acquitted of these charges under which they indicted and must not again be placed in jeopardy. It is based on the fact that these defendants had been proceeded with under the criminal code and the crown had stayed proceedings. This plea will have to be disposed of before trial of the defendants begins.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by L. Y. Cairns, K.C., on behalf of Macdonalds Consolidated Ltd. and Benson and Hedges Ltd; by S. Bruce Smith, K.C., for Wallace and Norman Ltd., by S. A. Dickson, K.C., for Rock City Ltd., by H. A. Friedman, K.C., for H. Simon and Son; while a plea of not guilty was directed to be entered on behalf of W. C. Macdonald Incorporated, this firm not being represented by counsel.

S. Bruce Smith asked crown counsel if it was the intention to proceed against Matt Mather, named in the indictment, and received the reply that at present the crown did not propose to proceed against him. Mr. Mather has sold his jobbing business in Alberta and has left the province.

Following the filing of the special plea J. McRuer, K.C., for crown counsel, intimated that he wished to proceed with pleas and election. The court asked Mr. Forsyth if he was ready to proceed. He intimated that he had nothing to add to the filing of the plea.

Thereupon Mr. McRuer asked that the pleas and elections be adjourned to the January assizes and that the defendants should be ready to go to trial at the assizes starting on March 17.

Evacuation Urged

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald today appealed to "the many thousands" of Londoners who have not registered their children for withdrawal to safer areas to do so immediately. He also urged diphtheria inoculation of children.

Charge of attempted suicide against Wilfred Nowell was withdrawn in city police court Thursday at the request of the crown, when accused appeared before Magistrate Millar. According to police reports, Nowell is alleged to have slashed his wrists at his home during the past summer. He staged a complete recovery after spending some weeks in hospital.

C. J. Hambro Says 67,000 Nazis Died In Norse Campaign

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Dec. 12—(AP)—Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, said here that at least 67,000 Germans died in conquering Norway last April.

He told the Sons of Norway fraternal organization, casualties exceeded the dead more than two-fold and of the dead only officers were buried.

Common soldiers were "piled in bunches and burned or stuffed" in Narvik sewers, Hambro said. Germany lost one-third of its entire navy in the invasion.

Toronto Girl Ambulance Driver In England Saw Service In France Before Its Fall

It is an exciting life for this girl who drove with the Anglo-French ambulance corps in France. Before the war she worked for four years in a Toronto office and sang in some Toronto night clubs. She writes songs, too.

Now she has risen to the rank of cadet officer and is deputy officer in charge of her unit.

SON AND DAD LEARN HOW TO RUN RAILROAD

Toy-Train and Model-Railroad Line Fascinating To Youngsters

War or no war, Canada always faces a transportation problem about this time of the year. It's the toy-train and model-railroad line.

For no matter how the rolling stock is replenished each year, the toy departments of Edmonton stores know that one of the biggest items in Santa Claus pack on Christmas day is the mechanical train.

FASCINATING DISPLAY

What a wonderland there is in the fascinating displays of miniature railroads in the stores this season! One needs little imagination to suddenly find himself in the midst of some giant railway yards, a maze of tracks, snorting locomotives, speeding passenger trains, long freights, laboring switch engines, signal towers, loading cranes, coal bunkers, bridges, depots.

Youngsters able to edge their way in through the throng of adults around the displays are thrilled with the realism of the toys. For each year the manufacturers succeed in making the trains more "life-like."

Of course there are trains that operate by winding a spring and that are quite inexpensive. They run on a track and have a wide variety of passenger cars, freight cars, stations and extra equipment.

MASTER OF TRANSPORTATION

From these one can go on to the completely electrified scale-model system, perfect in every detail. At the remote controls one can be absolute master of the entire transportation system.

You can make the engines whistle real railroad signals. You can raise and lower bridges, couple and uncouple cars, pick up and deliver freight, switch trains from track to track, start, stop and reverse them, duplicating everything in the realm of [illegible]

STANDARD TRACK GAUGE

There's nothing complicated about model railroading. It's thrilling and absorbing for a youngster of seven—and even more so for his dad. It's for all boys of all ages.

Locomotives are of every type and description. The [illegible] locomotives are real powerhouses on wheels and have most efficient motors.

The most modern streamliner has its realistic counterpart in the model railroad but, strange to relate, it's not nearly so popular as the old-style "iron horse." It doesn't seem to catch the imagination of the youngsters and hasn't caught the fancy of the adult model railroading hobbyist.

There's something about a toy train that gets you.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Royal Air Force ground staffs who never get into battle are given play-by-play accounts of the air fighting over Great Britain.

BILL FOR DAMAGE TO BUILDINGS IN WAR PROPOSED

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The government announced Wednesday a war damage bill containing a compulsory contributory scheme of compensation for damage to all buildings.

Other provisions of the measure are a compulsory scheme of insurance for business assets, such as plant machinery and office equipment, and a voluntary scheme of insurance for all personal chattels and furniture.

The government is working out a compensation scheme for death and injury which is to be announced later.

The estimated value of buildings to be insured is between £6,000,000,000 and £8,000,000,000 ($26,700,000,000 and $35,600,000,000). The plan provides for protection up to next fall, two years from the outbreak of the war.

Officials expected that contributions under the government's plan would yield £200,000,000. The treasury would meet any excess between £200,000,000 and £400,000,000.

Seaway Completion Will Give Impetus To West Industry

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Completion of the St. Lawrence river waterway, permitting the passage of ocean-going ships to the head of the lakes, would give a tremendous impetus to industries in western Canada, Dr. T. H. Hogg of Toronto said here Wednesday.

Dr. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said in an interview that ratification of an agreement between Canada and the United States for the development of the waterway might be realized in February.

Congressman Asks U.S. Destroyers Be Leased To Canada

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Representative Joseph Bates (Dem., Kentucky) proposed to the state department Wednesday that negotiations be started for the lease of United States destroyers to Canada in exchange for road rights through Canada to Alaska.

In a letter to Secretary Cordell Hull, Bates suggested that Canada willingly would grant defence road rights to Alaska in exchange for the use of U.S. destroyers for convoy duty, with the understanding the destroyers be returned to this country at the end of the war.

"I think such a transaction would be mutually beneficial to the two nations," Bates added.

170 Canadians Are Killed With R.A.F. Since War Started

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Since the war started 170 Canadians in the Royal Air Force have lost their lives, an unofficial compilation shows.

Of this total 82 were killed in action while flying in operations against the enemy, 75 were killed on active service, and 13 died on active service.

The list of missing Canadians in the R.A.F. totals 157. Eighty-six have been taken prisoner, five interned, and 20 wounded.

There are 24,000 concerns in the United States which either deal in waste material for resale, or use them as raw materials in their own industries.

Men Of R.A.F. In Canada Are Lauded By James Duncan

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 12.—(CP)—Commending the men of the Royal Air Force in Canada, James S. Duncan, acting deputy minister of national defence for air, said Wednesday after an inspection of the Norman Rogers airport here that "they are doing a remarkably fine job."

"There is a wonderful spirit among the men of the R.A.F.," Mr. Duncan said. "They are working under difficulties because many of them are in strange surroundings, but they are doing a remarkably fine job."

Mr. Duncan spoke to employees of an aluminum plant after touring the airport.

Business Integrity Is Perpetual Yule Gift: Zeller's Give Service

BUSINESS integrity is a perpetual Christmas gift in the view of the management of Zeller's (Alberta) Ltd., and at this glad season of the year the executive officers of the big department store on 101 street look back with satisfaction and pride to service rendered to the shoppers of Edmonton for the past year.

At the end of this, the first year that Zeller's (Alberta) Ltd. has been in operation here, the store has become an institution, recognized above all, for [illegible] in presenting high quality merchandise at the [illegible] able terms.

In addition the personnel of Zeller's, from general manager to the most recently-hired clerk, has demonstrated anew that only a genuine interest in the needs and a genuine understanding of individual tastes can build enduring store-customer confidence.

When Zeller's (Alberta) [illegible] opened the fine modern store [illegible] realization of a [illegible] [illegible] operates 27 stores throughout [illegible] the opportunity finally came, the fact that Edmonton was the [illegible] made the occasion one of even greater satisfaction.

CORNERSTONE OF POLICY

The cornerstone policy of [illegible] close approximation [illegible] careful study of the habits and customs of the citizens as a whole had to be made. This was done by experts long before the store was opened and it was on the findings of those who conducted the study that the kind and quality of goods to be handled later, was decided.

The slogan of the firm is "Retailers to thrifty Canadians," and in order that the slogan may be made living reality, every modern and efficient method to eliminate waste, without sacrificing either in point of service or quality of merchandise, is practiced. Another factor in making for the perpetuation of such a policy is that of selling only on a cash basis. This eliminates all the carrying charges that are passed along to the customer in so many instances where the bait of easy credit is held forth.

While high quality [illegible] the privilege of returning goods that the customer has found to be unsuitable is also something that Zeller's have found invaluable.

The management has always been [illegible]

JEWELRY SHOP OFFERS IDEAL SUGGESTIONS

Gems, Glassware, Silverware Excellent for Christmas Gifts

There will be many members of Edmonton's gentler sex waking up Christmas morning to find themselves the lucky owners of lovely jewelry gifts from Morrison and Barnes, jewelers.

And all because the thoughtful gentleman who presented her with the gifts from the gods was good enough to remember that nothing is closer to the heart of a young, or [illegible] lady, than a gem, a necklace, or some of the modern cut glassware that forms such an important part in everyday living.

Morrison and Barnes have a complete stock of jewelry, glassware, clocks, watches and silverware, all of the better quality merchandise, all bound to please the most critical eye.

For the young lady friend, why not select a pendant, a compact, or a combination compact and cigarette case, a cigarette lighter or a locket?

MILITARY BRUSHES

For the young man, or the older man, a set of military brushes would hit the spot exactly, whether he's a military man or in mufti; [illegible] and a good watch does not hit the pocketbook such a blow as it did in years past.

Speaking of watches, Morrison and Barnes carry a complete line of Bulova and Longines watches and clocks, chime clocks, and the new colored-face watches in both the men's and women's styles.

And if perchance, none of these suggestions have hit with what you have in mind, then look over this list: rings (diamond and signet), dresser sets, three-piece toilette sets, bracelets, picture frames, china, glass and composition ornaments, leatherbound card sets, bookends, lamps, vases and Parker pens and pencils or combined sets.

When selecting your Christmas gifts, Morrison and Barnes reminds you that theirs is a jewelry firm long established in this city, with a record of satisfied customers that reaches right back to the setting up of the firm years back. Reliable dealing and satisfied customers, what better recommendation could you have for a home of Christmas gift suggestions where only the best can be selected?

If it's a gift for mother, dad, sister, brother, girl friend, boy friend or Uncle Ned and Auntie Sue, remember, Morrison and Barnes will have what you want.

PAY CALL ON DITTRICH FOR GIFT IDEAS

What Would HE Like To Find On Christmas Tree? —Here's Answer

It isn't easy for father or mother or sister or girl friend to know just what the lad, be he 16 or 60, would like to find on the Christmas tree. It's quite possible that some help in making the final decision is going to be needed.

Therefore, you'd best visit Ernie Dittrich's Men's Clothes Shop for the last word in gifts that will hit the spot. All the help in the world is on hand at Dittrich's—an experienced staff that knows its clothes, and a wide range of goods to choose from.

One of the first requisites for the choosing of a gift that will bring the lovelight to the eyes of the well-dressed male is style — style and quality.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE

One can be fully assured that the styles in Dittrich's are up-to-the-minute in every detail, they're bound to be when you consider that frequent buying visits to eastern Canada and the United States are made constantly with a view to bringing back to Edmonton the most useful designs and qualities.

Then, the attire that is placed before the local buying public is the best quality, only goods that bear the name of reliable brands, known for their high standard and excellent wearing appearance. And what is most important, the brands are priced reasonably in every case.

Dittrich clothing stores have had a long acquaintance with Edmonton shoppers. The first store was established here by Joseph Dittrich, father of the present proprietor, more than 40 years ago, and always this store has given the utmost in satisfaction, particularly at this season of the year.

If you were setting out, say next Saturday, with Cousin Will on the shopping list, and thinking what a problem he's going to be, one of the wisest moves you could make would be to get over to the Dittrich Men's Clothes Shop, 10164 101 st., and put your problem in the hands of one of the experienced department managers, all of them know and are ready to help you.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Among the gifts suggested are sports outfits, sweaters, ski accessories, leather jackets, or one of the snappy new fabricated jackets. For the indoor man, a smart lounging jacket would be nice, or a new silky dressing gown. Gloves, scarves, hats, all styled for wearing ability and comfort, all these may be procured with a minimum of trouble.

Remember, to do away with a lot of the worries about Christmas shopping, make a visit to Dittrich's—a big item on your "must" list.

Gifts To Wear

ERNIE DITTRICH, manager of the men's clothing shop bearing his name, reminds the women of Edmonton that the best gift for boy or man is something he can wear.

NO BLACKOUT FOR BIBLES IF AID GIVEN

Society Appeals for Assistance in Difficult Times

Nineteen hundred and forty has brought disaster to the Bible cause as it has to much mission work throughout the world

The work of the French Bible Society and of the Netherlands Bible Society has been stopped. The work of other societies have been greatly curtailed because their nations are involved in war. The British and Foreign Bible Society's contributions from the Bible-loving peoples of England have been reduced. The Society has had to make drastic cuts in its appropriations for the printing of missionary translations of the Scriptures. This will seriously affect the "younger churches." These are increasing daily in numbers and in literacy. Their supplies of Scriptures depend solely upon the ability of the Bible Society to publish them and to transport them to their respective lands.

Rev. H. O. T. Burkwall

The call to extra service is clear. Before another year is passed, it is likely that many mission stations will be closed, and the missionaries gone. In such places the silent testimony of the Bible becomes more important than ever, as it may continue to be distributed by the colporteurs of the Bible Society.

Whatever else happens, there must be no blackout of the Bible anywhere.

The British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada and Newfoundland has been collecting funds to maintain the world-wide service of the parent society. North Alberta is an auxiliary. The society also appeals for funds for the "War Emergency Fund" to provide New Testaments for His Majesty's forces of the air, sea and land. This is a war time service and hence a fund apart from the general fund. Scriptures are also supplied for the aliens interned in Canada.

National Home Furnishers Offer Smartest Selection Of Beautiful, Useful Gifts

OFFERING a complete stock of Christmas furniture gifts and necessities, the National Home Furnishers, Ltd., Edmonton, have opened wide the gates of "different" suggestions for Christmas giving. With one of the largest selections of doll carriages, wagons, tricycles, kiddie cars, etc., in the city, the National Home is indeed a palace of pleasure that should be on the "must" list of every shopper on a limited budget, and in these days of wartime economy, there are few Edmontonians who will not be shopping on a limited budget this year.

Home For Gifts

RONALD MAUNDER, manager of the National Home Furnishers, Ltd., offers a wide selection of Christmas gifts, all appropriate to this time of the year.

To step inside the National Home, is to find oneself literally surrounded by good "buys" in furniture of every kind. A good selection of used furniture, all in good condition supplements the collection devoted to new and modern types. A skilled staff of salespeople are on hand continuously to look after the wants of both the experienced and inexperienced furniture buyer. Ronald Maunder, manager, has had many years in the furniture business and assures customers that to please "him" "her" or that very important "them," one can't go wrong in the National Home.

W. A. Fraser, Office Manager

IS CONVENIENT

Situated on the north side of Jasper east, the store is out of the high rent district and yet close enough to the city centre to be convenient to shoppers already tired by wandering around in an attempt to secure just the right gift.

Tom Ridewood, Salesman

Furniture, as a present to father or mother, "hits the spot" every time. What modern mother wouldn't be thrilled by waking up on the morning of December 25 and finding a brand new, shiny range, electric or otherwise, nestling beside the Christmas tree, or, if a little more convenient already set up in her absence elsewhere in the kitchen, ready to have the turkey plumped into the pan, knowing that with this range she is bound to get results never dreamed of before with the old cooker, a little unserviceable after many years work?

Heck Turvey Salesman

E. J. Paulsen, Mgr. Exchange Dept.

And what father wouldn't be delighted with a new easy chair, or cabinet where he can keep his pipes, or cocktail mixers, or any of the myriad treasures that only fathers can accumulate."

Werner Stevens Salesman

And is there any little Johnny or Sally who would be able to kiss father or mother often enough, after receiving one of those speedy new tricycles, scooters or kiddie cars?

In times of war, when big events are taking place in the world at large, a radio is indispensible to father; and a new radio is that much better, especially when one can get radios so reasonably at the National. And Sister Sue would appreciate a new radio too, think how much easier it would be to keep up on modern swing hits if there's a new radio with which to

Hudson's Bay Ready For "Over-the-Top" Season: Store Is Buyers' Mecca

TAKE a big building, fill it with hundreds of employees, goods bought by buyers who have a sharp eye for quality and price; display all their findings in roomy, modern surroundings; shine up the place with gay Christmas decorations; throw in a three-ring circus and Santa Claus for the children . . . and there you have the Hudson's Bay Company's preparations for an over-the-top "Merry Christmas."

All the technique of training in specialized courtesies for a greatly expanded sales force have been used, and huge stocks of merchandise, wrapping paper and other materials have been prepared for the year's biggest season.

Artists have been at work designing attractive Christmas designs to constantly remind the customers that the Yuletide is a gay season when care and worry slide out of the spotlight.

There may be seven ages—or stages—in the life of man, but it takes all ages to round out the enthusiastic shoppers in the Bay's Christmas toy department. Staid businessmen having the times of their lives running the small trains they will buy for Junior, and show him how to run in their own dens, mothers weighed down with the responsibilities of running a home talking baby talk to the cutest of dolls, and a queue of solemn-faced earnest young boys and girls waiting to tell Santa all about the things that ought to come to the homes of good little boys and girls.

PRACTICAL GIFTS

Later, acting their ages, men and women will find a wide variety of interesting, practical, and attractively priced gifts in the many other departments of the Hudson's Bay Company.

With history being made at the present fearful rate, books on current affairs are bound to be favorites among Christmas shoppers. And exciting tales of adventure, the dependable classics, the romantic love stories and many other books of interest and appeal in the Bay's recently enlarged book department.

Perfumes that make you practically swoon with delight, while you're trying to decide what you want to buy, are ranged in attractive containers in the Bay's cosmetic department. Schiaperelli's new "fancy tricks" include the intriguing "Shocking," in a delightful container. "Salute" and "Sleeping" held in an old-fashioned night candlestick, are on display, as well as such well-known and lastingly popular perfumes, powders and toilet waters as come from the established firms of Elizabeth Arden, Max Factor, Peggy Sale, Harriet Hubbard Ayre and others.

The new "pick-pocket" cases of nail polish and creams, in gaily colored silk containers that fit into a woman's purse, are finding wide popularity with the younger set haunting the Bay's cosmetic department.

CHANGE HER MIND

"I haven't a thing to wear" may be the eternal cry of Woman, but she's bound to change her mind, when she sees the wide collection of the latest models in coats, afternoon frocks, evening gowns and wraps, and suits being shown in the ladies' ready-to-wear department of the Bay. Evening gowns in exceedingly new shades, designed in jerseys, sheers, taffeta, crepes, vie for attention with the latest in evening wraps, fashioned in black velvet, with [illegible] silk linings, and white bunny trim.

Gloves and hosiery are providing fresh interest for men and women shoppers alike. Women have long since learned of the lasting quality of charm of the Bay's hosiery, and this year, the newest shades of Hurricane, Wild Orchid, Tropicana, Wildwood, Red Lips, Dregs of Wine, Thrilling and Sensation are to be found in the regular stock of the Bay.

English leathers predominate in the glove department, with genuine peccary, washable doeskin, and suede fabrics rushing to the fore in the most popular of materials. The Bay has a large stock of English gloves.

In the men's furnishings department, English products again come to the fore. Particularly popular are the Buxtone and Bucksyl windbreakers, so useful for skiing and for next year's golf.

And from England, again, come men's' Dopp travelling cases, fashioned in sturdy leathers of black, brown and London tan, with durable oilskin linings.

In the china department of the Bay "Made in Canada" appears to be the slogan, with tables and cases of Canadian made potteries, dinner sets, tea sets and breakfast sets. Statuettes, flower bowls, ash trays, made both in eastern Canada, and in the Medalta products of southern Alberta are on display in the china department of the store.

HOME FURNISHINGS

For home furnishings, the Bay offers an interesting group of cedar chests, some with extra trays. These chests are predominately of the Boshart and Lane manufacture, made of Tennessee Red Cedar, and of lasting quality.

Tea wagons of solid walnut, designed with three tiers, for sandwiches, cakes and other delicacies, and with a tray on top are being shown among the newest articles in the home furnishing department.

A new shipment of hassocks has just been received by the Bay. These comfortable hassocks are made of fabrikyd, and are washable and endurable.

Such well-known styles as the recently revived Duncan Fyfe, of another generation, are coming forward more and more in the demands of the discriminating home furnishers, and the finished products are attractive, practical and of endless use.

He Has Gifts

Timepieces are appreciated as a personal Christmas gift, and Irving Kline has them. He is one of Edmonton's authorized Bulova watch dealers.

Fine Values

CAL PICKLES, manager of the Men's Shop, who has some very fine values for Yuletide shoppers this year.

MEN'S SHOP IS PLACE TO GET MALE APPAREL

Struck for some idea of what to get "him" for Christmas? You really needn't be, you know, with a store like Cal Pickles' "Men's Shop," fully stocked with a completely new line of male attire and accessories, all up-to-date, reasonably-priced and set up in just the way he'd like it.

Forsyth, Hickock, MacGregor, Biltmore, all big names in men's clothing all on hand at the Men's Shop and all so reasonably priced that you'll really be surprised at the values you can get with a little bit of looking around at the various lines.

Jewelry is always a most acceptable gift, and one that's bound to keep a man remembering the giver. Tie clips, cuff links, novelty pen knives with matching chains, watch chains, nail file sets, dress sets, all at prices that will set you to wondering why you ever had a gift problem.

SOCKS POPULAR

In the way of clothes, Cal Pickles states that he has on stock almost everything that a man needs with the exception of shoes. Speaking of which, socks are always a practical gift and socks by Penman, Macgregor or Harvey Woods are gifts that will keep on giving. The colors are snappy and the wear in these socks is always a lot longer than in some of the less known brands, mainly because a higher quality of wool is used in the manufacture.

And speaking of wool, woolen sweaters for sports or semi-dress form an important part of his wardrobe. At the Men's Shop, the modern miss may obtain pullover sweaters, coat styles, sleeveless and [illegible]. Shirts there are in abundance, all popular makes, including the plaid sports type with the double pockets, and the brand new Forsyth "Trooper" shirt, a dressy [illegible] on military lines, one of the snappiest models seen in a long day.

Finally, let's look at Cal's selection of ties. All the latest in stripes, patterns and shades are featured here. The regimental stripe is proving very popular this season, with the [illegible] of which Mr. Pickles has 60 varieties on hand, maintaining his admiration.

We could go on for hours talking about the gift suggestions Cal has to offer, but we hope that with the above suggestions you will be able to look after your erstwhile [illegible] [illegible] for yourself. Just remember [illegible] [illegible] such as [illegible] khaki and RCAF handkerchief and ties are all ready for you, waiting to be wrapped.

TIMEPIECE IS APPRECIATED GIFT TOKEN

Irving Kline Has Excellent Selection—Silverware Specialty

Soon To Be Uncle Sam's Guests

PAPER IS FINED FOR VIOLATIONS OF CENSORSHIP

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—The editor and publishers of Reynolds News, a Sunday newspaper were fined £15 ($66) each Wednesday and ordered to pay £10 ($44) costs following upon their conviction on two charges of violating censorship regulations.

A third charge, involving an article concerning the "Defence and Fortifications of Malta," was withdrawn for lack of evidence.

The other two charges involved stories about the sowing of mines in the Rhine and the movements of British aircraft in the Mediterranean. The magistrate accepted the prosecution's view that the case was not serious and that a mistake had been made.

In connection with the Malta article the government's case was based on the fact that the censor had made some cuts in a story submitted for censorship in the paper's London edition after it had appeared in full in the Scottish edition, August 11.

THE NORTHERN HAS VARIETY YULE GIFTS

Something For Everybody Is Stocked At Leading Hardware

There's something for every member of the family at the Northern Hardware this Christmas. From tiny Tommy and Sue up through 'teen-aged Bill and lovely Loretta on to Mother and Dad.

For Tommy, there are trains, and drums, tin soldiers and sailors, skates and more toys than there are in Santa's workshop. For Sue there are dolls, dolls, dolls. There are "mama" dolls, and dolls in sets complete with clothing.

BEST EQUIPMENT

Bill is the sport of the family and the best of sporting equipment is at the Northern. He skis—and the finest ski equipment is there for him; from skis, ski poles and boots to wax and harness and ski suits.

There are all sets of games that will bring gay fun-fests to him and his companions on the nights inside. All the "kids," including Mother and Dad, are going to get a big bang out of Chinese checkers, Blackout, Dart Boards, and Bingo to mention a very few of the grand games to be had at the Northern. If Bill's a hockey fan, all hockey equipment is there, too.

If Dad's a sportsman, too, there is a big display of fishing, hunting and golf supplies. And the best of carpenter equipment if Dad likes to "frig around" the house.

FOR MOTHER

Last but certainly not least, there's Mother—nothing too good for her, and the Northern has only the best. Here are electric toasters, ironers, waffle irons, lamps, mantle radios, electric clocks and Westclox clocks. Among the General Electric major appliances, smartly designed washing machines, refrigerators, vaccum cleaners and ironers are all moderately priced to meet the needs of your pocketbook.

Of course, you don't speak of Christmas without a Christmas tree, and one of the largest and most colorful displays of lights and decorations are now on sale at the Northern Hardware. Why not decorate the outside as well as the inside of your house this year?

SMART STYLES ARE FEATURED BY SMITHBILT

Hat Shop Has New Manager—Former Head Enlists In Navy

Under new management and featuring up-to-the-minute styles in hats and men's accessories, the Smithbilt Hat Shop is planning a bang-up season of Christmas gift helping. E. Harry Ross is the new manager. Wider brims are the new styles and ties, socks and jewelry are the men's accessories.

Former manager Howard A. "Howie" Hodgson, left the city this week as a member of the Royal Canadian Navy, in which unit he will be stationed at the west coast. Mr. Ross, the new manager, is a well-known Edmonton sportsman, having been associated with the promotion of baseball, hockey, basketball, wrestling and boxing during the 13 years in which he has lived in Edmonton. He is well-known in Edmonton and northern Alberta, amongst retail and wholesale businessmen, and has expressed himself as very eager to maintain the high standard attained by his popular predecessor.

With the slogan for the season, "Give him a gift that will go to his head," the Smithbilt has countless gift suggestions, to please the most particular eye.

POPULAR SHADES

Mr. Ross stated recently that the new style hats come in green and blue, as the most popular shades with many of the new two-tones, that is green hats with brown bands and brown hats with green bands. Some of the bands are pleated, in a rather wintery "tropical" effect. Suedes and silvertones are still popular, while a complete stock of the narrow-brimmed styles is being maintained for the individual who prefers them to the new three-inch brims.

A good line of patterns and shades in ties and socks are on hand, according to an experienced group of salesmen, all of whom are fully ready to look after the needs of the customers, be they male or female. To aid the female customer, gift certificates are again available, which, when purchased by the customer, are redeemable any time during the next year. Which means the lucky recipient may choose his chapeau either at Easter or next fall if he [illegible].

SKI EQUIPMENT

Ties in the new knitted fabrics are becoming increasingly popular and the selection is made more outstanding by dint of the fact that the prices in this class are exceptionally reasonable.

One of the best features the Smithbilt has to offer is a lack of standardized garments. For instance, if a customer should desire some style of hat, the plant will manufacture the head gear according to the customer's specifications at no increase in cost. All Smithbilt hats are made in Alberta, an all-Canadian product, so that to get "him" a gift from the Smithbilt is to get an Alberta product, an empire product, and indirectly to aid in the war effort.

Druid priests chose a Yule log with great care, blessed it with elaborate ceremony and decreed that it should be kept burning. A brand from the log was saved each year to rekindle the fire the next year. On the other hand, some Yule [illegible] permitted the log to [illegible] only a short time when it was [illegible] and [illegible] with a [illegible] children [illegible] Come forth. Of course nothing came, and the children were required to step outside. In their absence presents were placed under the [illegible] for the children to find when they were allowed to return.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12—(AP)—A proposal that the American farm bureau federation urge congressional repeal of the Johnson Act so credit might be extended to Great Britain, was weighed Wednesday by the organization's resolution committee.

Such a proposal was advanced by the federation's president, Edward A. O'Neal, in a speech in which he declared the United States should [illegible] completely and quickly on the side of Britain.

A majority of the members of the resolutions committee favored extension of greater assistance to the British, but some [illegible] to advocate repeal of the act which forbids loans to nations delinquent in first great war debts to the United States.

Just how strong a stand the committee will take may depend, members said, on a speech to be delivered before a federation convention banquet tonight by the Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador to the United States.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12—(AP)—Gen. G. K. Zhukoff, commander of the Kiev military district, told a Communist Party conference Wednesday that the Red army in the western border area should stay constantly mobilized "so that no tricks of foreign enemies can catch us unprepared."

Urging intensive work to increase the Soviet defensive capacity, the General said: "We shall educate our fighters always to feel the deepest hatred and contempt for an enemy no matter how he is disguised."

Native Uprisings Hamper Control Of French Indo-China

MANILA, Dec. 12—(AP)—Serious native uprisings in southern French Indo-China are intensifying the difficulties of the colonial authorities striving to maintain control in the face of vigorous Japanese pressure and armed conflict with Thailand (Siam), according to incomplete accounts brought here Wednesday by travellers from Saigon.

Bond Haberdashers Have Novel Suggestions For Yuletide

Christmas suggestions that are different—these are welcomed by almost every one now, as Christmas approaches the closer with every minute that passes. And these different suggestions are to be had in abundance at Henry Singer's Bond Haberdashers on 103 street in downtown Edmonton, opposite the Hudson's Bay to be exact.

One of the most [illegible] suggestions that Mr. Singer has to offer is a combination cigarette case and handkerchief box. When you first buy this little article, its in the form of a miniature cedar chest or treasure chest, filled with handkerchiefs, plain or fancy, of good quality. But the container is made in such a way that the box is just the right size for cigarettes, which comes in handy in the bachelor apartment or den.

CANARY YELLOW

Then, just to show that masculine tastes may change just as radically as the female, there is a combination pure wool glove and scarf set, in canary yellow. These have made a big hit in eastern Canada, and are beginning to make their appearance in increasing numbers in Edmonton. So let the lucky man lead the style parade, and select for him a gift such as this.

[illegible] Grenfell cloth [illegible] They are tops in class, coming in either cream or sand colors. Made in England, these hats are being worn on and off the campus, [illegible] Speaking of [illegible] the matter [illegible] You can obtain Grenfell [illegible] cap as well [illegible]

Believe it or not, although these hats were ordered for men's wear, a lot of the ladies are using them, so that if the boy friend has a sister, well, you can draw your own conclusions. At any rate, Grenfell cloth makes a smart looking piece of headgear.

TOWNE HALL SUITS

Finally, high in the list of better gift suggestions, is the Towne Hall suit line. This popular brand is coming to be recognized more and more as a mark of distinction and good taste to the wearers. Coming in all the new stripes, these suits are styled especially for the young man. Towne Hall overcoats are also an excellent buy.

Shirts, socks, ties, dressing gowns, gloves and jewelry, what man wouldn't give his eye teeth for a gift such as these from Santa or the folks, or the girl friend?

Here's Home Of Better Christmas Gifts

Queen Victoria's Christmas gifts to aged and afflicted persons often reached a total of 1,200, usually in sums of five shillings and 13 shillings. Many hundreds of packages of beef, in portions of three to seven pounds, were dispensed by the Queen at the riding school in Windsor castle.

The legend of Santa Claus' coming down the chimney on his annual visit is traced to the Norse Hertha, or Bertha, goddess of domesticity. A fire of fir and other evergreen boughs was lit on a stone altar and Hertha was believed to descend through the smoke, enabling soothsayers to tell the fortunes of those present.

Place the Christmas tree in a bucket of water or moist sand and it will retain its freshness and needles much longer.

NATIONAL HAS FINE VARIETY OF PRESENTS

keep up on the world of music. That idea would go over big with mother too, she always did like those organ programs broadcast from many stations at night. So a composite gift of a radio is one of the best ideas you could get and an economical way of saying "Merry Christmas" too.

Another good idea suggested by the National Home, is the starting of a new living room suite. Isn't that old suite getting a little shabby, a little worn perhaps? Why not trade it in on a new outfit, and have it delivered on Christmas Eve. We'll wager that the lucky [illegible] who receive a gift such as this will take a new lease on life, and [illegible] with the grand [illegible] the National has to offer, [illegible] handsome shades and patterns [illegible] description all in ideally good taste. It doesn't take long to pay for goods at the National, and whatever the price you pay, you can be sure of getting your money's worth.

CARRY FULL LINE

The National Home Furnishers carry all these gift suggestions, [illegible] of all kinds, cabinets, [illegible] for oddments that one just can't get around to throwing away, and children's toys, all by the best manufacturers, all of rugged build that will last and stay new looking after many years of service.

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Edmontonian are looking for something different to buy Mrs. Jones from over the way who [illegible] [illegible] thing that looks nice, or maybe smells nice, but which has no practical value.

At any rate, [illegible]

Justin, Martyr, who lived within the century after Christ was born, places the scene of the Nativity in a cave. The Church and Convent of the Nativity now stand on the site. A white marble slab with a silver star set in it marks the spot where the Saviour was born. Sixteen ever-burning lamps encircle the marble slab.

Bearded Now

Sir Oswald Mosley's hirsute growth was revealed, recently, when the imprisoned British Fascist leader was permitted to attend a court hearing of a libel suit he instituted against a London newspaper which is said to have claimed he received special privileges in the internment camp. The case was later settled out of court. Mosley raised the beard since he was taken into custody.

CHRISTMAS

EACH year for many-many years it has been one of the most interesting of life's experiences to watch the myriads of humans come in to do their shopping. Some drive up in the latest streamlined cars; others drive up with older cars and some show they have lost a few decisions in the great struggle for existence. Some demonstrate their inner feelings with strong gales of genuine laughter, some flash sunny smiles as they walk, while yet others are quietly happy, although serious of demeanor.

But despite the infinite variety of the surface pattern of conduct, all have two things in common.

Every one is imbued with the spirit of Christmas, that indefinable attitude of mind and spirit that makes the Christmas season different to all others, a season of mellow happiness and spontaneous friendliness.

Then the second feeling that all these people share is that W. W. Sales Ltd. is a store in which they feel perfectly at home. In other words, it is their own store, always ready to serve them in their own way.

We are proud that our store can meet the requirements of those in every social strata; to those with means and also those whose income demands strict economy.

May the joys of Christmas in its deepest and most profound sense be yours at this the glad season of goodwill and joy.

Evacuees In India

BOMBAY. — (CP) — The War Emergency Educational Arrangements Committee has completed arrangements for the school training of European children in India who would "normally have been at school in the British Isles."

Furniture Now Becomes Favored Present Among Discerning Yuletide Givers

EVEN before the present condition of world chaos existed more and more people were favoring the giving of furniture as Christmas presents, not only to members of their own immediate families, but also to friends and distant relatives.

Now, with the exclusion of unneeded luxuries, furniture, "the gift that keeps on giving," has really come in to its own. So today homes far and wide will be made more hospitable and more comfortable after our old friend St. Nicholas has paid his annual visit to them.

This year many furniture manufacturers have gone to extreme lengths to produce more useful and attractive pieces than ever before at prices not thought possible up to this time.

RULES GIVEN FOR SAFETY IN MAILING

Briefly, they are:

1. Be sure your package is tied securely. It will be handled along with thousands of others and a carelessly-tied parcel may become unwrapped and the address lost.

2. Write the name and address of the person for whom the parcel or letter is intended plainly in the lower right corner. Affix the postage stamps on the upper right corner. Place your name and complete address in the upper left corner.

3. If Christmas labels are placed on parcels in such a manner that they seal the package, the parcel will be sent first class and you must pay a much higher rate of postage. Don't "plaster" your parcels with seals.

4. Perishable articles should be wrapped securely before being placed in a box. Mark the box "perishable." If it is valuable, have it insured. The rates are low.

5. Goods which might spoil in shipment should not be mailed unless the sender is sure they will arrive in good condition.

6. Don't send "trick" Christmas cards. The smaller-than-standard envelopes frequently are lost. When millions of letters and cards are handled in automatic stamp-cancelling machines, the smaller envelopes [illegible] the process because they must be stamped by hand.

Peace River Bride To Make New Home In California

PEACE RIVER.—An interesting wedding was solemnized here recently at the home of Dr. Greene when Eleanor Mabel, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Gauvreau, Peace River pioneers, pledged marriage vows with Roy Leverne Strong of Kenwood, Calif.

The bride was very smart in a navy blue tailored suit with a bouquet of white roses. Miss Marguerite Gauvreau, sister of the bride, and Miss Peggy Richardson were bridesmaids. Both wore pale blue frocks and carried bouquets of roses.

Pte. Laurie Gauvreau, home on leave, and Dr. Wm. Greene, who acted as proxy for absentee brother P. V. "Bubs" Gauvreau, were best men.

SIAM BLAMES BORDER FIGHT ON INDO-CHINA

Border Towns Are Said Bombed, Machine-Gunned By Warplanes

SINGAPORE, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Thai (Siamese) consulate charged Wednesday that a flare-up Monday in the Thailand-French Indo-China border fighting was started by the Indo-Chinese, who were alleged to have bombed and machine-gunned the Thai border towns of Takhon and Penom.

The Thai report said one of the Indo-Chinese planes was shot down by a Thai pilot in an air battle. It added that on the same day colonial artillery fired 100 shells across the Mekong river, the boundary between Thailand and Indo-China, damaging residence districts in the Thai town of Ban-Muk-Dahan, whereupon Thai warplanes were sent across the river and bombed Indo-China batteries.

(The account of the fighting from Hanoi, French Indo-China, said Tuesday night that Thailand troops shelled the Indo-China town of Savannakhet, across the river from Ban-Muk-Dahan, and that Thai planes bombed and machine-gunned Vientiane, farther north on the Indo-Chinese side of the Mekong.)

Lord Stamp Urges Tightening Belts To Aid War Effort

STOKE-ON-TRENT, Staffordshire, Eng., Dec. 12.—(CP)—Canada and the other dominions are urged by Lord Stamp to join with the United Kingdom in tightening their belts and reducing home consumption so that the war effort may be increased to the utmost peak.

Speaking at a war-weapons-week luncheon, the chief economic adviser to the British government addressed his words particularly to the dominions, explaining that people overseas did not realize the contribution they would make to the war effort by "doing without things they don't really need."

Christmas of 1281 in England experienced "such a frost and snow as no man living could remember the like." Even the Thames and Severn were frozen over. When the ice broke up, five of the arches of old London bridge were carried away.

Resolutions Brought Forward By U.F.W.A. Before Convention To Be Held In Calgary

CALGARY, Dec. 11.—The United Farm Women of Alberta who long since decided that considered opinion was better than snap judgment, have for some years insisted that branches submitting resolutions to be voted on at the provincial convention must do so in time to have the resolutions published and discussed by the [illegible] so that delegates could come to the convention knowing the wishes of the people they represented. Between now and the convention, January 21 to 24, in Calgary, branches will decide their opinion on the following points:

Whereas, many immigrants from central Europe [illegible] loyal British subjects after making their home in Canada, especially when they were allowed to live in colonies.

Be it resolved, that we ask the federal government after the war to curtail immigration from those countries now forming the Axis powers and allow immigration from British and Scandinavian countries only.

HOMEMAKERS' COURSE

Whereas, many women become homemakers, after starting careers as nurses, teachers, office workers, clerks, etc. and whereas many girls would prefer to become wives and mothers and be properly trained for their life work; be it resolved that we ask our Department of Education to institute a homemakers' course that would carry through high school for those pupils who [illegible], and for those who are not intellectually fitted for the academic or commercial courses, but whose skill is in the manual arts and are fitted to become proficient in Home Economics in all its variations. Be it resolved [illegible] schools for nurses in the [illegible] of Alberta [illegible] to an eight-[illegible] in [illegible].

BLOOD BANK

Resolved, that we ask [illegible] government to enact leg[illegible] hospitals to keep [illegible] sufficient amount of the [illegible] types of blood to take care of [illegible] emergency transfusions, thus eliminating unnecessary delay.

JEWEL ROBBER IS SENTENCED TO LONG TERM

Daniel Brent, Found Guilty Of Store Theft, Is Given 5-Year Term

Found guilty by a Supreme court jury Wednesday afternoon on charges of breaking and entering the premises of Henry Birks and Sons, Ltd., and with retaining possession of watches and rings valued at $7,000, Daniel Brent, Edmonton, was sentenced to serve five years in Prince Albert penitentiary by Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd.

A [illegible] Birks [illegible] by Kenneth Abbott, F[illegible] [illegible] he was one of two commiting [illegible] [illegible] tection of the Canada [illegible]

Abbott named Wilfred Nowell as his accomplice in the burglary, and stated that Brent had nothing to do with it. He told the court that the inspiration came to Nowell and himself as they passed the Birks display windows and saw rings and watches of great value on display.

DESCRIBES ROBBERY

They waited until the street lights had been extinguished. Then Nowell hoisted him to the canopy and he broke a window to gain entrance to the store.

It had been arranged, said Abbott, that Nowell would stand on the corner. This was the signal it was O.K. to open the back of the window to take out the jewelry. For the get-away he was to stand on the opposite side of the street to indicate the coast was clear.

"You have told the truth Abbott," stated Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung, K.C., "except in one particular," as he opened the cross-examination of this witness. That is, you have substituted the name of

THE QUESTION

Herr Hitler Tuesday made a speech defending recent actions of Nazi[illegible] the war. Do you think this is a sign of weakness, a sign of the steady decay of Hitler's Germany?

THE ANSWERS

J. G. NIDDRIE, principal: Hitler has never before attempted to explain his actions to the German people. It sounds quite possible that he's beginning to get a little worried about how the people are taking the war [illegible] the success Hitler promised.

• • •

• • •

KEN LIVINGSTONE, mechanic: That speech ought to make the Jerries realize that the spot they [illegible] quite as [illegible] as it was cracked up to be.

• • •

AL MACKENZIE, Varsity student: That speech must have been something to listen to. They say the applause wasn't nearly as great as it was on previous occasions. That's easily understood, nobody likes to hear a liar pleading for someone to believe [illegible]

Netherlanders Enlisting For Military Service On Dutch Government's Call

Netherlands nationals are coming with apparent willingness to answer the call of conscription issued by the Dutch government from its London seat, it was learned Thursday from a medical officer of the Dutch army in the city to supervise medical examination and enlistment of the men drafted.

The doctor, who did not wish his name revealed owing to the fact that members of his family still are living in the German-held Netherlands, told of stern resistance to the Nazi land and parachute invasion.

It was only when the German air force bombed and killed 30,000 people in 2½ hours in Rotterdam and threatened the other cities with similar measures that the country was compelled to capitulate, he said.

KILLED PARACHUTISTS

The Dutch were prepared and able to defend their country behind the bulwarks of the inundations, he said. They stood off the 1,000,000 men of the Nazi army and killed most of the 12,000 parachute troops [illegible] near The Hague.

Among the parachute forces were two generals, both killed, and a horse dropped for one of the generals, he said.

At present the call for a new Dutch army, which is being built up in England and now is several thousand strong, is being answered readily, he said. Dutch people who are naturalized Canadians are not subject to the call. Men from 18 to 36 years of age are called but if they are in special service to Canada and cannot be replaced, they will be allowed to continue in their present places.

TRAIN IN CANADA

They will be trained first at a three months camp in Canada, opening January 15 following which they will go to England for further training.

The doctor escaped following the capitulation of the Netherlands through Belgium and France to Brest, from which port he sailed on June 9 on a Dutch ship with 1,000 other Netherlanders for England. He left England September 15 for Canada.

The Dutch navy and most of the merchant fleet escaped to England and is doing good work there, he said.

Low for the night was 10 below at 11.30 p.m. Wednesday and Wednesday's warmest reading was 9 above at 2:30 p.m.

FRASER FREED ON ATTEMPTED MURDER COUNT

When crown counsel declared the [illegible] to have been [illegible] accidental John Robert Fraser was freed in police court Thursday on a charge of attempted murder.

C. G. Purvis, K.C., crown counsel, asked Magistrate Millar to withdraw the process, stating: "I have interviewed the chief witness, James Crabb, and he states that the affair was purely accidental. Therefore I ask permission to withdraw the charge."

Several blood transfusions were given the injured man immediately after her was admitted to hospital and the victim has since completely recovered.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—Our second-year home economics class is confronting a problem which we would like for you to solve. It is: What is charm? And how may we acquire it? We have been taught from the cradle up that this quality is a necessary one to attractiveness, but unfortunately we have not been taught just what it is, or how to attain it. Please tell us. CHARM SEEKERS.

ANSWER: Not even Solomon himself could answer that question. We all recognize charm when we contact it and go down before it like ripe grain before the sickle, but just in what charm consists none of us know, nor do we know how to acquire it. Beauty has something to do with it, because we are all attracted to the individual who is good to look at, but some of the most beautiful people in the world are the least charming. Intelligence is one of the ingredients of charm, yet many of the intelligentsia repel us at sight. Suavity of manner is a necessary quality to charm, yet there are no people to whom we are less drawn than we are to those who are too anxious to please. On the other hand, we all know homely people and even dull people who are utterly charming, and because of their charm we support many a lazy good for nothing and forgive many a villain his vices.

For its happy possessors, charm is the gift that their Fairy God- [illegible] when they were born. For the out- [illegible] our knowing way.

First, make yourself as easy on the eyes as you can by lettin' the beauty parlors give you first aid, by keeping yourself well groomed and wearing clothes that compliment you instead of calling attention to all of your defects. No use in discussing whether we are attracted to a frowzy, slovenly, omely woman, or one who is spick-and-span and who has on a pretty frock.

And, finally, and this is the most important of all, never say anything to anybody that you wouldn't like them to say to you.

If you want to be charming, be [illegible]ful. That is really the whole of the law and the prophets.

Lovely Costume Jewelry You Can Make Yourself

This Set from Safety Pins!

Smart as can be, this colorful bracelet and necklace of — guess what? Safety pins dipped in sealing wax of green, royal blue and red—or any other colors you may like.

You can quickly make the set for yourself or for a Christmas gift. For the bracelet you need 96 pins, half of them large and half small and elastic cord about 1-16 inch thick long enough to tie and knot around your wrist—plus two inches.

To apply the wax, first soften a stick over a flame, then quickly and evenly coat the catch end of a closed pin and dip it in cold water. Do all the pins this way, waxing 16 large and 16 small ones in each of the three colors.

When you've strung all your pins on the cord, knot it tightly and apply wax to each of the ends.

The necklace you make the same easy way, using more pins, of [illegible] you can turn out in a jiffy are a "Grapes of Pearl" clip, a "Jingle" belt.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is so perfectly natural for a parent to want her child to seem to be smarter and to know more than the average, that her concern about ways of teaching such children is an understandable one. But, the naturally smart child suffers often from the parent's unwise efforts to stuff him with information. He has a hard enough time remaining on the same level as the average child and we only increase this difficulty by forced education before school days have arrived.

Mrs. M. K. says that she and her husband would like to know a little about teaching her 21-months-old son. "He has a first primer and is learning to pick out various words. He is conscious of colors and can recognize them fairly well. He counts to ten and understands the amounts of anything up to two or three. He seems to want to learn and we really would like to know methods of getting things across to him. I have plenty of time to spend with him."

Because the boy is obviously gifted and precocious you could spend your time with surprisingly good results. And what would you accomplish for the child's benefit, if you did? Your boy might be able to read and count when he got to school and then would sit in the classroom bored and idle, while the duller pupils who were just learning to read and count would fumble their way through the subjects he had mastered.

SENSE OF UNEASE

And if you pushed him into a higher grade [illegible] difference in play abilities of children of different ages. Instead of seeming to be as smart as [illegible] be just at their level of [illegible] ability and beneath their [illegible] social capacities. He would develop a feeling of unease and insecurity because he could not keep up with his companions socially which would be a greater disadvantage than for him to stay in the grade where he belongs even if he does the work very easily.

Let him enjoy his blocks with no effort to teach letters. Let him listen to rhymes and stories and learn them naturally by repetition. Let him learn to dress and feed himself ably and use tools and building toys and crayons and beads.

But don't work to put an academic polish upon him. Let that come when he is old enough for school.

I shall be happy to send you my leaflet, "What to Teach the Pre-School Child," for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope. Send your request to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department in care of this newspaper.

THERE'S NO DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A FRACTURE AND A BROKEN BONE

Jack: "I sure take care of my pencils and tablets since I have to buy them out of my own allowance."

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

When your waist settles into the hips you've got a middle-aged spread. That waistline bulge may be caused by soft, lax muscles and slumping rather than by excess weight or age. So stop settling down with your birthdays.

There is plenty of reason for spreading hipline—we all have to sit too many hours a day, but there is no excuse for a dumpy waistline. Sitting correctly and pulling up exercises the waistline muscles. But if it's too late for preventive measures, stretching and bending [illegible] stretching into systematic exercise. Stretching stirs up a laggard circulation [illegible] and leaves you feeling relaxed and rested. Try it and see: Arms overhead, now stretch, reaching up with first one arm then the other, rather like climbing a ladder. Pull that settled waistline up and away, then relax completely, flop over at the waist like a rag doll, then stretch again. Each time you stretch, pull your waist as slim as you can make it. Each time you relax, go as limp as possible.

Movement: Holding the stretch from hips to ribs, bend the trunk at the waist to the [illegible] left, return to upright position, pull up and bend to the right. Repeat twelve times, alternating sides. Now flop sitting back on your heels and let all the tension go out of your muscles.

Movement: Swing at the waistline and, bending over, grasp the left foot with the left hand, then swing over to the right and grasp the right foot with the hands, back up to starting position and carry on. Perform this exercise slowly and center the stretch and twist at the waistline. And always keep the lower abdominal muscles pulled up and in.

Movement: Keeping the back straight, and the tummy muscles up and in, twist at the waist and touch the right elbow to the right knee and left elbow to left knee. Repeat six times, then see if you can touch the right elbow to left knee. Now try to touch the elbow to the floor in the space between the outstretched legs.

All of these exercises are wonderfully suppling. They not only firm the waistline and abdominal muscles but they make you feel slim.

Friday and Saturday

Don't Buy Medicine Until You Read This

No matter how many medicines you have tried, read this offer in fairness to yourself and family. Tomorrow and Saturday you can have $2.00 worth of medicine at a saving of $1.00. There are no "IFS" or "BUTS" to the offer. This is simply to prove to all who suffer that we have a medicine that is helping many people who had tried medicine upon medicine without relief.

The medicine referred to is a new, scientific formula containing 15 different roots and herbs, known as Mosby's Tonic, that has helped the greater percentage of those who have taken it. You can get the large $1.35 size and also a 65c introductory size, both for only $1. This is $2.00 worth of medicine. You save ONE DOLLAR with coupon below (Friday and Saturday only).

HOW IT HELPS YOU: Mosby's Tonic is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus eliminating the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function more properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas pains, sourness, bloat and belching. It will not gripe or nauseate you like many liver medicines. It will make your liver more active and help clear away the old bile from your system. At the same time, Mosby's Tonic helps Nature eliminate poisons from the kidneys to relieve backache, bladder irritation and weakness. Strengthens the nerves.

Mosby's Tonic acts upon the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. It contains 15 Roots and Herbs and accomplishes several things within the human system at one time. That is why weak, run-down people who take it soon feel different in general. With coupon below you get the $1.35 size and the 65c size (both for 1), which gives you THREE WEEKS of up-building of health for approximately 35c a week—a cost that is trifling and insignificant compared to the results obtained. This is an introductory offer, therefore the coupon is good Friday and Saturday only.

CALGARY, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Found guilty of perjury by a [illegible] jury last night, [illegible] J. Pilling, 56, Santa Barbara, Calif., was sentenced to one year in Lethbridge jail by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing.

Italian Claim

ROME, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A Vatican City news service claimed Wednesday it had been confirmed that British authorities are holding the Patriarch of Jerusalem Monsignor Luigi Barlassina, in the Patriarchal palace with the missionary Bishop Perro. (In London British sources said they had no information concerning the patriarch.)

Six Sons 1-A

TEMPLE, Tex., Dec. 12.—(AP)—John and Olga Coufal have 12 children. Six of them are boys. All six registered in the draft. All six are in class 1-A.

TWO REDS MAY FORFEIT SEATS UNDER NEW LAW

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Attorney-General W. J. Major last night said that a Winnipeg alderman and a legislature member will be ousted from their seats when Lieutenant-Governor R. F. McWilliams gives royal assent to the bill which automatically bars from holding or seeking office in the province persons convicted, ordered detained, detained or interned under the Defence of Canada regulations.

The bill was given third reading in the legislature yesterday and Mr. Major, sponsor of the legislation, said he expected assent will be accorded "within a day or so."

The attorney-general told The Canadian Press that James Litterick, elected to the legislature on the Communist ticket in June, 1936, and Alderman Jacob Penner, member of the Winnipeg council since 1933, would be disqualified under the act.

He explained that Litterick, whose present whereabouts is unknown, has been sought under the Defence of Canada regulations for some time. Penner, elected last fall for a two-year term on the council as a Communist candidate, is at present in an internment camp.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Prices edged up at the start, then slipped into mild irregularity on the stock market today.

While gains of minor fractions were well sprinkled, small losses were plentiful.

Universal Pictures pfd bounced up 14 but gave up a slice. Crucible Steel pfd. and American Shipbuilding were up about 2 each at one time. All three touched new highs for the year or longer.

Wheat Champion Expresses Thanks For Scholarship

Expressing pleasure at the honor accorded him by the Alberta government in the university scholarship awarded him in recognition of his winning the world wheat championship three times running, Francis Lloyd Rigby of Wembley on Thursday said he hoped it would result in his being enabled to make further contributions to the agriculture of the province.

A second year agriculture student at the University of Alberta, Lloyd Rigby on Wednesday was granted a scholarship of $864 to pursue his studies.

"I am delighted beyond words," Mr. Rigby said. "The award of this scholarship means more to me than anything that has yet come my way. Needless to say I am deeply grateful to the provincial government for their kindness to me personally and for their recognition in such practical manner of the importance of grain growing in Alberta."

Heads Council

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12—(CP)—Gilbert McMillan of Huntingdon, Que., was re-elected president of the National Dairy Council last night as the three-day meeting closed here. E. T. Love, Edmonton, and Allan C. Fraser, Ottawa, were re-elected vice-president and secretary, respectively.

BANK REVEALS EARNINGS UP 1940 REPORT

Strong Liquid Position Feature of Dominion Bank Statement

The annual meeting of shareholders of the Dominion Bank was held at the head office of the bank in the city of Toronto on Wednesday, December 11, when the 70th annual statement covering operations for the 12 months ended October 31 last was presented.

The features of this statement that should be noted are the bank's strong cash and liquid position, the substantially higher commercial loans and its improved earnings.

COMMERCIAL LOANS

Commercial loans and discounts in Canada have shown a remarkable increase during the year. In the report of a year ago they stood at $58,396,413; today they have reached $74,157,387, expressing, of course, the increase in business activity.

Call and short loans in Canada and elsewhere have decreased from $5,759,378. In the previous statement to $3,817,616, as during the year there has been a marked reduction in demands for this type of financing.

Deposits by the public, while slightly less than a year ago, total $121,698,000, compared with $123,314,000, a decrease of $1,616,000. Approximately $22,000,000 was withdrawn from deposits for investment in Canada's war loans. Deposits by the public that do not bear interest have increased by $3,097,000, and now stand at $41,075,000, those bearing interest amount to $80,622,000, being $4,713,000 less than last year.

Dominion and provincial government deposits total $8,713,357, compared with $13,587,383 a year ago, a decrease of $4,874,026.

SOUND POSITION

The bank's sound liquid position is again indicated by cash assets at $28,955,390, that is 20.82 per cent of liability to the public: immediately available assets at $71,524,000 are 51.43 per cent of liability to the public.

The net profits are $958,788, compared with $802,296 for the previous fiscal period of 10 months. After providing $370,165 for dominion and provincial taxes—an amount of $105,930 in excess of the previous year—$700,000 for dividends, a contribution of $85,000 to the Officers' Pension Fund and the writing-down of bank premises account by $150,000, $23,788 was added to the profit and loss account, which now stands at $861,188.

The bank's investment portfolio totals $38,489,000 of which dominion and provincial bonds stand at $33,978,000. Municipal and other high grade securities represent the balance. In comparison with total investments in last year's statement there is a reduction of $22,100,000. This was in a large sense due to the increased demand by the bank's customers for loans to finance the 1940 grain crop and war contracts.

Letters of credit are shown at $4,333,000 as against $2,856,000 a year ago. This increase reflects the greater activity of the bank's customers in foreign business.

Capital of $7,000,000 and reserves of $7,000,000 remain unchanged.

Only "Episodes"

BERLIN, Dec. 12—(CP)—According to Nazi spokesmen, British successes in Egypt and the Greek victory in Albania are "mere episodes exaggerated into tragedies."

"The axis course, both military and economic, remains absolutely uninfluenced by these episodes," they said.

Investigation Of Fur Farm Project Now Proceeding

Investigation into the operations of the provincial fur farm at Oliver, closed last month by the government, is expected to be completed in about 10 days, it was stated Thursday by an official of the department of agriculture.

While the investigation is proceeding, W. H. Wallace, fish and game commissioner and G. M. Spargo, director of fisheries, are under suspension.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the provincial audit department are carrying out enquiries into the fur farm affairs. Their report will be given to Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture.

MINISTER IS HAVING REST IN HOSPITAL

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Dec. 12—(CP)—Trade minister J. A. MacKinnon of Canada, who entered hospital here Tuesday night for a check-up, was reported Wednesday to be resting comfortably.

Mr. MacKinnon, head of the Dominion's trade mission touring Latin America, had suffered a slight indisposition earlier this week while visiting Barranquilla, Colombia.

Plans of the Colon Chamber of Commerce to hold a conference with the mission Wednesday and a formal reception were cancelled. It was believed that all further plans of the mission have been suspended pending Mr. MacKinnon's recovery.

Mr. MacKinnon appeared in good health Tuesday night when his plane arrived at Cristobal, but after a brief press conference he went by rail and motor across the isthmus and was admitted to the hospital.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Trade Minister MacKinnon, in a Balboa, C.Z., hospital, hopes to leave Cristobal for Lima, Peru, on schedule Saturday, he told his wife in a cable reaching here Wednesday.

The cable said: "Thought it advisable to enter Gorgas hospital (at Balboa) for check-up. Examination proceeding most satisfactorily and feel alright personally. Hope to leave Saturday for south on schedule."

Mr. MacKinnon entered the hospital Tuesday. With the three other members of a Canadian trade mission, he is touring the West Indies and Central and South America.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 12—(CP)—Hon. J. L. Ralston, Canadian minister of national defence, and Maj.-Gen D. G. Crerar, chief of the Canadian general staff, conferred with senior officers of Canadian military headquarters and the Canadian divisions in England at a meeting today at corps headquarters.

For several hours this morning and again this afternoon the minister and chief of staff discussed military problems with Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum and several brigadiers.

Gen. McNaughton later told The Canadian Press that the meeting had an opportunity of discussing the administrative problems of the forces overseas with Col. Ralston and Gen Crerar. "Thus we can carry the real facts of the situation straight to the responsible minister and as a consequence difficulties are being rapidly resolved," he said.

SUCCESSOR TO LOTHIAN WILL BE NAMED SOON

Washington Post Will Be Filled Without Delay, London Reports

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—The vitally important post of British ambassador to the United States will be filled without the least delay, it was learned reliably today, following the death in Washington of the Marquess of Lothian.

An informed source described Lord Lothian's death as a "heavy blow". Word of his illness came in a telegram Tuesday saying he was confined to his room with slight food poisoning but it was not regarded seriously here.

EDEN POSSIBLE CHOICE

The importance of Lord Lothian's post for cementing Anglo-American relations at this critical time makes immediate action upon his successor necessary "but who on earth will fill it, goodness knows," this source said.

It was added that it will be "some big gun, possibly a cabinet minister."

This led to the belief that the new appointee would be someone who enjoys the complete confidence of the government, as Lord Lothian did, and who knows the minds of Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

Observers ranked War Secretary Anthony Eden high among possible choices, recalling the great impression he made in a visit to the United States in 1938. It was pointed out also that Mr. Eden enjoys the support of all parties in the House of Commons.

CAMPBELL ELIGIBLE

Should the choice fall upon someone now holding the status of ambassador, it was believed the only possible selection was Sir Ronald Campbell, former ambassador to France and recently named envoy to Portugal.

While it was emphasized there would be no delay in appointing a new ambassador, it was stated that a week or two might elapse before the right man could be chosen.

"After all, there is not a string of persons fitted for that particular job just waiting to be called up," a spokesman said.

CHRISTMAS PAY IS PLANNED FOR RESERVE ARMY

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Members of the Canadian reserve army who through training with their units at local drills have completed the equivalent of thirty days training, the length of compulsory training periods, are receiving their pay before Christmas, it was learned at the defence department.

Working under regimental instructions, members of the reserve are being paid at the rate of $1.20 for each full day of training as soon as they have completed 30 days. Two evening parades count as one day. Units have received permission to pay men who have not completed their months training before Christmas as high as half their pay, provided at least 15 days training has been undergone.

For many men of the reserve army the Christmas payment will be only for 15 days because they received pay during the summer for their 15 days in camp.

BIRMINGHAM HEAVILY HIT IN NAZI RAID

London Under Alert For 14 Hours During Night Air Assault

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—German air raiders stabbed twice at London today without penetrating the capital's defences after pounding the industrial Birmingham area and surrounding Midlands towns during the night with incendiary and explosive bombs.

London was under air raid alarm overnight for 14 hours.

Among buildings hit in the Birmingham area were six churches, 11 schools, two movie theatres, private homes and public shelters.

FOLLOW PATTERN

Considering the scale of the Midlands attacks, the casualties were not believed to have been heavy.

Following the usual pattern, the first night raiders dropped incendiaries, which guided the second wave with its explosives. Many fires were started, but with the strenuous work of fire-fighters they were quickly extinguished or brought under control.

The anti-aircraft barrage in the Birmingham area was heavier than ever before there since the start of the air siege.

ARE TURNED BACK

Two formations of aircraft attempted to penetrate to London by way of the Thames estuary, but they were turned back after a short battle with British fighters.

The air ministry disclosed the first case of a victory scored by a British fighter plane newly-equipped with cannon. The R.A.F. pilot reported he shelled a Messerschmitt 109 and saw it explode into bits "like a bursting anti-aircraft shell."

"There was a quick flash—a cloud of black smoke—and bits were flying through the air," he said. "The stuff was simply dripping out of the sky."

Four enemy aircraft were reported by the ministry of information to have been destroyed today.

FIRE STATION HIT

In the Birmingham assault, some casualties were suffered when an auxiliary fire service station was hit and when the staff of an air raids precautions depot were buried under the debris resulting from a direct bomb-hit. All were rescued alive. A war reserve policeman was killed in another section.

The German daylight thrusts at London were short-lived.

Thames-side batteries blasted at the first formation, which flew too high to be seen by ordinary observers. The volume of the engine drone, however, indicated that it was large.

The second formation was heard flying up the estuary a few minutes later. Then followed the noise of two separate air battles. They lasted only a short time and the raiders were repulsed.

HIT-AND-RUN ATTACK

While a lone German Messerschmitt made a hit-and-run attack this morning on a southeast coast town, machine-gunning and dropping one bomb which missed and fell into the sea, a number of other raiders crossed the coast at great height.

Two Messerschmitt 109 fighters machine-gunned shopping centres of a southeast coast town this afternoon. The raiders dived in from the sea and skimmed roof tops. They fired six bursts each which broke a few windows and shattered roof slates.

Many pedestrians had near escapes, but none was hurt. The Germans flew at less than 300 feet for miles before they were forced into the clouds by machine-gun fire from cliff posts.

RAIDER SHOT DOWN

The invaders, who had been quiet for two nights, smashed at the Midlands town with loads of high explosive and incendiary bombs, sending warplanes over one-a-minute for a time, then tapering off to occasional sorties by individual planes the rest of the night.

The raid on London, which opened around 8 p.m., ended the longest period of quiet—two days and two nights—which the capital has enjoyed since the air siege began last August. Bad weather over German bases across the channel was believed to have grounded the raiders.

Models Of Articles Prohibited By Ban May Be Brought In

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Models of manufactured articles which were prohibited importation to Canada under the War Exchange Conservation Act, may be admitted temporarily for designing and copying purposes, the revenue department announced today.

Persons desiring to make such importation must pay the regular duty and taxes, maintain the identity of the article imported, and agree to export it back to the country of origin within six months. When the model is exported the manufacturer will receive a rebate of 90 per cent. of the duty and taxes paid.

The purpose is to enable Canadian manufacturers to obtain models of canned commodities which may be manufactured in Canada.

Turkey, Gt. Britain's Ally Bars German Pathway To Oil Fields Of Middle East

Tied to Great Britain by treaty, but remaining neutral to date, Turkey is a land to which the war may spread although probably not until the spring because of Italian reverses in Greece and Albania and the severe winter weather. The part this country of many contrasts is playing in the war situation is told in a series of two articles of which this is the first.—EDITOR.

By C. A. FARNSWORTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Turkey is an answer to the quest of German strategists for a route to the oil riches of the Middle East and could conceivably become a great battlefield on which the future of the war may well be decided.

Turkey is a bridge between continents, between Asia and Europe. Turkey is a link between religious worlds, Islam and Christianity. Turkey is a conglomerate of the old and new, the past and present, the streamlined and the archaic.

Turkey is a melange of cultures in which the Muezzin from his minaret may call the faithful to their prayers, to Allah while the shifts are changing at the local steel works, in which freight-carrying donkeys jog alongside sleek automobiles and in which the snap-brim felt hat of westerners still is challenged by the turban, banned a century ago, and the fez, tabooed 17 years ago.

HOLDS THE KEYS

Now in a world at war, she holds one of the great keys to the settlement that some day will be written into treaties to be signed at some conference table.

For Turkey, though poor in oil herself, is the gateway to the fields of Iraq (Mesopotamia) and Iran (Persia) which Germany and her axis partner, Italy, seek to tap to help keep their war machine oiled for a long-term conflict.

These fields with those of the adjoining peninsula of Arabia are unsurpassed in the world outside the United States, Netherlands East Indies and Russia.

Turkey, as a non-belligerent ally of Britain, blocks the Nazi pathway to the Middle Eeast and Turkey once declared: 1,000,000 bayonets would keep it blocked.

So long as Turkey stands as a barrier to the Nazis at the back door to the Middle East, so long as Italy's desert troops are kept far from the Suez, and so long as the British fleet controls the Mediterranean, the oil is Britain's to use.

GERMAN TARGET

Britain has access to the middle East to a total annual production of 17,500,000 tons of petroleum—enough to supply her needs in the Middle East with a surplus for export to the British Isles and the dominions. This figure includes production of fields along the Persian Gulf in Arabia, and Bahrein Island.

The most immediate target of any German diplomatic coup or military thrust would be entry to the Mosul fields of Iraq where the annual production is 4,400,000 tons. These lie along the southeastern border of Turkey. All of Turkey would have to be crossed to reach them overland from Europe.

A German attempt at a thrust through Turkey would meet bitter resistance from Britain, using new air and naval bases in Greek territory, as well as the British army in the Middle East, concentrated partly in Palestine, and working either independently or in co-operation with Turkey's own well-trained modern army.

CANADA'S TWO RACES UNITED GODBOUT SAYS

Quebec Premier Gives Ottawa Credit For "Twin-Brother" Attitude

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Canada's two races are as united in the war effort as "twin-brothers" and credit is due to the "government at Ottawa," Premier Adelard Godbout told a meeting of the Liberal Association of Montreal, Mercier Division, Wednesday night.

"We have been at war a year and this is one of the most difficult periods in world history," he said. "While our mother countries are divided overseas, perfect order reigns throughout the country.

"It is just as if the Canadian people were made up of twin-brothers. The reason is that the government at Ottawa gives all classes of the population the measure of justice to which they are entitled."

"CHASED INTO WOODS"

"In 1914, a certain race which was no more laggard than any other was pursued. Young men were chased into the woods before their role in the war was explained to them."

"They began accusing them even before inviting them to do what really was their duty. Quebec was pointed to as a traitor.

"Those they chased into the woods were just as loyal as the 21-year-olds of today," the premier asserted. "Today there is no people more patriotic than the people of Quebec. There is no province more loyal to England."

"FULLY GROWN NATION"

"In 10 years things will be different," he said. "Canada will be a fully-grown nation. It is a nation legally at present but it is developing.

"Canada will be a great nation among the nations of the world in a short time."

He asked French-Canadian parents to see that their sons acquire technical and commercial training to "qualify them for industry and trade and to be the best farmers in the country."

"Industry and commerce to a great extent are controlled by people of the other race who do not speak our language—we must learn English."

"Let us prepare our children so that they will not be in the situation in which I sometimes find myself—of having to speak English in a way that is almost incomprehensible to my listeners because I did not learn English."

CORNETT WINS MAYOR'S SEAT IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Jonathon W. Cornett, 57-year-old retiring alderman with a record of 17 years in public life, was elected mayor of Vancouver today by a substantial margin over Mayor Lyle Telford, head of the city for the past two years.

Final returns from the city's 47 polls gave Cornett a majority of 4,050 votes. The final vote was Cornett 19,672 and Telford 15,622. The voting was light, with less than half of the city's 85,023 turning out.

Mayor Telford sought re-election as an independent. He has held a seat in the provincial legislature since 1937. At one time he was provincial president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, but resigned from the party because his dual position as mayor and M.L.A. clashed with party rules.

In the aldermanic race, 37 out of 47 polls showed four Non-Partisan Association candidates, three of them running for re-election, named to office. They were Alderman H. D. Wilson, 15,004 votes; Alderman John Bennett, 14,538; Alderman G. C. Miller 12,660, and Dr. G. H. Worthington, 12,448.

Five Non-Partisan candidates were elected to the vacant seats on the school board.

Trinidad, U.S. In Disagreement On Defence Site

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The United States government and local authorities in Trinidad were reported Wednesday to be in disagreement over location of the now United States air and naval bases on the strategic Caribbean island.

The authorities disclosing this information expressed confidence that the controversy would be settled satisfactorily and with little delay to construction.

The governor of Trinidad, Sir Hubert Young, visited Washington last week to outline his position on the base locations. Officials said he sought to persuade United States authorities that certain little-inhabited swamplands could be developed into satisfactory sites.

Training Camp In P. E. I. Is Placed Under Quarantine

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The Beach Grove Inn military training camp near here, which houses 250 trainees and a staff of about 65, was placed under quarantine Wednesday after the death of a trainee from what medical authorities described as spinal meningitis.

Credit Houses

CALGARY, Dec. 12—(CP)—As a patriotic duty to aid Canada's war effort the "wasteful expenditure" of the Alberta government in the operation of "Credit Houses" should be discontinued, in the opinion of the Calgary Board of Trade council which passed a resolution to that effect Wednesday.

B.C. Police Seize Illegal Tracts

VICTORIA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Saanich municipal police said Wednesday a quantity of literature issued by the banned organization, Jehovah's Witnesses, had been seized in a raid Tuesday night. No arrests were made, but Royal Canadian Mounted Police said yesterday charges would be laid as soon as permission was obtained from the attorney - general's department. They did not say how many persons were involved.

MATA HARI'S DAUGHTER

By Maurice Dekobra and Leyla Georgie

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

FOR a half hour, the expert studied the notes. "It's code, sir," he said finally, "but a very complicated one. It's in German, I'm sure. But I can't get the key out of it at once. There's so little to work with—not more than five or six words."

"How long will it take?"

"Perhaps a day; perhaps longer."

"Drop everything elyse until you have solved it."

As the agent left, Sir John slumped in his chair.

"Well," he said bitterly addressing space, "MacDonald wins! It's heredity that tells the story. Maybe she's a true daughter of Mata Hari, after all."

But he couldn't leave it at that. He began pacing the long room . . . Brinda! Little Brinda! Somehow, he couldn't believe it. Should he call her in and invite her to explain? No, that wouldn't do. If she were a spy—or if some clever Fifth Columnist was using her as one—it would merely give them warning.

What was it the housekeeper had said? "Staying out all hours." Then he remembered—that benefit ballet for evacuees. A decent enough cause. And perfectly respectable—Prince Vaslav was running it . . . Vaslav.

"I wonder"—He left the thought unfinished. But a little later, on reaching his office, he called in a confidential aide and asked for Prince Vaslav's file.

"We have none," said the aide, looking shocked. "Don't you know"—He whispered the rest.

"I'm aware of that," declared Sanderson crisply. 'However, I'm not interested in his royal connections or in who vouched for him. I'm afraid there's been too much of that in this country—as well as across the Channel. If we've no file on this man, it's time we started one. I shall expect you to have better information when I ask again."

"Yes, sir," said the aide. "I shall sir." His voice sounded as though he meant it.

* * *

During the weeks of rehearsal, Brinda seized every chance to become familiar with the mysteries of Vaslav's abode. It was not easy, because there seemed to be soft-footed servants everywhere. But she persisted.

Most of all she sought the door from which had come the buzzing sound—like that of a powerful wireless set.

Then came a night she was sure she had found it. It had been a long evening—a final drilling of principals sandwiched in between the dress rehearsal and the public performance. She heard the others leaving; Vaslav telling them good-night.

For a moment the upper hallway was unoccupied. Her heart in her throat, Brinda crept along it until she came to the spot where the door should have been. But there was only a tapestried wall-hanging. She turned—and confronted Vaslav.

"Ah," he said, softly, "you've discovered my little secret. Well . . . it was time." He touched the tapestry, and it slid aside, revealing a narrow grilled door. This, too, opened silently. "Will you please enter?" He bowed elaborately. Then, as brinda hesitated, "Surely, you will not deny me the pleasure of satisfying your lovely curiosity, my beautiful ballerina?"

The challenge sufficed.

"I never guessed there was a lift," remarked Brinda, smiling.

"A tiny one," said Vaslav, "but large enough." He stepped in after her, and the little house elevator silently ascended. "My private retreat," said the Prince, opening the door. "You are more than welcome."

Brinda's glance swept the room. She saw the globe, the books, the spacious lounge. But there was no trace of any wireless. Then she realized the sound must have come from somewhere else in the building—some other room that also gave on the elevator shaft.

Under Vaslav's gaze, she became suddenly conscious of the completeness of their isolation from the outer world.

"Please sit down," he said. "No, one moment—just stand there—let me look at you."

She beat on his chest with her fists, but, from his superior height, he looked down at her with a smile that was a strange mixture of tenderness and ferocity.

With one hand, he pinioned her wrists; with the other, he bent back her head. Deliberately, he kissed her on the lips. She twisted her face away, and his kisses fell hotly on her cheeks and throat.

Even while hatred for Vaslav surged through her, Brinda was conscious for the first time of fear—a dread doubt that she could not defend herself. His voice was deep, soothing, possessive.

"Darling! I love you! Do you understand? I worship you!"

For a swift instant, Brinda marveled that she could have been foolish enough to put herself in his power. She felt helpless, trapped, afraid . . . Afraid not only of Vaslav, but of the unfamiliar impulses that surged in her own being.

Unbidden, the thought came to her: What would Mata Hari do? And, instantly, she knew—as surely as though someone had whispered the words in her ear.

Steeling herself, she returned his kiss. She made her eyes languid, compelled herself to smile.

"You don't need to hold me," she whispered. "I shan't run away."

"You're sure?"

"Oh, yes, Vaslav—yes!"

Slowly, she relaxed his tight embrace. She slipped from his arms. Then, as he would have held her again, "Wait!" She twisted a displaced shoulder-strap into place. "You muss a girl terribly, don't you? Where did it go?"

She turned, pretending to scan the floor in search of something . . . Ah!—before Vaslav could divine her intention—she moved swiftly, purposefully. A bright object, thin and pointed, flashed in her hand. On the wall an empty spot among Vaslav's trophies indicated the place whence the dagger had come.

Vaslav's face went hard and watchful.

"Clever!" he said, showing his teeth in a thin smile. "But unnecessary." He took a step towards her. "Besides" another step "I doubt that you would use it." One more step. "Will you?"

"Really? I don't think so." He leaped.

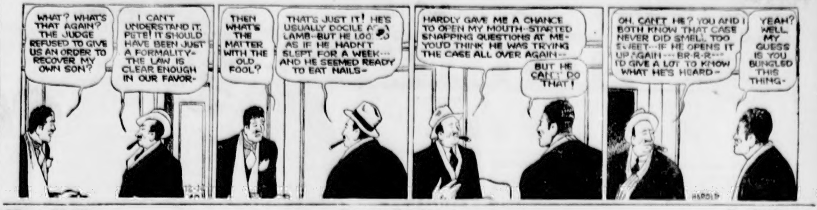
Little Orphan Annie —By Gray



WHAT? WHAT'S THAT AGAIN? THE JUDGE REFUSED TO GIVE US AN ORDER TO RECOVER MY OWN SON?
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT, PETE! IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN JUST A FORMALITY—THE LAW IS CLEAR ENOUGH IN OUR FAVOR—
THEN WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE OLD FOOL?
THAT'S JUST IT! HE'S USUALLY DOCILE AS A LAMB—BUT HE LOOKED AS IF HE HADN'T SLEPT FOR A WEEK— AND HE SEEMED READY TO EAT NAILS—
HARDLY GAVE ME A CHANCE TO OPEN MY MOUTH—STARTED SNAPPING QUESTIONS AT ME—YOU'D THINK HE WAS TRYING THE CASE ALL OVER AGAIN—
BUT HE CAN'T DO THAT!
OH, CAN'T HE? YOU AND I BOTH KNOW THAT CASE NEVER DID SMELL TOO SWEET—IF HE OPENS IT UP AGAIN—BR-R-R— I'D GIVE A LOT TO KNOW WHAT HE'S HEARD—
YEAH? WELL, MY GUESS IS YOU BUNGLED THIS THING—HAROLD

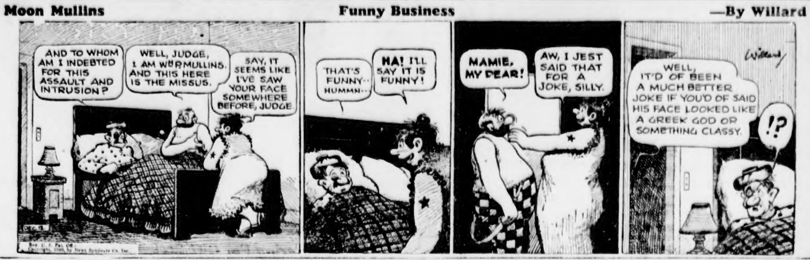
Moon Mullins Funny Business —By Willard



AND TO WHOM AM I INDEBTED FOR THIS ASSAULT AND INTRUSION?
WELL, JUDGE, I AM WØRMULLINS. AND THIS HERE IS THE MISSUS.
SAY, IT SEEMS LIKE I'VE SAW YOUR FACE SOMEWHERE BEFORE, JUDGE.
THAT'S FUNNY— HUMMH—
HA! I'LL SAY IT IS FUNNY!
MAMIE, MY DEAR!
AW, I JEST SAID THAT FOR A JOKE, SILLY.
WELL, IT'D OF BEEN A MUCH BETTER JOKE IF YOU'D OF SAID HIS FACE LOOKED LIKE A GREEK GOD OR SOMETHING CLASSY.

YEP, HINES IS MY TOUGHEST COMPETITOR. I TOLD HIM I WAS GOIN' ON TO CHUGSBURG. HE DOESN'T KNOW I STOPPED IN THIS TOWN INSTEAD.
HE ISN'T WISE THAT THE CYCLOPS' STORE HERE IS RIPE. HE'S STILL ON THE TRAIN TO BEAT ME TO CHUGSBURG!
AN' HE DOESN'T KNOW THAT MURPHY OVER AT CYCLOPS IS THE BEST PROSPECT IN THIS SECTION. ISN'T THAT A LAUGH!
HINES!

Dick Tracy Like Attracts Like —By Chester Gould

OH-YEEE-EEE!! A SKUNK!
